

Police Hunt for Missing Boy

NIGHT EDITION

LARGEST CLASS

BOY KIDNAPPED

His Father Had Received Several Threatening Letters

NEW YORK, June 22.—One of the most energetic hunts for a lost child ever set underway by the police is underway for Michael Scineca, son of a wealthy Italian physician, who was boldly kidnapped yesterday almost from under the very eyes of his parents by "black handers" who for three years have been threatening his kidnapping. Dr. Marione Scineca, the father, is one of the best known Italian physicians in the United States. When his boy was four months old and the physician, who had foregone a lucrative practice in the fashionable district to work among his own countrymen, was working hard for his people, one of his accumulations prompted demands upon him by blackmailing hands. Letter after letter was sent him, accompanied by threats that his son would be stolen if he did not pay $1000. He put the case in the hands of the late Lieut. Petrosino and the activity of the noted detective soon caused the letters to cease. So after Petrosino was assassinated in Sicily the "black handers" got busy again. Candy is believed to have lured the child far enough to permit the kidnapers to carry him off. The boy was playing in the hallway of the apartment house on the floor above the rooms occupied by his parents and was taken directly by the open door of the Scineca apartment by the kidnapers on their way to the street. Children with whom the child had been playing gave the alarm and told of a big man with whiskers who had lured little Michael to the street. The child went down to the street with the man and that was the last anybody saw of him. Dr. Scineca was last threatened on May 20, when a letter demanding money was received, accompanied by the threat, "If you fail us, we will take the blood of yourself and drink it."

The graduation exercises of the Lowell high school were held last night at the Lowell opera house and diplomas were presented to 219 young men and young women. It was the largest graduating class in the history of the school and the vast number of people who attended the exercises were well pleased with the program as arranged and carried out.

The speaker of the evening was Dean LeBaron Russell Briggs of Harvard University and his address was delivered in a manner which appealed to the audience and the pupils especially. When the curtain was raised a very impressive sight was presented. Seated on the stage were the members of the graduating class, the young ladies being attired in white while the young men wore suits of black. There was a profusion of flowers, carried by the young ladies, which lent attraction to the scene.

One of the features of the evening was the announcement of the Carney medal scholars, who by their diligent work during the several years they spent in the school earned their reward, and as each name was announced the recipient of the medal was applauded.

The Carney medal scholars were Elizabeth Irish, Aurora Lea Gaudette, Mary Janet Goodell, Charles Theophilus Pilote, Joseph Leo Crowley, Charles Edward Russell.

The program was as follows: March, National Emblem, American Orchestra. Chorus, Unfold, Ye Portals (Redemption). Salutatory, The Master Word, Elizabeth Irish. Semi-chorus, My Little Barque, Sem-chorus, My Little Barque.

Class ode, air, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," Words by Ruth Paris Wedge. We're thinking tonight of the days gone by, Happy and joyous days, When merry our laugh, our burdens And our young hearts light always. We're sad as we think those days are past And the hour is drawing nigh. When to teachers true and schoolmates dear We must breathe our sad good-bye.

Refrain. We're thinking tonight, thinking to-night. Thinking of the days gone by. Thinking tonight, thinking to-night. Thinking of the days gone by.

Dear school, though this life may lead us far O'er land and distant sea, No years can weaken the chords of love. That bind our hearts to thee. And when bright June shows the earth with flowers On each yet unborn year, On the wings of love will we return To thy old halls so dear.

Refrain. We're thinking tonight, thinking to-night. Thinking of the days gone by. Thinking tonight, thinking to-night. Thinking of the days gone by.

March America... American Orchestra. The organization of the class of 1910 is as follows: President, James Henry Rooney; vice presidents, Beulah Augusta Sturtevant, Charles Bradford Bartlett; secretary, Ruth Paris Wedge; treasurer, Paul Livingston Perkins.

Another pleasing feature was the announcement of the following names of pupils who have not been absent or late during their school course: Samuel Anthony Clement and Adolph Joseph Grunbler.

As is usual the graduating class made a gift to the school. The offering consisted of two beautiful pianos, reproductions of Della Robbia's children with musical instruments. The presentation was made by James Henry Rooney, president of the class, and the acceptance was by Franklin E. Johnson, chairman of the high school committee.

Dean Briggs' Address. The address of the evening was delivered by Dean LeBaron Russell Briggs and was as follows: "No good schoolmaster was ever confident that he could fit boys and girls for life. Boys and girls, open and transparent as they seem, are a mystery to those who watch their growth, and even more a mystery to themselves. Life is full of problems which must be met by the individual alone."

SUPERIOR COURT

Final Case Was Placed on Trial This Afternoon

Court Adjourns Tomorrow After the Busiest Session of 12 Weeks on Record—173 Cases Disposed of in That Time and Five of Them Alone Took Over Three Weeks

The Hill libel suits after a trial of eight days' duration went to the jury today. Judge Hardy will devote tomorrow's session to hearing motions on exceptions and will then adjourn the busiest session of the superior civil court in the history of Middlesex county. The court sat for twelve weeks and in that time disposed of 173 cases. When one considers the fact that four of the 173 cases alone took up three weeks and four days of the session, or over one-quarter, an idea may be obtained of the vast amount of business transacted in a short time.

SCARLET FEVER

Increase in Number of Cases in This City

The health of Lowell from an official standpoint is fairly good, but the health department is just slightly anxious about an increase in the number of cases of scarlet fever reported. This month thus far there have been 10 cases reported, and this is somewhat above the ordinary at this time of the year. The health department is watching the cases very closely, and the physicians are at work upon the problem of how to stem the increase, and inroads of this much dreaded disease.

Agent Bates said this morning that everything is being done to prevent the rapid increase of this contagious disease. With the close of the schools and therefore with less chance for the school children to come together, there seems to be no immediate danger of an epidemic. The number of cases is somewhat extraordinary for this time of year but still there has been months when as many as a hundred cases have been reported. "In my belief," said Mr. Bates, "there is not much occasion for alarm. We are well prepared for any emergency and will protect the public."

The reports at the health office show that the measles epidemic is now completely under control, and the disease among the children has abated to such an extent that all alarm is over. Last month there were 120 cases reported, and up to date there have been but 36 cases reported, showing a very material decrease for the month of June.

Diphtheria is still bothering the health authorities, and somewhat more than the usual number of cases have been reported. At present the board has under observation 22 cases. While it is rather unusual for this time of year, there are three cases of typhoid fever under consideration. Outside of these cases everything in the ordinary routine of the health department is more than progressing in a favorable manner.

The latter upon replying it says that he returned it to Wach's residence and in his absence left it with a man in the house, who claimed to be the boss. A few days later Wach called on him for the watch and on being informed that it had been left at his house said that he had not received it and that no one at the house had seen it. Finnegan, realizing that he had made a mistake in not delivering the watch personally to Wach, told him that he would make good to him by giving him his choice of another watch of the same price, without cost. Accordingly, he went to Wach's room and upon showing a case of watches Wach picked up two valued at $20 and $25, and refused to give them up stating that he would not give them up until he received his original watch. Finnegan then had him arrested for larceny. In court this morning Wach agreed to give back one of the watches and to pay the additional $2 for the $25 article. Upon so doing Judge Hadley dismissed the case.

MAN FATALLY SHOT LOWELL SOLDIER

Youth Did Not Know Revolver Charles A. Taylor's Resting Place Was Loaded Not Yet Known

BOSTON, June 22.—Abraham Berger, aged 28, married, of 85 Blossom street, Chelsea, a master teamster, was fatally shot in the office of the public city scales in Haymarket square at 2.45 yesterday afternoon by James E. McGonigle, Jr., 16 years old, of 135 Stanford street. Berger died at the relief hospital inside of an hour. The bullet entered his right cheek below the eye, coming out through the left temple.

Although young McGonigle was locked up by patrolman Costello of division 1 the police are satisfied that Berger's death was an accident.

The superintendent at the city scales is Herbert C. Davis of 368 Dudley street. He gave the boy odd jobs about the place, furnishing him with spending money and assisting him to receive an education.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Davis went to lunch, leaving McGonigle in charge of the office. Berger, who did the trucking for a Beverly street firm, drove onto the scales and seeing the McGonigle boy in the window asked him to weigh some material on the wagon. That done Berger entered the office.

While they were together McGonigle produced a revolver, which he owned, and holding it before Berger allowed him to look at it. As he turned the weapon over in his hands, he said to Berger, "ain't it a peach?"

Then there was a report and Berger dropped. McGonigle shouted to patrolman Costello, while James Cooney, an elderly man living at 164 Commercial street, hastened to the relief hospital.

Berger was removed to the hospital, while McGonigle was sent to division 1. Later Cooney was sent there, as were Abraham Feinberg of 78 5th street, Chelsea, who was employed by Berger until yesterday morning; Chas. E. Hutchins of 129 Spruce street, Chelsea, who replaced Feinberg; and John Donovan of 30 Hawkin street.

Shortly before 4 word was received at station that Berger had died.

Patrolman French of division 1 interrogated McGonigle and the witness, permitting the latter to go after they had told their stories. McGonigle, being under 17 years old, was turned over to probation officers from the juvenile court. Until this morning, when his case came before court, he could not be held on any other charge but that of being a delinquent.

The wife of Berger came to the relief hospital yesterday afternoon with Philip Rosenblatt and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Goldie Flaxman. They had a difficult time pacifying Mrs. Berger when she finally learned that her husband had died. "The Berbers have a young son named Isaac."

The police theory is that the revolver belonged in the office of the city scales and that McGonigle did not know it was loaded.

BALTIMORE, June 22.—Gen. Edward C. Jones of Binghamton, N. Y., commander of the 4th Massachusetts regiment of the Civil war, who came here to have the remains of Private Charles A. Taylor of Lowell, Mass., the first soldier killed in the war, disinterred, left here for Philadelphia last night sad and disappointed.

No remains were found, not even a bone or a piece of a coffin to show that anyone had been buried in the spot designated in the old Methodist cemetery.

In a temperature above 90 degrees the blind old general and his daughters journeyed out to the cemetery late yesterday afternoon. Leading members and officers of the department of Maryland, Grand Army of the Republic, including Adj. Gen. Sunstrum, gathered about the lot with the widows, Samuel Glenn, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark and Thomas Weatherstone, all of whom were sure that the remains of Taylor were there interred.

The general sat in a chair with an anxious expression on his face as the grave diggers dug and dug. After two hours of digging they had opened a trench eight feet deep, but nothing was found.

The general was led away from the futile search at sunset sadly convinced that his fond hopes of finding the remains of his soldier and placing them in an honored grave in Massachusetts had been shattered.

BLAMES REPUBLICANS

Governor Harmon Says They Broke Promises on Tariff Question

DAYTON, O., June 22.—Governor Harmon, addressing the democratic state convention today, said, in part:

"The voters of the country have often been imposed upon by tariff taxes levied ostensibly for public revenue, but really for private profit. But they were never before fooled by a promise of substantial reductions of these taxes in their favor as soon as their votes were secured. A power so insolent in its control of the lawmaking powers must be overthrown without delay and will be if the American people have not lost their spirit."

"There can be no relief as long as the interests which profit through tariff laws are allowed to frame them, as thus far they have always done. It has just been shown in the most striking way that these have complete command of the republican party as an organization. Insurgency is merely a pretext. They seek to keep the only agency by which they can be dislodged is the democratic party."

"The election of state officers will turn as it should on the important home affairs which are now the chief concern of our citizens. I shall refuse to be drawn away from the issue. What the present administration has done and tried to do is known to all and the question is, 'Shall it be approved or condemned?'"

"But good government means the same in Washington as it does in Columbus and if the discussions which the state campaign involves shall help the voters to elevate the public service in both capitals at once, I shall be doubly glad to have had a part in them."

Governor Harmon referred to the honor accorded him by the democracy of Ohio and the renewal of confidence and continued:

"I shall keep on trying to make the phrase 'serving the people' a true description and not a false pretense or a figure of speech. It expresses the vital idea of democratic government."

"The waste of public funds which to the extent of three hundred million dollars is openly confessed, is well worth looking after, especially now, when the people who have to make it up are everywhere struggling to meet the cost of living. And neither economy nor watchful regard for the common welfare is possible in Washington while the reign of the favored ones and the practical genius of our people finds each small expression in the conduct of their public business."

The resolutions committee last night by a vote of 13 refused to adopt an endorsement plank, the point which had been made an issue between William Jennings Bryan and Governor Harmon. N. D. Baker, representing Tom L. Johnson and supported by the Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) delegation, led the fight for the Bryan idea of endorsement, but he was hopelessly defeated in committee and four of his supporters were retired from the state central committee. Mr. Baker then threatened to renew the fight on the floor of the convention but it was generally conceded that he was in no mood for further battle.

Governor Harmon, whose renomination was assured, was credited with having absolute control of the convention and the platform was practically dictated by him.

Following the keynote speech of Alfred C. Crampton of Canton last night, in which he denounced Governor Harmon's plan for the presidency, further speeches along the same line were expected today. The platform will declare that the present campaign must be fought on state issues, will endorse the administration of Governor Harmon and will call for the enactment of a full democratic ticket on the ground that a hostile legislature and republican state officers have seriously hampered the governor in his efforts for needed reform and effective government. The republican party will also be attacked for alleged protection of graft.

SALEM'S MAYOR

Writes Poem Calling the World Dark

SALEM, June 22.—It seldom falls to the lot of a chief executive of a city and editor of a paper to have encountered more trials and tribulations than has been the case of Mayor Howard during the past year. His plant has been attacked several times, his salary has been seized by creditors and now he is out in the superior criminal court charged with libeling the editor of another paper.

Usually the editorials in Mayor Howard's paper, the Salem Dispatch, have been considerations of subjects pertaining to the material or political interests of this city. Yesterday's issue was void of editorials and in place was published the following lines:

Why was I made; or why this born
The sport of every wayward gale?
Launched on an ocean dark, forlorn:
A leaky, shattered, crazy sail.

Without a compass or a guide,
Without a rudder in a storm,
Without an anchor—where to ride,
And chased around in every storm.

No home, no haven, where to steer;
No chart, a sea without a shore;
No buoy, or light or beacon near;
No one to weep when I'm no more.

Dark is this world; my sun goes down,
No star of hope for me to rise;
The face of all things wears a frown,
Or on the earth or on the skies.

Go on, unlighted world, go on—
Pour all thy vengeance on my head,
And when the cup's last drops are gone
I, then, shall have no more to dread.

Long have I toiled to live—in vain
For life is naught, devoid of rest;
Long struggled with the strife for fame,
Long kept my sorrows in my breast.

AN AERIAL FLEET AT HOLY CROSS
 May be Established in Lowell Boys Will be This Country Graduated

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Officials of the signal corps of the United States army who believe that the recent great aerial flights accomplished have prepared the way for more generous recognition of the airplane as the factor in war and will lead to the establishment of an aerial fleet by the United States government, are gathering information with which to convince congress of the utility of aeroplanes.

The next session of congress, it is proposed to make a plea for an aerial fleet for experimental purposes and for actual service in scouting and carrying messages. The war department has observed that in Germany an airship has been constructed to carry messages and has information that Japan has been at work constructing an airplane fleet and has one airplane which can carry several men at a speed of sixty miles an hour. Major General J. J. Franklin Bell who is to take command of the Philippine division next December is quoted as saying:

"To just what extent heavier than air machines can be utilized in carrying weight is impossible to foresee, but I have personally no doubt that aeroplanes will be perfected in ten years at the most, if not in five, that may be relied upon to carry from three to five persons and probably a small amount of explosives in addition."

Have You Ever Asked Why BARSTOW BAY STATE RANGES Give the Longest Service?

THAT beauty is only skin-deep is a skin-deep saying. The true beauty of a BARSTOW BAY STATE RANGE lies far deeper than its mere elegant appearance. It goes back to the very beginning of the stove.

Rough and imperfect iron castings cannot be seen at first. Stove blacking smoothly applied will cover a multitude of defects. Only usage proves the existence of flaws in the iron work of a stove due to poor materials and defective molding.

Barstow Bay State Ranges

are made of the richest and best pig-iron. They are cast in perfect molds of clearest, finest sand. It costs us a great deal of money simply to prepare a ton of sand for use in molding.

Each casting when it comes from the molds, is subjected to the closest scrutiny. And every detail of smoothing, assembling and fitting is done under the most expert supervisors to be had.

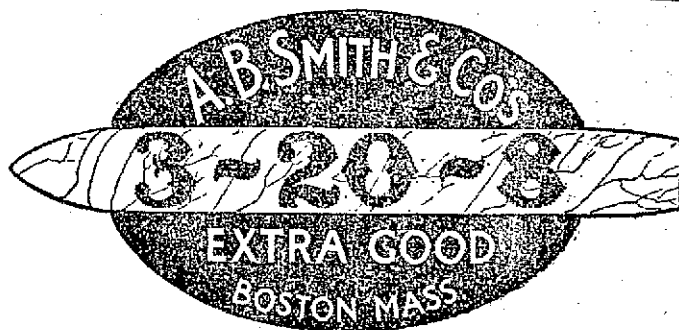

But we are not satisfied with giving you the finest quality range—we also give you the best range in quantity of service improvements. Note these extra facilities found only on ranges made by the BARSTOW STOVE COMPANY.

New Swing Fire Top; Gas Oven and Gas Cooking Shelves which can be used with or without coal fire; Simplicity Damper and Aluminum Plated Oven Rack.

There you have in brief the reasons for the world-wide reputation of BARSTOW BAY STATE RANGES. Come in and look them over, and convince yourself of their exceptional merits.

TYLER HAD OFF DAY

And Haverhill Won by a Close Score

Tyler was on the slab for Lowell against Haverhill yesterday, and he gave nine bases on balls, though allowing only four hits. The bases on balls were costly and assisted the visitors in getting the game. Tyler did well, however, to hold them down to two runs with so many free passes against him.

Mike O'Toole, who looks easy on the slab, held Lowell down to four hits. Fitzpatrick pitched in a manner with a homer over the left field fence, but after that there was nothing doing. Dickey, the first baseman, got fresh with Umpire Duffy and it cost him a five spot. Tom Fleming didn't play and was unusually quiet on the bench. Dineen, the new man, played third for Lowell and made a good impression as a fielder. He wasn't there at the bat.

First Inning
The home team started off in the first inning by scoring a run. Haverhill was first at bat. Noblett singled and Cullen hit to Cooney, who threw Noblett out at second and Fitz threw the ball to first for a double play. Anderson was third out on a fly to Blakely.

In the latter half of the inning Fitzpatrick cracked the second ball pitched him over the left field fence for a home run. Tenney hit to short left field and Noblett made a beautiful one hand running catch of the ball. Cooney singled and Fluharty hit to Noblett and died at first. Magee hit to O'Toole and was out at first.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 0.

Second Inning
In the second inning Moore drew a base on balls. Foulke fled to Blakely and the latter threw to first getting Moore for a double play. Merrill got base on balls but he was caught whole trying to steal second.

In Lowell's half Blakely hit to O'Toole and died at first. Dineen drew a base on balls but was nailed while trying to steal second. Sullivan singled to the left field fence but Tyler was third out on a fly to Foulke.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 0.

Third Inning
Haverhill tied the score in the third inning. Dickey got hit by a pitched ball and walked to first and then Sebastian fled to Magee. O'Toole hit to center field for a two bagger, scoring Dickey. Noblett hit to Tyler who threw to third getting O'Toole between the bases. Noblett tried to steal second and was nailed by Sullivan.

In the latter half of the inning Fitz fled to Foulke, Tenney hit to Merrill and was out at first and Cooney went out on strikes.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 1.

Fourth Inning
Haverhill forged to the front in the fourth inning by scoring another run. Cullen, the first man up, drew a base on balls. The next to second man Anderson sacrificed. Moore fled to Fluharty and Cooney traveled to third. Foulke singled scoring Cullen. Foulke stole second and a wild pitch sent him to third but he died there for Merrill drew a base on balls and was put out while trying to steal second. A relay throw, the ball being thrown to Fitz and the latter threw it to Cooney. Fluharty drew a base on balls and stole second. He went to third on Magee's sacrifice. Blakely fled to Moore and Dineen struck out.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 2.

Fifth Inning
Nothing doing in the fifth inning. Dickey fled to Fluharty, Sebastian struck out and O'Toole hit to Dineen and was out at first.

Sullivan hit to O'Toole and failed to reach first. Tyler struck out and Fitz fled to Noblett.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 2.

Sixth Inning
In the sixth inning Noblett and Cullen hit grounders to Dineen and were out at first. Anderson reached first on a base on balls. Moore fled to Blakely and was third out.

Tenney fled to Anderson and Cooney followed with a single. Fluharty hit a line drive which O'Toole gathered in and the latter threw to second for a double play.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 2.

Seventh Inning
Foulke opened the seventh with a single and went to second on Merrill's sacrifice. Dickey foul fled to Sullivan but before that he was fished for routing fresh with Umpire Duffy. Sebastian went to first on a base on balls and O'Toole hit to Tyler and was out at first.

Magee got a base on balls but was thrown out while trying to steal second. Blakely struck out and Dineen hit to Merrill and was out at first.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 2.

Eighth Inning
Haverhill had the bases filled in the eighth but failed to score. Noblett drew a base on balls and went to second on Cullen's sacrifice. Anderson and Moore drew bases on balls, filling the bags. Foulke sent a grounder to Dineen and the latter threw home, getting Noblett. Sullivan sent the ball to first for a double play.

Sullivan hit to Merrill and was out at first and Tyler second out on a fly to Noblett. Fitz hit to Merrill and was out at first.

Score—Lowell 1, Haverhill 2.

Ninth Inning

DIAMOND NOTES
Lynn here today.

Tyler gave nine bases on balls and yet held the winners down to two runs.

Both teams played an errorless game.

At the Army club last evening big Tom McLaughlin, who umpired in the New England league last year, was a second for Tom Kennedy in his bout with Bob Lefavour. In Kennedy's corner of the ring were seated "Dr." Charlie Green, Hugh Bradley, Duffy, Lewis, Engle, Barberich, Gardner and other members of the Boston American club.

Young McDevitt, who played right field for Lowell last year, all had great fun kidding the ex-umpire by applying baseball parlance to the prize ring.

Cooney is playing big league ball.

Dineen, the new third baseman, throws across finely, an important feature of third base work.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

Tuesday afternoon the P. A. C.'s traveled to the South common to meet the Edsons, champions of the school league. The game went to the Edsons by the score, 11 to 2, but wasn't played fair and as they were on their grounds cheating was done all through the game. The P. A. C.'s challenges the Edsons in another game to be played at the Textile School grounds where there can be fair playing and no cheating. If they do not accept this challenge they will be regarded as "sneakers." Send all answers to Henry Foulke, 8 Dracut St., City.

The Buntings want a game for Saturday next, June 25. Write to G. M. Roberts, 31 Potter street, city.

Next Saturday the O. M. I. Cadets and Crimson of the Lowell & Suburban leagues, will meet on the South common ball grounds in what promises to be a fast game. This is the second meeting of these teams, the first game resulting in a victory for the Cadets in a hard fought game in which it took 13 innings to decide a winner.

Quite a number of Lowell boxing fans went down to the Army club last evening and witnessed the Hill Papke-Twin Sullivan match. It was a slight waist party, for the 2600 members present were in their shirts and the fat fellows mopped their brows continuously.

The bout was not what the bunch

MISS HELEN TAFT.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Miss Helen Taft from the moment her mother arrives at Beverly, the last of June, will become active in social life. Though but nineteen years of age, it has been expected to see for there was little clean hitting and a pile of stalling on Sullivan's part. The Twin knew that he was up against it, and he stalled as much as he could, now and then giving a good jolt to the Thunderbolt. On the other hand, while Papke gave him quite a beating he had Papke guessing, and try as he would Papke couldn't put him away. He had Sullivan in bad in the 11th, but just as the dunc came to deliver the knockout punch Twin handed him one, and while it didn't knock him down it caused him to break ground in such a manner that he slipped to the ground. In the sixth Papke dropped Sullivan with a low one, but they shook hands over it and continued. Papke hit low frequently and used his head to butt with several times, while Sullivan was right there with the elbow. Referee Mulvihy Fluharty stood for it all, and his decision in favor of Sullivan was well received, though the Boston crowd yelled for a draw. It is the opinion of all who saw the match that Ketchel would do things to Papke if they ever meet. In the preliminaries Tom Flanagan of Cambridge, whom Freddie Maguire knocked out in two rounds in this city, was put away in three, by Dick Thomas of Orange. Tom Kennedy of Northampton received the decision over Bob Lefavour of Brockton after eight rounds.

BURKE KNOCKED DOWN
NEW YORK, June 22.—Jim Smith, the light heavyweight, almost knocked out Salior Burke, of Brooklyn, in a 10-round bout at the Fairmount A. C. last night. In the fifth round, he delivered a strong right arm swing to Burke's jaw, putting the sailor down for the count, of nine. Burke managed to stall for the rest of the fight, saving utter defeat.

Smith recently made a creditable showing against Joe Jeannette, but was knocked out not long ago by Stanley Ketchel.

HON. CHAS. H. ALLEN

Made Treasurer of the American Sugar Refining Co.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Announcement was made yesterday at the offices of the Amn. Sugar Refining Co. that Hon. Charles H. Allen of Lowell, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Co., and formerly assistant secretary of the navy and later first civil governor of Porto Rico, had been selected to succeed Arthur Donner as treasurer of the company.

Announcement was also made that John E. Parsons had expressed a desire that in view of his inability to give active attention to the company his resignation as a director be accepted and that it had been accepted by the board of directors with an expression of regret.

Charles H. Allen, the new treasurer of the American Sugar Refining Co., was born in Lowell in 1848. He has served in both branches of the Massachusetts legislature and was a member of congress from 1885 to 1889. He was the unsuccessful republican candidate for governor of this state in 1891. He was assistant secretary of the navy from 1898 to 1900 and governor of Porto Rico, 1900-1902.

DEATHS

STOUGHTON—Mrs. Sophia Stoughton passed away yesterday at the residence of a dear relative of hers, 32 Merrill street. Funeral announcement later.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Robert F. Conroy, the former well known labor leader, and Miss Mary E. Sheridan, a beautiful young resident of the Sacred Heart parish were united in marriage at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Sacred Heart parochial residence by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., provincial of the Oblate Order. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Susie Sheridan, and the best man was Mr. Edward Riley. The bride was attired in a handsome gown of pearl gray laces, and wore a white picture hat. She carried an immense bouquet of bride roses. The bridegroom's gown was of lemon colored laces, and she also wore a picture hat. She carried bride roses. After the ceremony the bride and groom returned to the home of the bride, 619 Lawrence street, where a reception was held and a wedding dinner was served. Only the immediate relatives of the young couple were present. There was a wealth of presents received from the numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Conroy. This evening they will leave for a bridal tour to southern New Jersey and will be at home after August 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keyes of High street celebrated the 11th anniversary of their marriage yesterday and this evening they will be entertained by the Chicken club.

COST OF LIVING LOWERED

One thing that the club will not do unless it is absolutely necessary is to go into court and fight objections against the race, coming from persons over certain parts of the course. The only real remonstrance which has come to light up to date is that which has been made by two property owners in Varnum avenue and as a result of their objections the club has decided that instead of going through Dunbar avenue the turn will be made at Lexington avenue. This will shorten the course by a little over a mile, but by expending some money Lexington avenue can be put in good condition and the turns will not be as severe as those which enter and leave Dunbar avenue.

Despite the fact that there are but practically two remonstrants to the races being held over Varnum avenue there are scores of people who reside in that street who are now kicking because the races will not be held over the regular course. The automobile club has decided that if the people who are now kicking because the races are not to be held over the regular course can fix matters with the principal remonstrants who threatened injunction proceedings, that the club will be only too glad to use the regular course.

Many letters from manufacturers of cars have been received by the Lowell Automobile club, the manufacturers signifying their intention of entering cars in the proposed races.

BIG AUTO RACE

Change to be Made in the Course

Plans for the two days of automobile racing to be held over the Merrimack Valley course in September are progressing rapidly and though it is likely that the course will be shortened by a little over a mile there is every indication that the affair will prove to be one of the biggest ever held in the east. While there will be but two days of racing this year the prospects are that there will be more entries in each race than there were last year.

The bill allowing the city council of Lowell and the selectmen of the town of Tyngsboro to close the roads during certain hours on different days during the races and for a week or more prior to the races, has passed the legislature and been signed by the governor, as is well known, and the counsel for the club are now drawing up a draft of a petition to be presented to the city council and later will draw up a similar one to be tendered to the selectmen of Tyngsboro.

The proposed races are to be conducted at the lowest possible expense, though that does not mean that the races will not be just as good as they were last year.

One thing that the club will not do unless it is absolutely necessary is to go into court and fight objections against the race, coming from persons over certain parts of the course. The only real remonstrance which has come to light up to date is that which has been made by two property owners in Varnum avenue and as a result of their objections the club has decided that instead of going through Dunbar avenue the turn will be made at Lexington avenue. This will shorten the course by a little over a mile, but by expending some money Lexington avenue can be put in good condition and the turns will not be as severe as those which enter and leave Dunbar avenue.

Despite the fact that there are but practically two remonstrants to the races being held over Varnum avenue there are scores of people who reside in that street who are now kicking because the races will not be held over the regular course. The automobile club has decided that if the people who are now kicking because the races are not to be held over the regular course can fix matters with the principal remonstrants who threatened injunction proceedings, that the club will be only too glad to use the regular course.

Many letters from manufacturers of cars have been received by the Lowell Automobile club, the manufacturers signifying their intention of entering cars in the proposed races.

IDAHO IS FIRST

Best Hitter in the American Navy

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The battleship Idaho is to enjoy for a year the coveted official honor of being the best hitter in the American navy. A comparison of the shooting performance of the battleships this year was made public yesterday at the navy department. The Idaho made a score with her guns of 46.12. The South Carolina gets second place, with a score of 42.55, and the Wisconsin third, with a score of 40.47. The New Hampshire is in sixth place, with a score of 38.41, the Connecticut in 16th, with 20.797, the Vermont in 19th, with 17.064, and the Rhode Island in 20th, with 17.048.

The battleships are competing for a trophy, their rank depending not only upon the hits of the guns, but upon their work with mines and torpedoes. While the target practice has been concluded by the battleships, only a few have done the required mining. Of those the Wisconsin stands at the head of those which have completed the competition, with a score of 45.394; the Maryland second, with 37.587; and the West Virginia third, with 22.264.

Of the vessels competing for the cruiser trophy for gunnery, the Charleston now leads, with a score of 21.075. In the competition for the gunboat trophy, the Mayflower stands at the head of the list of those that have fired with a score of 6.612. Among the vessels competing for the torpedo trophy, the Preble is the victor with a score of 90.928.

"INSURGENTS"

Are Still Trying to Depose Cannon

WASHINGTON, June 22.—A secret conference of a number of the leaders of the house "insurgents" was held late yesterday to discuss the subject of further activity at the present session. The question whether another attempt should be made to depose Speaker Cannon was broached and again a divided sentiment on the subject was disclosed.

Statements were submitted by different members, who had canvassed the situation and reports were made of careful count on the proposition. It was agreed that it was extremely doubtful whether enough votes could be obtained to carry through such a motion. One "insurgent" reported that he had carefully sounded the democratic side and had found that the democratic party to enter the congressional campaign with Speaker Cannon still the presiding officer of the house. Members of the minority, he said, believed their chances for carrying the house were improved with the issue of "Cannonism" still a live one. It was the unanimous opinion of the "insurgents," however, that the democrats would vote solidly to depose Speaker Cannon if the motion were made.

PROF. VINCENT

Discovers Anti-Typhoid Vaccine

PARIS, June 22.—Professor Vincent last night announced before the Academy of Medicine the discovery of an effective anti-typhoid vaccine which he has prepared by steeping typhoid bacilli in a weak solution of water and sodium chloride (common salt) with an admixture of ether.

Prof. Vincent made a number of experiments with animals, which, after being vaccinated without subsequent inoculation with typhoid germs. He also vaccinated thirteen persons, an examination of whose blood after the operation showed that it possessed to a high degree properties destructive of the typhoid bacillus.

Further experiments demonstrated the fact that the typhoid bacillus when placed in contact with the serum of the blood taken from the person vaccinated, lost all vitality.

PERETZ ARRESTED

IS CHARGED WITH PROCURING "WHITE SLAVES"

BOSTON, June 22.—Charged with procuring girls to take to Panama as "white slaves," Max Peretz was arrested early today on Dwight street at the instance of the Watch and Ward society.

Evidence against the man is claimed to have been secured by Miss Jeanette Adams, a settlement worker, who dared the dangers of the underworld to assist in the campaign of the Watch and Ward society.

It is charged that Peretz early today secured tickets for himself and four others for passage on the steamer Albatross, which sails next week Thursday, for Colon, Panama.

Peretz is claimed to have stated that young women could make at least $2000 a season in Panama and come home well off after paying expenses.

REPUBLICANS OPEN CAMPAIGN

SPRINGFIELD, June 22.—The "opening gun" in the republican state campaign was fired here last night at a dinner given by Rep. A. P. Langtry, and several other local republicans, at which the principal speakers were Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Burleigh, and Charles E. Hatfield of Newton, chairman of the republican state committee. The after-dinner talk was devoted mainly to discussing the desirability of re-electing Governor Draper, by means of a general get-together movement among republicans to carry victory along the line.

Lieut. Governor Frothingham also discussed the work of the recently prorogued legislature. He spoke in favor of the action in giving over the electric road the control of certain street railways and favored also the several other laws enacted affecting the railroad company. There about 75 republicans present.

NOTED LAWYER'S WILL

NEW YORK, June 22.—The will of Sydney Webster, noted lawyer, who died at his country home at Newport, R. I., was offered for probate here yesterday. The estate is left to Mrs. Webster and their son, Hamilton Pitt Webster, but no estimate of its value is made except the statement that the real and personal property each exceeds $10,000.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was 16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pitotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

TWO PARK QUESTIONS

Boys in Belvidere are playing ball in a vacant lot off High street and breaking windows, but they have no other vacant spot. If the city council is going to grant the money needed to complete that ball ground at Fort Hill park they should do so at once in order that the work may be done before the summer is out. That and the Livingston park matter should be settled at once and settled right by the appropriation of the money.

FOR A WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

The matter of a Workmen's Compensation Act is bound to come up for discussion in the near future to be urged for action upon the legislatures of the different states. It is rather strange that while twenty-two other countries have what is known as a "Workmen's Compensation Act," thus far there has been nothing of the kind adopted in the United States.

The subject, therefore, while an old one in other countries is comparatively new in this and the public will require to be educated upon it before any definite action be taken towards practical legislation.

In 1903 the governor appointed a committee to consider the relations between employer and employee with a view to reporting some acceptable substitute for the employers' liability act which seems to work a great injustice in many cases to the people who are injured and who try in vain to secure compensation through the courts. That committee actually reported such an act but it was promptly killed by unfriendly influences.

Now what would a Workmen's Compensation Act provide? What are its advantages over present methods in cases of accident? Would it specially benefit employer or employee? Would it be better for one or for both?

All these questions can be easily answered by any one who considers the scope of such an act as has been proposed and who at the same time considers how such questions are settled at the present time.

Under such an act there is a fixed rate of compensation provided for every injury to an employee whether the injury comes through his own negligence, the negligence of his employer or of some fellow employee. The only case in which a controversy could occur then, would be where a fraudulent attempt was made to secure damages without due cause or in other words in a trumped up claim for damages.

Were such an act in operation and a man had lost one hand, the act fixed the compensation and there would be no need of any litigation. There would be no delay, no waiting for tedious court trials. The injured man would get his money and that settled the matter. Suppose he lost a finger. The act provided a fixed compensation in a similar way and there was no room for controversy. If a man were disabled for life the act would provide for paying him half his wages for a number of years or else paying him off with a smaller amount in a lump sum if he so preferred.

The details of such an act might be taken from the laws adopted in other countries which could be adapted to every line of industry in this country with slight change. The compensation in accident cases might be less but if legal expenses and the cost of delay be reckoned it would be much more acceptable. It is of little benefit to a man to get a big verdict in court if he gets only half or one-fourth of the money. The effect would be to do away with the present system which operates almost entirely to the disadvantage of the person injured. When a man is injured in a factory under present conditions he is taken to a hospital and the insurance company, which has his employer insured against accident liability sends men out to get every detail of the accident, to interview witnesses, to strengthen their own case and weaken as far as possible the claims of the injured man. When the man gets out of the hospital, possibly after months of suffering, he consults a lawyer in regard to a suit for damages. Then comes the question as to who is responsible for the accident. The employer may make it appear that the injured man himself was responsible and that, therefore, he is not entitled to any damages. If a fellow workman caused the accident it will mitigate the case for the company, but if the accident was due to the negligence of the superintendent or some official of the company then the company is directly liable. But even in that case the injured man does not get the compensation to which he is entitled. Without funds perhaps he is obliged to put the case in the hands of a lawyer and fight it in the courts. The court docket of every county in the state is congested with tort cases of this kind, so that it is difficult for citizens to get other cases tried within a reasonable time.

But what results finally from the suit for damages by men injured in a factory for instance? In the majority of cases he gets nothing, and when he does secure a verdict a large portion of it goes to pay legal expenses because these cases are fought to the last ditch. Is not this an injustice to the man who meets with accident in a factory or in the employ of a public corporation of the city? Would it not be very much better for all concerned to have the law so framed that when an accident occurred the person injured should receive a fixed amount according to the extent of his injury? The employer should charge up to running expenses the amount of insurance against such loss and it would probably not amount to as much as is now spent in litigation under the present law.

This question is one that should appeal very strongly to labor organizations. The Workmen's Compensation Act would be a vast benefit to the working classes. It would be a protection against partial disability without compensation and also a protection against the long and wearisome fight for damages waged through the courts already crowded with such cases. So far as we can judge of the merits of the proposition, we believe that every labor organization in the country should take the matter up and push it to the front with a demand for enactment at the earliest possible moment.

In a state and a country where so many progressive methods have originated, we are rather surprised that this method of settling questions of damage in accident cases has so long escaped attention. We believe, however, it will be one of the live issues of the near future and that the time is not far distant when an act of this kind will be adopted in Massachusetts. In this matter as in the legislation for shorter hours and against child labor Massachusetts should be a leader among the states.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton is completing, for the summer, a national organization of boy scouts, begun some years ago. One of the most important forms of this activity will consist in running a camp at Silver Bay, Lake George, where he will train 150 picked young men to act as camp leaders.

Josephine Daskam Bacon (Mrs. Seton) will spend the summer as usual at her country place in Belvidere, Westchester county, and expects to devote as much time to a new novel as to a stable, kennel, barn yard, pig pen, dairy, ice house, and garden—to say nothing of a nursery and the servant problem—permit.

An interesting feature of commencement at Yale this year will be the presence of the oldest living graduate, Henry P. Hedges, of Bridgehampton, Long Island, who was graduated in 1838. Judge Hedges, though well along in his ninth decade, is in good health and retains his mental powers unimpaired. He is to deliver the main address on the Fourth of July at the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the village of Bridgehampton.

Robert A. Millikan, associate professor of physics at the University of Chicago, who has contributed to electrical science as the result of experiments extending through many years, is a leading authority on electricity. He was graduated from Oberlin college in 1891, and received the degree of master of arts from the same institution in 1893. He received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Columbia University in 1895, and studied in the universities of Berlin and Göttingen the following year. He joined the University of Chicago faculty as an assistant in physics in 1896, and was made an associate professor in 1901. He is a member of the executive council of the American Physical society.

David Ranken, Jr., one of the wealthiest citizens of St. Louis and founder of the school of mechanical trades bearing his name, has deeded his estate, valued at more than $2,000,000, to be used in the maintenance and enlargement of this institution, which promises to become one of the largest schools of its kind in the world. The announcement of Mr. Ranken's endowment, under which he reserves less than $3000 for his support, was made public by the trustees when the last deed of transfer had been signed. The property conveyed consists of land known as the Ranken tract. Mr. Ranken's home, stock in the Illinois Central and Rock Island railroads and of the Mississippi Valley Trust company, Mercantile Trust company, Boatmen's bank and Merchants' Laclede National bank.

At the meeting of the New York Normal college executive committee it was decided to establish a chair of physiology and hygiene. Dr. Margaret B. Wilson, associate professor of natural science since 1906, has been appointed. Three of the associate professors have been retired at their own request. One of the three, Miss Emily Ida Conant (psychology) was the first woman to go to Sweden, in 1888, to study the Lloyd system of manual training. On her return she introduced the method here, and conducted a class in the work at the Normal college. Previous to that, in 1872, she had studied the kindergarten methods under a pupil of Froebel's and was instrumental in starting the first free kindergarten in this country, in connection with Normal college. She was also a pioneer among women in obtaining the doctor's degree. The others who were retired were Miss Frederica S. Constantine (German) and Miss Estey Buchanan Davis (Latin).

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

"The Fairy Farm" (that the Jos. J. Flynn stock company is putting on at Lakeview theatre every afternoon and evening this week, is pleasing every one who has seen this beautiful New England play. It is a play along the line of "The Old Homestead," although being very much unlike it and is full of heart throbs and laughter and replete in human interest.

That Mr. Flynn has used excellent judgment in the selection of his players can be seen by a visit to this cosy little playhouse. Mr. James Thatcher, who is the leading man, has already won for himself a host of friends by his acting in the part of "Nathan," that he is playing this week, and Miss Florine Farr, the leading lady, is also very pleasing in the part of "Lucy," and bids fair to have as large a following as any of the players who have ever played at the park. Performances will be given every afternoon and evening, this week, whether rain or shine, for the theatre has been entirely renovated and performances can be given as well when it is raining as when the sun is out, and seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Sherburne's.

THEATRE VOYONS

In vaudeville James J. Corbett has been offering for several years acts that have pleased the public greatly but none of them has been as clever or as interesting as is the picture posed by him entitled "How Championships are Won and Lost." It is being shown today at the Theatre Voyons and is making a big hit there. There is just enough boxing in it to make it interesting at the present time without giving more than the average woman cares to see. There is fun, instruction and amusement in every minute of the picture and it is well worth seeing. "The Russian Lion," tells a dramatic story of two wrestlers who meet in this country after years of separation. The story is a good one and incidentally much interesting training for wrestling is shown. There are two real comedies and the musical selections are excellent.

EMPIRE THEATRE

One of the long looked for events, the greating of Roosevelt, the world's best known man, is something every one is interested in. And for those who could not give up the time to go to New York to welcome Roosevelt, he comes tomorrow to the Empire Theatre where they may welcome him. This is one of the most attractive moving pictures ever presented, being of so much interest and appealing to so many.

ROOTS, HERBS AND BARKS

You can no doubt recall the collection of roots, herbs and barks your grandmother made every fall for the family medicine chest. It is interesting to note that the most successful remedy for female ills had its origin more than 2000 years ago in one of these home medicine chests, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made today in immense quantities from those same roots and herbs with extreme accuracy, care and cleanliness.

BOARD OF POLICE

All Up for the South Common Midway

At the regular meeting of the board of police held last night it was voted to reduce the charge for permits for shows on the midway at the South common on the Fourth of July. Heretofore the prices have been rather high. For instance the board (in reality the city) has charged from $1 to $10 for permits while the park department has imposed charges of from $7 to $10 for land grants.

As a result of many complaints having been received both by the park commissioners and members of the police board it was deemed advisable to make the reduction in the price of permits.

Supt. Whittey was present at the police board meeting and held a conference with the board. The highest charge will now be $5, and the reduction on the other sorts of permits will in corresponding ratio.

The board took the following action in regard to minor licenses:

Licenses granted:

To sell ice cream, etc., on the Lord's day: Harriet A. Walker, 33 Kinsman street; Lewis Wiener, 60 Bridge street; Angelo Albani, 127 East Merrimack street.

Hawker and peddler: Athos G. Thonopoulos, 433 Bridge street; Christos C. Avzol, 66 Suffolk street; Harrison Music Pub. Co., by Arthur H. Harrison, 335 Prairie ave., Providence, R. I.; Sophie C. Foster, 678 Bridge street; James Manolas, 479 Market street.

Express: Sturgis George, 170 Suffolk street; Boston & Lowell Express Co., Frank J. Shiebler, Melrose.

Special police: Emmanuel J. Grenier, for boat house, Varnum avenue, and vicinity.

Granted leave to withdraw: Application of Sal Steinberg for store show. Revocation: Special police warrant of Richard J. Murlagh.

HORNE COAL CO.

Continued

"The measure of your success may depend on the measure of your intelligence; but it is truth and devotion that simplify life. If ever you meet a man who guides a school or church or nation through all sorts of danger—as, for example, Lincoln—you will find in him something childlike. His high purpose kills all affectation."

"In this sense preparation for life is simple, because the principle is high and pure; but it does not follow that achievement is easy. The greatest things are simple, but they are none the less hard to attain. I am not so blind as to believe that any school or any teacher can teach greatness. Great art, says Ruskin, never was nor will be taught. It is the expression of the spirits of great men. As this is true of the so-called fine arts, it is also true of the high art of life. Yet, somehow, the spirit of a good school, like the spirit of a good mother, guards and inspires the boys and girls who have gone out from it."

"The good opportunities of life are so numerous that you cannot use half of them, and there is considerable danger that among the things you leave out will be intellectual work; and there is also danger that you will attempt many things and accomplish nothing. In college or out of college, do not mistake the enthusiasm of youth for ability to keep going day and night, indefinitely. At 20 you can not do that; at 20 the attempt will make short work of you."

"I assume that you all want to lead a square, clean life; but there is no use in pretending that to lead such a life is simple and easy. It is better than that: it is complex and hard—worth fighting for. When tempted, you may need all of the help you can get from God, or man, or woman."

"Every one of us should be democratic, remembering that democracy is not suppression of the rich, but the working of rich and poor on equal terms so far as they have equal merit. President Eliot never said a wiser thing than when he reminded Harvard students that Washington, who had his clothes carefully made for him in London, and Lincoln, who got his clothes where he could, were both of high service to their country, and that no one could prophesy from what class the best would come. Some people are so determined to give the Lincolns a chance that they have no use for the young Washingtons. That is not democracy."

"Not the least part of our mission is to keep undified the spirit of poetry in our lives. The poetry I mean is what keeps us reverent and humble, rolls the mist away from the mountain peaks. It is the faith that loses its poetic fervor. To you the treasures of time are open. Do not adopt a scheme or drift into a habit of life which will not suffer you to patch the heavenly garment which will make you whole. This is another way of saying, do not be afraid of being romantic. So long as you have principle to keep from seeing romance in bad things, and humor to keep you from sentimental folly, be romantic if you will, and be the better for it. Enthusiasm is your right and your glory. If it leads you to a foolish blunder now and then, save yourself by common sense. There are few groves of human beings more interesting than boys and girls going out into the world. Is there no word that is yours and yours only, nothing but the old exhortation to the old virtues? No, there is nothing but this: Speak the truth; do your work and see the glory of it all. Do your work—not just your work and no more, but a little more; that little more which is worth all the rest. Put your heart into it, and the sky will be clear. Then, out of your very doubt and suffering, shall come the supreme joy of life."

Mayor Meehan

The diplomas were presented by Mayor John F. Meehan, who spoke in part as follows:

It would task the imagination to conceive a position more honorable than that which falls to you on this felicitous occasion. Your feelings at this time are those of rapture and delight. I almost envy your joy. You have parted with the past, and your eyes are toward the future. Your dreams and expectations are big with hope and buoyant with rosy promises. You are young, you are just entering the happy morning of life and with exultant hearts are looking forward to the career that lies before you. You are felicitating yourselves upon a period of past successful toil. And you do well. You have undergone your probation, have met the final ordeal of your academic course, and acquitted yourselves with credit to your teachers and honor to your city. The diplomas you will receive, the prizes you have won, the medals to be taken, all bespeak your assiduity and your accomplishments and give you the right henceforth to be numbered among the scholars of the land. You ought to be—I am sure you are. I see it in your glowing faces—supremely proud and happy."

"All here present are your friends: those who love you as the apple of their eye, as the tendrils of their hearts. Those who love you with all the fidelity of home and the ties of kindred, are here to enhance, if possible, the gladness of this occasion. Here are the members who direct and govern the schools of our beloved city, here too are the faithful teachers, who have given the undivided loyalty of their hearts and the undivided vigor of their intellects to the work of education. All are here to give you honor, to felicitate you, to tender you their fervent congratulations and to indulge the pleasing hope that the successes which crown your academic careers are only an earnest, a foretaste, of the greater triumphs that await you in the broader fields of activity, in the great arena of life, upon which you are to enter."

I predict, I asseverate, you will not soon forget this night. Other triumphs I hope will await you. Your future efforts will be crowned with the shining signet of success. You will become happy, prosperous and honored; although God forbid, adverse fortune will greet you as you descend through the valley of the years; yet whether you tread the thorny paths of adversity or walk in the smiling fields of prosperity, whether in joy or exultation, in sadness and depression, the memories of this night will steal back upon you, the trials and triumphs of the old days will rise in the path of recollection and with them, perhaps may also come a feeling of sadness and longing."

But alas, there is no beautiful alchemy of thought, no power of necromancy, whereby we can live life over. And now you go forth for the fulfillment of your mission. You are yet untired, but I pray you may prove true. Oh! be sure to begin right. Lay your plans in wisdom and prudence, and you will carry them to success."

DENTISTS OUTING

At Canobie Lake a Delightful Affair

LAWRENCE DEFEATED HAVERHILL AT BASEBALL

Haverhill Did Not Care to Play Lowell—Wrestling Bout Not on Program—Events of the Afternoon—Lowell Defeated Lawrence and Haverhill in Tug of War.

The Dental Association of the Merrimack Valley—Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill, held their annual outing at Canobie Lake yesterday, and a more delightful day could not have been selected. Although hot elsewhere, there was a delicious breeze from the lake all day and towards evening the scenes of the golden sunset through the trees caused the remaining members of the party to rejoice that they had delayed for but rarely in the course of a year does the sun show such a deep red glow as it shed last evening on valley, field and hill, with such glorious effect when seen shimmering through the trees and reflected from the bosom of the lake.

THE TUSSELE IN WHICH DR. RUSSELL THREW DR. FINGLETON

In the forenoon a ball game between picked teams from Lawrence and Haverhill was the attraction, and after a contest of seven innings it closed in favor of Haverhill, the score being 9 to 8.

Umpire Whalen is a Lawrence man and he was roundly abused for giving the game to the rival city. It was intimated that Haverhill and Lowell should have it out on the diamond in the afternoon but it was announced that Dr. Walker would be umpire, and he was quoted as saying that it would never be said of him that he decided against his own city. The Haverhill men in spite of the heat got a case of cold feet and preferred other sports for the afternoon.

DR. WALKER AS SKETCHED BY DR. DOWNS

The dinner at the pavilion was one of the enjoyable features of the day. The members of the party singing all the popular songs to orchestral accompaniment.

While the party was leaving the ball field for dinner an incident not down on the program occurred and afforded much amusement. It was a wrestling bout between Dr. Russell and Dr. Fingleton. The latter tackled Dr. Russell, long and lank, and much his senior in years. After a sharp tussle Dr. Russell threw Fingleton squarely on his back. There was a struggle for which would get the second fall, but before either got up Fingleton worked a half Nelson on Russell doubling up his long figure in a manner that might easily have resulted in a broken neck but happily the champion escaped without serious injury and won great applause.

The results of the afternoon sports were as follows: Game of quoits, won by Haverhill against Lowell and Lawrence; standing jump, Dr. Schacke; Dr. Donovan, second, both of Lawrence; 50 yards dash, Dr. Schacke, Dr. Lynch second; potato race, Mrs. Donovan, Lawrence; Davis, of Lowell; high jump, Dr. Lynch first, Dr. Schacke second.

The quarter mile walk was won by Dr. Charles Snyder, making record time. The tug of war, however, was the most exciting feature of the afternoon. Lowell first pulled with Lawrence, scoring a signal victory. Then Haverhill put a team of her strongest men against Lowell, but went down in ignominious defeat. The Lowell team consisted of Drs. Hugh Walker, C. E. Snyder, W. E. Knapp, W. H. Pepin and F. G. Guillard. Dr. Darling who was prominent in the quill and jumping games was a great rooter in the tug of war.

The committee in charge of the outing were: Dr. Walker, Dr. Snyder, C. E. Snyder; Lawrence, Drs. Frank Lema, McKay; Haverhill, Drs. Stannard, Mitchell and Leonard. Dr. Downs, of Lowell, made a number of comic sketches of incidents of the day, one of which shows Dr. Walker ready to serve as umpire in a baseball game that didn't come off. Altogether the outing was most enjoyable, proving conclusively that the Dental Association is made up of a lot of jolly good fellows who know how to enjoy themselves.

RAT WENT MAD

Made Furious Attack on Manchester Man

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 22.—A mad rat ferociously assailing the slumbers of Peter Furnace, his wife and infant daughter yesterday, lacerated the baby severely, knocked a lamp out of the hand of her father as he arose to answer her cries and amid the flames attacked Furnace again and again. A lucky stroke of an ice pick ended its raid on the Furnace household, but before a patrolman was at the door with a burglar in his mind. The three months' old baby was badly hurt about the wrist and ankles. The fire loss was slight.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Hans Bander, a Swiss banker en route to the west, where he says he intends to invest $50,000 in Chicago and Goldfield properties, is detained at Ellis Island pending decision from Washington whether he shall be admitted to this country. He was a first class cabin passenger on the Kaiser Augustus Victoria with Col. Roosevelt.

HORSE AND WATER SHOW

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 22.—On the eighth lap of a five mile automobile race held yesterday afternoon at the Manchester driving park, as the feature event of the annual horse and motor show, George W. Upton, driving a Cadillac, narrowly escaped death when the steering knuckle on his left front wheel broke and the wheel came off. Although going at the rate of fifty miles an hour, Upton applied the brakes so slowly that the car was not overturned, but ploughed up the ground with its axle for a hundred and fifty feet. Upton was unhurt. The race was won by the E. M. P. car, driven by Daniel Sullivan, who made the Ave miles in eight minutes.

HEAVY DAMAGE

WATERVILLE, Me., June 22.—Thousands of dollars damage was done in this section in about 15 minutes yesterday afternoon by a hailstorm. The hailstones were mostly an inch or more in diameter and fell with great force, cutting all growing crops to pieces. Fruit trees were also badly damaged. Hundreds of panes of glass were broken in the city.

THE PLATFORM

That Vermont Republicans Will Discuss

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 22.—A draft of the platform to be submitted to the committee on resolutions of the republican state convention to be held at Montpelier on June 30, subject to additional amendment before the convention, has been given out in advance to invite public discussion.

The principal features of the platform, the greater part of which is devoted to state issues are as follows: "We unhesitatingly declare ourselves in sympathy with that public sentiment that makes for increasing progress along the lines blazed by the patriotic leadership of Theodore Roosevelt and followed by his illustrious successor in the presidency, William Howard Taft.

"We are proud to express our hearty sympathy with the high purposes, and our admiration for the devoted labors of President Taft in his conduct of the national government.

"We desire to emphasize our belief that the time has come when adjustment of tariff schedules should be taken out of politics. The revenue act of this great government should no longer be subjected to the caprice of local or sectional interests or other undue influences in the general revision by congress, but its schedules should be amended by detail, from time to time, under the suggestion and counsel of a non-partisan board or commission whose function it should be to note the constant adoption of this statute to the varying conditions of trade and economies along the methods of simple business prudence and national common sense.

"We commend the proposed creation by congress of a national department of public health.

"We believe that laws should be enacted tending to husband the natural water power and encourage and safeguard its development as to promote the widest possible distribution of the resultant economic benefits among our own people in preference to an outside ownership that may simply seek to divert a power originating in Vermont to uses beyond its borders."

CHELMSFORD

The "Ellis class" of the Central Baptist church held its annual "Ladies' Night" last evening with a large attendance.

It has been the custom to give each member of the Christian Endeavor society who graduates from the high school a present and so just before the opening of the evening's program of entertainment, Miss Estelle Feindel was presented a beautiful fan. The program which proved very enjoyable, included selections by the Ellis class quartet, Messrs. Blackadar, Briggs, Ellis and Wiggins; songs by Mr. Blackadar; piano solos by Eugene Smith, and songs by A. P. Briggs, Rev. Mr. Ellis, Stanley Seaton and Raymond Dutton. At the semi-annual meeting of the class held in the church parlor last Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: President, Geo. Blackadar; vice president, Frank O. Dutton; secretary and treasurer, Royce Dutton; teacher, Rev. C. H. Ellis; assistant teacher, A. P. Briggs.

WRESTLING BOUTS

GREAT CLASH OF NATIONALITIES FRIDAY NIGHT

The Lowell Wrestling club will provide a regular feast of wrestling at Associate hall Friday evening when the best program line of sport ever offered in Lowell will be given.

There will be two preliminaries consisting of Kid Pappas of this city and an unknown Canadian wrestler and John Killonis, the local Greek welterweight. Those who have seen Killonis and Pappas go, know that these matches alone will be worth the price of admission.

There will be two big final events. The first will be William Demetrial, the Greek heavyweight champion and Ali Hussein, the Armenian heavyweight champion. The second will be Jack Leon, the Russian heavyweight vs. Harry Litovskiy, George Hackenschmidt's wrestling partner. Thus the meeting will be a clash of nationalities that in itself ought to be most interesting. Popular prices will prevail.

WILLIAM H. SMITH

SURPRISED BY FRIENDS OF THE LOWELL HOSIERY

On the occasion of his birthday, Monday, William H. Smith, overseer of dyeing at the Lowell hosiery works, was pleasantly surprised by a number of his friends at his home, 47 Chaire street, when they presented him a handsome umbrella and an alligator leather cigar case. The presentation was made by William D. Cary. The rest of the evening was devoted to games and a general social time.

CAR JUMPED TRACK

Four Persons Fatally Injured at Coney Island

NEW YORK, June 22.—At least four persons were fatally injured and a dozen others seriously hurt early today when two crowded cars of a scenic railway on the Bowers at Coney island, running at terrific speed, jumped the track and dropped a sheer 80 feet to the ground. Two cars of the big switchback had been filled and hauled up the incline and the party, laughing and shouting, plunged down the first steep. Up the next incline the cars shot to the high level of the scenic road and began to drive down at a mile a minute pace.

Something went wrong with the mechanism and as the cars were dashing around the first turn the rear car jumped the track, dragging the forward car with it. Ten of the occupants were hurled from the cars and went crashing down amongst the scenery, falling to the ground where they lay unconscious. Six went down with the first car. They were pinned last beneath the wreckage.

These last were the ones most seriously injured. Five of them, Misses Minnie Cobalt, Tessie Erierson and Rose Wilson, all young girls, Richard Raddemacher and Manuel De Colo, are residents of Brooklyn. The sixth is Harry Fletcher, 20 years old, of Los Angeles. Fractures of the skull were sustained by the three young women, besides broken bones and other multiple injuries. De Colo is internally injured, his legs and back and both arms are broken, and Raddemacher's skull is fractured. Fletcher's injuries were reported to be concussion of the brain and the breaking of four ribs. Spectators of the frightful plunge screamed in terror and the panic was increased when someone switched off the electric lights. The police had hard work quelling the panic. The six persons who had gone down with the falling car were found pinned under the wreckage and with the other less seriously injured were hurried off to hospitals.

The man in charge of the diving car escaped injury. He could not explain the accident, but declared that it was unavoidable.

SMITH RESIGNS THE EDSON TEAM

Manager Springs Surprise on Owners

Manager John Smith tendered his resignation to the Lowell Baseball association last evening, the resignation to take place immediately. The resignation came as a complete surprise to the owners of the club who were entirely satisfied with Mr. Smith's work and they tried to have him reconsider his decision. That matters were not breaking good was not his fault and it was thus explained to him by the owners, but John had his mind made up and declined to withdraw his resignation.

Smith was decidedly popular with the players and they will all regret his departure from the team. He was absolutely fair and impartial in all his dealings and frank in his statements to the players. They always knew where he stood, as did the owners, and he always worked hard for the success of the team.

THIEF TOOK CASH

WHILE CHILDREN WATCHED THE BURGLAR WORK

SACO, Me., June 22.—Mrs. Milla Decker of 24 Maple street went down town shopping yesterday forenoon, leaving her two small children to keep house.

The children were playing in the yard when they heard someone in the house, and supposing their mother had returned they went in to see what she had bought them for staying at home and being good children. Instead of their mother, they found a big, dirty man rummaging the bureau drawers. The thief, who was evidently a tramp, was not alarmed when he saw the children. They watched him through the bureau drawers. He found a purse containing $11, and pocketing the money and hiding the little Deckers goodby, he started for the railroad track.

When Mrs. Decker returned she notified the police and they started the hunt for the thief. The Portland officers were given a description of him.

GOVERNOR DRAPER

REFUSES TO INTERFERE IN THE MCCARTHY CASE

BOSTON, June 22.—Gov. Eben S. Draper's reply to the petition of Surveyor of the Port Jeremiah J. McCarthy, filed on June 14 through his attorneys, ex-Attorney General Herbert Parker and Walter A. Webster, asking that the governor remove the civil service commission because of its failure to approve his appointment as fire commissioner of the city of Boston, was given out yesterday. The governor replied that he does not think it intended that he should control the discretion of the commission, and that, inasmuch as their work in general has been satisfactory, he does not deem it within his province to review their findings in an individual case.

He further says that, as regards the charge of erroneous interpretation of the law by the commission Mr. McCarthy's remedy, if he has one, lies elsewhere. In short, he considers that no action on his part is necessary, and he therefore refuses to refer the petition to the council.

Presented Gift to Manager Condon

The members of the Edson school baseball team, champions of the Grammar school league, gave Manager Jack Condon a genuine surprise this morning. Just after graduation exercises at the school, the boys called for Janitor Condon and told him that they appreciated the interest he has taken in them for several years past, and assured him that they felt the credit for their championship standing in the league is due greatly to his advice and management. Then they presented him a Gillette safety razor. Manager Condon was taken by surprise but he told the boys that though the school term is ended, he would be on hand during the vacation and as the common is handy, he would be glad to meet the boys, and in case the Grammar school league season is continued during the summer, he felt sure that the Edsons would not lose their standing. As a parting word to the young players, "Jack" said "All we want is another crack at those Bartlett school lads just to show them that the last victory over them was no fluke."

LOWELL BOYS

Graduate From Georgetown Law School

Benjamin A. Maloney, now holding a responsible position in the solicitor's office at Washington, D. C., and who recently was graduated with high honors from Georgetown University Law school, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Maloney of Summer street. Mr. Maloney and Mr. Robert Watson, another Lowell boy, attended the law school in their spare moments, and after completing the course were graduated with honors. Mr. Watson is at the capital yet, but will be home in a few weeks on a vacation.

AN INJUNCTION

Issued Against Strike Pickets in Haverhill

BOSTON, June 22.—A temporary injunction was granted in the superior court yesterday to Hillard & Tabor, boot and shoe manufacturers of Haverhill, against C. F. Harrington of Salem and officers and members of Edgemakers' Independent Union, local 4, restraining the defendants from interfering with workmen employed by the plaintiffs. It was declared that the defendants had made threats against workmen, and had picketed the shop. There has been a strike at the shop.

STATE TICKET NAMED

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 22.—Indorsing the "wise, conciliatory" administration of President Taft, but laying on the table by an overwhelming vote a resolution "reaffirming our noble support of the policies promulgated by Theodore Roosevelt," the Minnesota state republican convention met yesterday and nominated a full ticket. The delegates also endorsed the work of all Minnesota members in congress "for their efforts in endeavoring to secure legislation in the interests of the people."

Gov. A. O. Berghard was nominated for re-election by acclamation. The insurgent element obtained the passage of a resolution in favor of the conservation of national resources along the lines suggested by Theodore Roosevelt, but efforts to get favorable action on a resolution endorsing "other Roosevelt policies" and a resolution denouncing the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill as a "regulation of the pledges of the republican party to the American people" were overwhelmingly defeated.

BILL REPORTED

To Stop "White Slave" Traffic

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Mann "White Slave" bill, designed to prevent transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of women and girls, was favorably reported to the senate yesterday by the committee on immigration. A minority report was filed by Senator Hayburn, who has led a long fight against the measure income. The house passed the bill early during the present session. The measure would make it a crime for anyone to transport any woman or girl for immoral purposes or to knowingly procure a ticket to be used by a woman in interstate or foreign commerce going to a place for immoral purposes.

YESTERDAY AT AUCTION

J. E. Conant & Co., carried out their program yesterday of several local sales precisely as advertised. The shed and lot in the rear of West Third street belonging to the Hildreth estate was sold to O. F. Prentiss for $525 and the taxes for the current year. At the sale of the Ryan residence something not unusual at local sales took place. After the terms and conditions of sale had been read and bids were called for, $2500 was quickly bid and then $2000, then $2700 and then $2800. Mr. Conant was very suspicious of the bidding, because to him it was so artificial, but the property was struck off to the man who bid $2800. It was not his intention to take it. He was what is commonly known as a "by bidder," just to help the price of the property along for his friend. Then the statement was made by the auctioneer that the property was pledged without limit or reserve to the highest bona fide bidder under his name and over the signature of the administrator of the estate, that he was there to sell the property, not to fool the public, that that was what he proposed to do, and that no bid was to be made unless by a party who was prepared to comply with the terms and conditions of sale. The property was finally sold to Robert Barris, a bona fide bidder, for $2537.50 plus the taxes for two years. "By bidding" or illegitimate bidding in the interest of the owners very much hurt the sale of the property. There is a law against this dishonest work and it should be enforced. Immediately after the Ryan sale, or at 5 o'clock, the three cottages on Cottage street belonging to the E. W. Hoyt or Felton estate were sold. No. 12 to John Hall for $1855; No. 14 to John Hall for $1625; No. 16 to John Hall for $1777.50, or $5267.50 for the three plus the taxes for the current year.

The sales were well attended. The bidding, particularly at the Cottage street sale, was remarkable to say the least. It certainly appeared as pleasant to the auctioneers to be doing a little work at home again, although it was comparatively small.

CITY FARM

THE BOARD VOTES A BAND CONCERT FOR THE FOURTH

At a meeting of the board of charities held last night the chairman, Dr. James J. McCarty, read the opinion of City Solicitor William W. Duncan to the effect that the superintendent of the department has the right to exchange city farm products for certain department needs, and has the right to sell the products, but must return the money received over to the city treasurer. The opinion was placed on file. The board voted to expend $100 for a band concert at the city farm on July 4.

Who Will Wear Heavyweight Crown—Jeff or Johnson?

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE all absorbing topic in the sporting world just now is the approaching forty-five round battle between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries. As was to be expected, Jeffries is the favorite in the betting at odds of 10 to 7, but this in reality is more a question of sentiment than cool, unbiassed judgment. Men who make a close study of prizefighters and their form are not so prone to risk their dollars on the white man who has been out of the game as long as Jeff. Then, too, they realize that in Johnson he will face a strong, husky, clever and hard hitting man.

While the forthcoming fight is in many respects the most important ring battle that has ever been held in this country, no fight of importance has drawn forth so much unfavorable criticism. From one angle it looks for more like a battle for dollars than a fight for a title. The spirit of commercialism so pervades the whole scheme that many of the more suspicious have cried "Fake!" and go so far as to say that it will be a picture fight and perhaps a prizefight later. This talk is nearly all rubbish. There is no such thing as "fake" attached to the big mill, nor will it be a fight solely for the pictures. The battle will be fought on its merits, and the best man will win. About the commercial side of the big mill—who can blame the men for trying to get all they can out of the scrap? Perhaps never again will such a large purse be offered for a pugilistic battle. Five years ago one would be fighting for a purse of $101,000 they would be informed that an insanity expert was needed. Not alone is the purse the highest ever put up for a fight, but it is expected that the gate receipts will be a record breaker, and it is also figured that over a million dollars will be bet on the mill.

Best Men of Their Races.

The fight promises to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, in the history of the prize ring. Johnson and Jeffries represent the best fighters of their races, and the result will depend on the matter of condition. If Jeffries could enter the ring with the strength and skill that characterized his fighting before he retired he would lower Johnson's colors beyond any doubt. But the wheels of nature were not made to turn backward, and the man who breaks the laws of nature must pay the penalty.

Jeffries has been in training for many months, and his handlers say he is the Jeffries of old, ready to put up the greatest battle of his career. While the big fellow may appear to be in great physical condition, who can tell whether he can put up the greatest battle of his career? The contest alone will answer that. No doubt Jeff has trained faithfully and worked very hard to attain his present good form, but when he battles with Johnson that vitality which is absolutely necessary for any kind of an athletic contest may be missing. In other words, in my opinion it has been impossible for Jeffries to bring himself to the shape he was in when he gulched in his last fight.

Does any one realize what "coming back" means? It is like trying to regain past years. The prize ring has yet to see the first man "come back." When Corbett beat John L. at New Orleans Sullivan was trying to come back. Corbett led a merry life between this time and his meeting with Fitz in Carson City. He also tried to "come back," and ring history tells you that he lost his title. Is Jeff different from other men? Hardly. It makes no difference whether one leads the swift, merry pace or takes a life easy for a long time. Either method takes away the strength, vitality and agility needed for a long battle. Jeffries is now in his thirty-sixth year, and as every intelligent chap who follows athletics knows it is impossible for any athlete at thirty-five to be within 25 per cent of his form at twenty-four years of age. For any one to claim that Jeff is as physically fit today as he was ten years ago is rubbish. In other words, Jeff may appear to be in grand shape; but, to be candid, he has passed the zenith of his career.

Negro at His Zenith.

How about Johnson? The negro is now at the height of his career. He has been fighting steadily ever since he became a pugilist. Between fights he may be a high liver, but he has never been out of condition. Johnson is as perfect a specimen of physical manhood as any one could wish to see.

Many fight experts refuse to give Johnson anything but a slim chance with Jeffries through prejudice against the colored man. Some say he can't hit, he always backs up, he has not the punch and is always stalling, and a few more things. The more conservative critics concede that Johnson is one of the greatest pugilists that ever donned a mitt. As clever as Jim Corbett was in his palmy days, Johnson is just a little bit better.

Fitzsimmons was considered the hardest hitter, but the colored man

HOW JEFFRIES AND JOHNSON PLAN TO FIGHT

By JACK JOHNSON.

"I expect to be able to go a long distance to wear Jeffries down without running any dangerous chances and then to go in and win. I am not foolish enough to think that Jeffries will be as easy as Burns or Ketchel, for I know he will prove much harder to beat. He may come back looking fit and strong, but I think you'll find that he will not be able to stand the strain and will not show the old speed."

"I intend to let him do all the fighting at the start, for I want to size him up for a few rounds. I want to be sure about his real condition before I take a chance. If I find I can outbox him and can find the proper opening I think I can hit him harder than Fitzsimmons did, and that means he'll go down."

By JIM JEFFRIES.

"I will lick Jack Johnson, and I will lick him quick. I don't intend to stall when I meet the negro in the ring. I don't say this just for the sake of saying something, but because it's the gospel truth. Johnson never saw the day he could beat me. He may be a fairly good fighter. I admit that. He may have been able to beat some good men who were anywhere from twenty to forty pounds lighter than he, but just wait until he gets into the ring with a man who is twenty pounds heavier than he is and a man who has beaten better men than Johnson ever dreamed of being. That's why I say I am going to beat Jack Johnson and going to beat him quick."

latter has naturally lost power. No doubt Jeff has trained hard for the mill and is able to wrestle for an hour with his helper, still he has done very little boxing, one of the most important things for a man like Jeff who has been so long out of the game. He may still have the punch and strength, but his hitting eye, his judgment of distance, may perhaps be lacking. It is too bad that the big fellow did not have an actual ring fight under his belt. One or two contests of the real article would do more to bring these back—his hitting eye and judgment of distance—than months of boxing at the training camp.

Hard fighting round after round is the only way a man can find how much stamina he possesses, whether his hitting eye is good or his judgment of distance poor. Jeffries has not taken part in a real fight since he defeated Jack Munroe Aug. 26, 1904, and there has been no chance for such a struggle at his training quarters, no matter how hard his sparring partners try to hit him. The bitter animosity, the merciless slugging and the test of courage are always lacking in such trial affairs at the training camp. So Jeffries will have to depend largely on his physical condition when he faces the negro.

Jeff's best chance to win is to go after Johnson just as soon as the bell rings and get to the latter's midsection early and often. By this method he might land one of his terrific rib smashers and put the negro out, but if the battle is prolonged Jeff's chances of winning will go glimmering.

When he runs up against Johnson the white man will find that the negro, heavier and stronger than Corbett, Fitzsimmons or Sharkey, is one of the most scientific men he has ever tackled. If Johnson takes his time he will wear Jeff down, for he possesses a wonderful defense and is never in a hurry. As Johnson is not a rusher and wastes very few punches, how can Jeffries, with the old lack of aggressiveness, stop him quickly? If the fight goes more than twelve rounds Johnson will stand off and cut Jeff to pieces with his long left, and if Jeff comes boring in to close quarters the negro will wallop him with the same terrific blow that put Ketchel out.

Johnson is the biggest man physically Jeffries has ever met and the cleverest. He is not an aggressive slugger who rushes in to finish a man in the first round; but, on the contrary, he is a cool headed, crafty, patient boxer, with a phenomenal defense and a hard wallop in either hand when the proper opening is offered.

Johnson is not a believer in taking chances. He is strictly a waiter. He never hits from the shoulder unless he sees a vulnerable spot unprotected. He knocked out Ketchel with one punch, hand to deliver the sleep producing wallop.

Johnson is not a swifter. He believes that swings waste one's energy and are too apparent to a sharp eyed antagonist. Those who have made a study of Johnson in the ring say that while he possesses a knockout blow in his right hand uppercut he is averse to taking a chance with this punch until he finds the proper opening. He has been known to fight many rounds without using the right hand at all except to block the other man's assaults, and in that way he has completely disarmed his opponents by convincing them that his right hand is a useless weapon. Then gradually forcing a rival to regard his right without apprehension, Johnson has suddenly let fly the punch straight to the vital spot with crushing force.

Jeffries, on the other hand, has a style that is just the opposite. His best blow is a left hook or half swing delivered as an antagonist rushes in, while he has beaten numerous challengers with tremendous body blows driven home with his right hand. Johnson has a good defense, but he is not afraid to take a punch on the head or in the stomach. His one weak point is lack of aggressiveness, for he is not a rusher and is deliberate in his footwork. He prefers to set himself before cutting loose a punch, and in that way he can get all kinds of power into his blows. He likes to have a man come to him and mix it up at close quarters, where his great bulk and stamina count.

Having this line on the respective fighting tactics of Johnson and Jeffries, therefore the ring experts are busily figuring out how the coming battle will be waged. It is generally conceded in the first place that the scrap will not be short and decisive, for Johnson will plan to prolong it as much as he can with the idea of tiring Jeff out. Unless Jeffries revolutionizes his general style he will not adopt rushing tactics, for he is too big and heavy on his feet to hope to land effective blows while under headway. But adopting crafty ring science, always keeping in mind that the ring is twenty-four feet square and that the fight can last forty-five rounds if necessary it is predicted that Johnson will be a hard man to corner and beat down unless he loses his head.

a terrific right hander to the jaw, although he had not tried such a blow in any of the preceding rounds. In meeting Jeffries it is figured that Johnson, taking into consideration the white man's possible lack of wind, will plan a long fight by blocking and clinching incessantly round after round until Jeffries becomes tired. Then the negro may begin to cut the boltermaker to pieces, just as Wolgast thrashed Battling Nelson. In fact, the Johnson believers say the fight with the Wolgast-Nelson affair, with the negro playing the part of the new lightweight champion. They declare, in short, that if Johnson wins it will be after twenty-five or thirty rounds and that Jeffries will be gradually worn down to a helpless condition.

Few experts believe the fight will go the limit. None of them can see the struggle in that light. As there is much ill feeling between the principals it is the prevailing opinion that Jeffries will try to bring about the negro's defeat as soon as possible, realizing that the longer the fight goes the worse it will be for the white race. It is admitted that three hours in the ring would be a terrible undertaking for Jeffries and that because of his present condition such a lapse of time would seriously handicap him.

The right hand uppercut is Jack Johnson's best punch. The negro has scored all of his knockouts with this kind of a wallop and has seldom failed to reach the point of the jaw when cutting loose. Johnson has a sturdy left which is of value in attack and defense, but he never depends on that can wallop every bit as hard. As a ring general Johnson classes with the best in the game. It has been claimed that he has a yellow streak, but no one has ever been able to prove it. "Johnson has never defeated a first class man. In Burns and Ketchel he beat a pair of midgets who are just good middleweights, and Kaufman was never a first class heavyweight." says a number of fight experts. These same fellows point with pride at the class of men that Jeffries met—Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons. Now, the trouble with these fellows is that they underestimate the ability of Burns, Langford, Ketchel and Kaufman in attributing superiority to Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons.

Langford is a better man today than Sharkey ever was. He can punch harder and is a better boxer. Burns at his best would defeat Sharkey. Kaufman is the equal of Ruhlin, and the chances are that he could beat Gus with the latter at his best. Johnson has a more effective defense than Corbett, has the strength that none of Jeff's victims possessed and can hit harder than any of them.

Johnson will enter the ring confident of winning. When they start you can go broke that the negro will use all his cleverness to prevent Jeff from landing the terrible right that has wrecked so many men. That means that Johnson will keep on the defensive until he thinks Jeff has lost a lot of his strength and is having trouble with his wind. When Jack is satisfied that he holds the upper hand he will change his tactics and try to beat Jeff down with those sharp uppercuts and stinging jabs that will take the big fellow's energy away and leave him an easy mark for his colored rival. For comparison the coming fight might be called a long distance horse against a big draft horse.

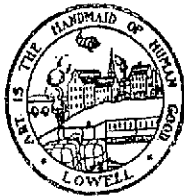

Johnson has been steadily fighting for the past few years, while Jeff has been taking it easy. There is little doubt that the negro has gained considerably by his experience in the many battles since Jeff retired, and the

Let the lamp of experience, the experience of those who have gone before you, shine before your feet.
Be kind. Oh, there is so little kindness in this world. Most of us are unhappy because the world is unkind. In the temple of your mind let none but kind thoughts dwell. Be kind in speech. Kind words are the music of God's world. Do always kindly deeds. Kindness is the pouring out of self on others. Kindness is a little thing, but little things make life.
Be contented with your lot. Do not repine. Rise like true heroes and heroines, superior to your circumstances and surroundings and lift your heads towards the heavens of God. The home of happiness is in the heart, not in the great, big world without. Learn to love labor. Labor is the great law of life.

MISS ELIZABETH IRISH,
Writer of Salutatory.

Idleness is the door of temptation. An idle brain is the devil's workshop. Shun prejudice: it is the enemy of truth and perjuror of peace. Men are governed more by prejudice than by reason. Bias in anything is a hateful vice. Be generous in your judgment.

"In all you speak let truth and candor shine."
Be honest. Honesty is the best policy; not because it pays, but because it is honest. An honest man is the noblest work of God; but an honest woman, who shall speak her praise? Do not be a slave to what anybody is going to say about you. Live lying slanders down. Hold up your head, be independent of them.

Be truthful. Shun equivocation. Be open as the day. Hate deceit: despise dissimulation.
And finally, cherish, my dear, young friends, cherish and hold fast those Christian principles which your kind teachers have all these years, labored to instill into your minds: rather let your right hand wither and your tongue grow dumb, than that you should ever prove false or recreant to the lines of duty stamped upon your young hearts, and graven upon your character by those who have displayed a mother's love and care in the solemn and laborious task of your training and education, to whom you owe a debt of gratitude that time can not efface, nor treasure ever repay.

In conclusion: "Be just and fear not; let all thy aims be thy country's, thy God's and truth's."

The class ode, written by Ruth Paris Wade, was sung in closing to the act of "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."

Summer Shoes For Women

The three points in a Summer Shoe which appeal to the woman who is limited to a modest, economical outlay for wearing apparel are Style, Comfort, Service. The Dorothy Dodd Shoe inseparably combines the first two qualities. The woman buying any of its many models to please some particular idea of style gets comfort also—the one choosing for comfort alone gets the perfection of contour, finish and general effect. As for service, shoes costing one-half or twice as much do not outlast the Dorothy Dodd. Hundreds of discriminating women in Lowell buy this shoe, year in and year out. It is buyable only of us, and just now we have a fine assortment of the popular styles.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Refused Reconsideration On Livingston Park Land

Recommended Report of Appropriation Committee — Voted Money for the Fourth—To Complete Ball Ground at Fort Hill Park—Other Matters

The aldermen met last night and adopted, in concurrence, the $1500 order for a July 4 celebration.

On the question of $4000 as a special appropriation to pay an old bill against the charity department from the Massachusetts Home for the Feeble Minded, it was voted to recommend the report of the committee on appropriations in relation to the same, with the idea of confirming or correcting the committee's figures.

John F. Donnelly Would Cut Salaries

A communication from John F. Donnelly, requesting a number of signatures, requesting ballot expression as to the reduction of salaries in city hall, was read and placed on file. The communication asked that a number of questions be placed on the ballot at the next city election. Among the questions asked was whether or not the mayor's salary should be reduced from $3000 to $2500, and those of all heads of departments proportionately.

Mr. Donnelly included grammar masters in his list for reduction of salary and also suggested the abolition of the supplies department.

"There is no question that the taxpayers would derive a great benefit from this change," says the writer. "It is rather amusing and most absurd how every city government tries to cut down expenses by knifing the appropriations. This is merely a scheme to fool the public, as in nearly every instance of this sort the departments have to ask for more funds to place out the year."

"It is not the common laborers' wages that make our burdens so unbearable and heavy; it is not our beautiful streets that make our taxes so heavy. Neither is it our artistic parks or pleasure grounds. We have none. Hence, the proof of our argument in regard to the extending of the city's money in so reckless a manner is our salary system. Those loose methods are always most visible with the republican members. Their idea is to raise the salaries of those who have extra large ones and more than the city checkbook can afford."

"The communication was ordered on file."

Routine recommendations from the committee on wires were adopted. Leave to withdraw was granted in every petition save one in which remonstrants appeared. The exception was in Main street.

The Charity $4000 Bill

The board voted a recess of 15 minutes, and the republican members went into caucus.

Upon reconvening the matter of the adverse report of the committee on appropriations relative to appropriating the sum of $4000 for the payment of an old bill in the charity department was brought up.

Alderman Walnwright moved that the report be recommended to the committee on appropriations with instruction that the committee obtain from the city auditor figures sustaining the mayor or sustaining the committee relative to expenditures in the charity department. This motion became a vote.

Livingston Park

The Livingston park proposition involving an expenditure of $12,000 for land adjacent to the Highlands came up on the question of reconsideration, and after Alderman Brennan had argued for reconsideration, the board voted 7 to 1 against reconsideration, Alderman Connors being absent. The proposition now goes to the common council.

The board voted in concurrence the sum of $1000 for improving the signal system of the Lowell fire department. Commendation Tracy's order for the appointment of a joint committee to consider the question of baths was adopted in concurrence.

An order for $300 for a drinking fountain on the North common was adopted in concurrence.

The July 4 order adopted by the common council providing for $1500 for the observance of the day was read. The order was voted seven to one, Alderman Byam voting against.

The order for $2000 for the completion of the ball ground at Fort Hill park was referred to the committee on appropriations as was the order for $1000 for a new band stand on the South common.

A joint order closing city hall on Saturday afternoons during July and August was adopted.

An order to appropriate $2500 for a gate at the Edison cemetery was read and adopted unanimously.

A resolution to approve plans for widening Boston & Northern tracks in Middlesex street was passed.

Plans for locations of tracks in Lily avenue and other streets from Lakeview avenue to Draught Centre were read and approved.

Sewers were voted in several streets as recommended at a recent meeting of the committee on sewers.

Alderman Qua and Dexter were appointed on the July 4 committee, and Alderman Adams and Carandichael on the bath committee.

Speaking of the proposed comfort station in Merrimack square, Alderman Carandichael said he believed that the legislature should be appealed to to compel the Boston & Northern to establish and maintain such a station for its passengers. Adjourned.

POPULAR COMEDIAN GOES ON THE FLYNN CIRCUIT

The many friends here of Mr. James Callahan, the popular comedian, will be pleased to learn that he has signed for the summer with the Joseph Flynn combination of stock companies, leading comedian of the Daniel O'Connell company which opened up the week at Palmer, Mass. The company undoubtedly will play the Lakeview theatre later in the season. It is doubtful if any actor who ever left Lowell has been engaged more steadily than Mr. Callahan. He is decidedly versatile and is a hustler. He has had several companies of his own on the road only once met with a reverse.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO NEW YORK

OSTER BAY, N. Y., June 22.—Theodore Roosevelt left here this morning for New York by automobile. He was accompanied by C. G. Lafarge of New York; Miss Ethel Roosevelt and Kermit Roosevelt. J. B. Bishop who with Mr. Lafarge was the guest of the Roosevelts last night, went to New York by train.

$100,000 DORMITORY

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., June 22.—Ground for the $100,000 dormitory for women was broken by Gov. Proctor, attending the Middlebury college commencement here yesterday. The dormitory is to be known as the Pearson hall, in honor of D. K. Pearson, of Chicago, who gave $25,000 towards its fund. The ceremonies were very impressive. Bishop A. C. A. Hall delivered the prayer, after which the governor addressed the assembled alumni.

WOMAN SCALDED

SHE SAYS THAT MAN ALSO BEAT HER

BOSTON, June 22.—Mrs. Pasquella made to a late hour to Judge Bolster in the municipal court yesterday when Aresti Renna was arraigned on the charge of assault with a loaded revolver and with carrying a dangerous weapon.

She said he forced his way into her home Monday morning, knowing her husband and 14-year-old son were in the house, and when she refused to give him money, beat her with the pistol butt and as she lay unconscious on the floor, poured boiling water from a kettle upon her.

The house was aroused by the screams of the woman and Renna snatched open the door and ran to the street. In a moment men and boys were pursuing him through the North end. He was confronted by Patrolman Sullivan of the Hanover street station, raised his pistol and threatened to shoot, but Sullivan subdued him.

Judge Bolster held Renna in $1700 for a hearing June 28.

MISS JANE ADDAMS

First Woman on Whom Yale Conferred a Degree

NEW HAVEN, June 22.—Miss Jane Addams, president of the National Conference of Charities and Correction and head of Hull House, Chicago, was one of the recipients of the honorary degree of master of arts, conferred at the annual commencement at Yale today. Miss Addams is the first woman upon whom the university has conferred an honorary degree, and in presenting her, Prof. Bernadotte Perrin of the university referred to Hull House as "the most extensive and important social settlement in the United States."

Another recipient of the honorary master of arts degree was former Secretary of the Navy Truman H. Newberry, Yale '85.

Commencement day, Yale's 200th, lacked nothing of the stately ceremony which has usually attended such occasions, the officers, fellows and faculties of the university, invited guests, candidates for degrees in their academic caps and gowns and the alumni forming the procession which left the campus through Phelps gate and wound through the central green and back through the university confines to Wolcott hall, where the exercises were held. A sunshiny day left little to be desired weatherwise.

The exercises at the hall, following the opening services, consisted of singing and prayer. President Hadley made the various announcements and conferred the degrees. Prize awards were announced as follows:

The John Addison Porter prize of $400, the largest prize in the gift of the university, went to William Smith Culbertson of Emporia, Kan., a student in the graduate school, for his essay on "Alexander Hamilton."

The Andrew D. White prize in history, to Joseph Shubatz, 1912, of New Haven, and the Golden Club medal to Percy Wells Dwyer, 1910, of South Manchester, Conn.

The honorary degrees conferred by President Hadley were as follows: Master of arts—Truman Handy Newberry, Yale, 1885, secretary of the navy in President Roosevelt's cabinet. Kenyon Cox, well known artist and art critic.

William B. Colley, Yale, 1884, specialist in malignant diseases.

Jane Addams, president of the National Conference of Charities and Correction and head of Hull House, Chicago.

Doctor of divinity.

M. W. Jacobs, acting president of the Harvard Theological seminary.

THE LOWELL SUN

CARRIED PASSENGERS

Airship Made a Passenger Flight This Afternoon

DUSSELDORF, Germany, June 22.—The first regular airship passenger service was inaugurated today when Count Zeppelin's great craft, the Deutschland, carrying passengers, successfully made the first scheduled trip from Friedrichshafen to this city, a distance of 300 miles, in nine hours. The weather was perfect and the motors worked faultlessly. The average time maintained for the complete course was approximately 33 miles an hour, but between Friedrichshafen and Stuttgart, the 124 miles was covered in an average rate of 41 miles an hour. The best speed for a single hour was 48 1-2 miles.

Count Zeppelin was at the helm when the Deutschland rose at Friedrichshafen at 3 o'clock this morning and sailed away on the trip that was to mark an epoch in aviation. The passengers were some of the directors of the Hamburg-American Steamship Co. and the German Airship Stock Co., joint owners of the dirigible, and guests. They occupied the mahogany walled and carpeted cabin situated between the gondolas, and from the windows of which they viewed the scenery as the aerial car swept along. Count Zeppelin steered for the greater part of the distance.

The route was via Stuttgart, Mannheim and Cologne to Düsseldorf. It had been marked out in advance for the guidance of the pilot and was followed exactly. No air was stirring and the Deutschland made her way unhampered through a flood of sunshine. The people of the cities on the line and the inhabitants of all the intermediate villages turned out and cheered enthusiastically as the immense torpedo-like structure with its whirling screws drove over their heads at a height from the surface of between 200 and 300 feet.

The Deutschland swung gently into her landing here at noon and the multitude surrounding the landing yards shouted a welcome. The city had been decorated in honor of the event. The promoters of the enterprise and their guests were entertained at a public dinner.

Regular trips will be made and many tickets have already been sold for the first few days at from $25 to $50 each. The airship is equipped with a restaurant which will supply the passengers with a buffet service such as is afforded on parlor car railroad trains.

The dimensions of the Deutschland are: Length 435 feet, width 46 feet, its gas capacity is 21,852 cubic yards and it carries three motors, having a total of 330 horsepower. Its lifting capacity is 44,000 pounds, of which 11,000 pounds cover the crew, passengers and express. It is expected to be able to accomplish a continuous trip of 700 miles. The airship was built after the Zeppelin model. The count's Zeppelin I and Zeppelin II met with disaster after performing some splendid excursions.

HELD IN $3300

BOSTON, June 22.—Max Peretz, an alleged dealer in "white slaves," who was arrested early today through the efforts of a young woman settlement worker, was held in $3300 bail for a continued hearing June 29, when he was brought into the police court today. Peretz was charged with three offenses against morality, the chief of which was the "procuring and enticing" of Julia Adams, the settlement worker, to go from Massachusetts to another locality for immoral purposes.

Frieda Peretz, a young German girl, who it is alleged by the prosecuting authorities, had been procured by Peretz to go with him to Panama, was held in bail on her plea of not guilty to a charge of misconduct.

The arrest of Peretz and his companion was made early this morning at a lodging house in Dwight street in the South End, where Peretz lived. Police inspectors and agents of the Watch and Ward society had been working together in the gathering of evidence which was procured through the bravery of Miss Adams. Only by being carefully and secretly watched and guarded by Watch and Ward agents and representatives of the police department was Miss Adams enabled to escape assault at the hands of some of the men with whom she was forced to deal in her work of uncovering the inside secrets of the traffic.

Posing as a young woman of the underworld, Miss Adams frequented drinking resorts and places of questionable repute in the South and West Ends, thereby getting acquainted with the class of men whom the state and federal authorities are anxious to convict. It was not long before Miss Adams found a man alleged to be Peretz who sought to engage her, with other girls, to sail to Panama and become a "white slave."

Watch and Ward agents and police inspectors were concealed under beds and couches, inside closets and behind curtains when Peretz held a conference with Miss Adams. According to the officers Peretz told the young woman that in a single season she would be able to make a profit of two thousand dollars in Panama.

It is alleged that Peretz yesterday bought tickets for four persons and engaged passage for a fifth on the steamship Alliance which sails from New York at a single session from Colon, Panama. Another alleged accomplice, Frederick last Saturday accompanied by two Boston girls for Panama.

Peretz is alleged to have told Miss Adams in the hearing of the concealed officers much concerning the gang of white-slavers. He also told her some facts about Frieda Peretz who was arrested with him today.

commendations than any other president has ever secured within so brief a time after his inauguration. We also call attention to his prompt intervention to prevent the arbitrary increase of railway rates; his faithful and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust laws; his enforcement of the law against illegal dealings in stocks through the trustworthiness of what are commonly termed "bucketshops"; the conviction of the perpetrators of the so-called sugar frauds upon the government; and the indictment of those engaged in unlawfully cornering and artificially advancing the price of cotton and unscrupulously forcing which enter to so large an extent into the expenses of every American family.

"We believe that the tariff bill recently enacted is in accord with the republican policy expressed in its last executive duties, the market against foreign competition in which American manufacturers, farmers and producers are entitled but also to maintain the high standard of living of the wage-workers of this country who are the most direct beneficiaries of the protective system.

"Since the passage of that bill the wages of employees in this country have been increased more than $500,000,000 per annum. In a few instances the tariff on luxuries has been increased but on other articles the rate was downward. No increase in the price of the common necessities of life can honestly be attributed to the tariff, for the duties upon them were not raised. We agree that 'it is the best tariff bill the republican party ever passed.'

The remainder of the platform was devoted to state issues.

MAYOR HOWARD

SALEM, June 22.—After being out fourteen hours considering testimony offered in the criminal libel suit brought against Mayor Arthur Howard of this city by Robin Damon, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty at eleven o'clock this forenoon. The case had been on trial for more than a week. Mr. Damon, who is the manager of the Salem News, alleged that Mayor Howard, who before receiving the mayor's city office was also connected with newspaper work, printed scurrilous articles about him.

SENATOR CROW

Presided at Republican Convention

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 22.—After the republican state convention was called to order today State Senator Crow was named for temporary chairman and made a brief speech in which he predicted that the state (elect) would be elected in November by an overwhelming, old-fashioned republican majority.

Following the appointment of the committee the convention listened to nominating speeches. The committee on resolutions reported a platform in part as follows:

"The republicans of Pennsylvania, through their chosen representatives in congress assembled, heartily endorse and commend the administration of President William Taft which, less than sixteen months old, is unique in its record of accomplishments. It has, in its own way, carried forward and developed the policies of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt while enforcing his own and these in favor of which the party has in unvarying patience and gentleness of manner but with great firmness of purpose and unyielding determination, he will, by the time the gavel falls at the close of the present session of congress, have succeeded in securing the enactment into law of more important re-

SUPERIOR COURT

Final Case Was Placed on Trial This Afternoon

Court Adjourns Tomorrow After the Busiest Session of 12 Weeks on Record—173 Cases Disposed of in That Time and Five of Them Alone Took Over Three Weeks

The final case after a trial of eight days' duration went to the jury today. The arguments began last evening. John R. Murphy opening for the defense and continuing his argument this morning. The argument for the plaintiff was made by Gen. Charles W. Bartlett. The final case of the session, that of Kildonan vs. Adams, a coal bill case, was heard this afternoon. Heard for the plaintiff and Messrs. J. Joseph Hennessy and Joseph D. Loughran for the defendant. Judge Hardy will devote tomorrow's session to hearing motions on exceptions and will then adjourn the busiest session of the superior court in the history of Middlesex county. The court sat for twelve weeks and in that time disposed of 173 cases. When one considers the fact that four of the 173 cases alone took up three weeks and four days of the session, or over one-third of the time, it is not too much to say that the vast amount of business transacted in a short time.

SCARLET FEVER

Increase in Number of Cases in This City

The health of Lowell from an official standpoint is fairly good, but the health department is just slightly anxious about an increase in the number of cases of scarlet fever reported. This month thus far there have been 10 cases reported, and this is somewhat above the ordinary at this time of the year. The health department is watching the cases very closely, and the physicians are at work upon the problem of now to stem the increase, and inroads of this much dreaded disease.

Agent Bates said this morning that everything is being done to prevent the rapid increase of this contagious disease. With the close of the schools and therefore with less chance for the children to come together, there seems to be no immediate danger of an epidemic. The number of cases is somewhat extraordinary for this time of year but still there have been months when as many as a hundred cases have been reported. "In my belief," said Mr. Bates, "there is not much occasion for alarm. We are well prepared for any emergency and will protect the public."

The reports at the health office show that the measles epidemic is now completely under control, and the disease among the children has abated to such an extent that all alarm is over. Last month there were 120 cases reported, and up to date there have been but 36 cases reported, showing a very material decrease for the month of June.

Diphtheria is still bothering the health authorities, and somewhat more than the usual number of cases have been reported. At present the board has under observation 32 cases. While it is rather unusual for this time of year, there are three cases of typhoid fever under consideration. Outside of these cases everything in the ordinary routine of the health department is more than progressing in a favorable manner.

A BRIEF SESSION

Police Court Took Less Than 30 Minutes

It didn't take Judge Hadley long to dispose of the cases in police court today, for there were but few and "twice as well, as the atmosphere in the court room was stilling."

Thomas Carroll, a parole man from the state farm, was given a return ticket.

William Rogers got three months in jail for drunkenness, and Martin Rogers went home on a suspended sentence being revoked in Rogers' case.

Louis Pousis, charged with illegal keeping, was granted a continuance until Saturday.

Michael Wach was in court on a peculiar case of larceny from Patrick Finnegan of Boston. Finnegan sold watches on the installment plan and last fall sold Wach a watch for $18 at a rate of $5 down and a certain amount each month. When the watch was almost entirely paid for Wach took it to Finnegan to have it fixed.

MAN FATALY SHOT LOWELL SOLDIER

Youth Did Not Know Revolver Was Loaded Charles A. Taylor's Resting Place Not Yet Known

BOSTON, June 22.—Abraham Berger, aged 28, married, of 85 Blossom street, Chelsea, a master teamster, was fatally shot in the office of the public city scales in Haymarket square at 2:45 yesterday afternoon by James E. McGonigle, Jr., 16 years old, of 135 Stannard street. Berger died at the relief hospital inside of an hour.

Although young McGonigle was locked up by patrolman Costello of division 1 the police are satisfied that Berger's death was an accident.

The superintendent at the city scales is Herbert C. Davis of 288 Dudley street, Roxbury. He gave the boy odd jobs about the place, furnishing him with spending money and assisting him to receive an education.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Davis went to lunch, leaving McGonigle in charge of the office. Berger, who did the trucking for a Beverly street firm, drove onto the scales and seeing the McGonigle boy in the window asked him to weigh some material on the wagon. That done Berger entered the office.

While they were together McGonigle produced a revolver—who owned it even the police claim they do not know—and holding it before Berger allowed him to look at it. As he turned the weapon over in his hands, he said to Berger, "ain't it a peach?"

Then there was a report and Berger dropped. McGonigle shouted to patrolman Costello, while James Cooney, an elderly man living at 164 Commercial street, hastened to the relief hospital.

Berger was removed to the hospital, while McGonigle was sent to division 1. Later Cooney was sent there, as without regaining consciousness. The bullet entered his right cheek below the eye, coming out through the left temple.

Shortly before 4 word was received at station that Berger had died. They had a difficult time pacifying Mrs. Berger when she finally learned that her husband had died. The Berbers have a young son named Isaac.

The police theory is that the revolver belonged in the office of the city scales and that McGonigle did not know it was loaded.

BALTIMORE, June 22.—Gen. Edward C. Jones of Binghamton, N. Y., commander of the 6th Massachusetts regiment of the Civil war, who came here to have the remains of Private Charles A. Taylor of Lowell, Mass., the first soldier killed in the war, disinterred, left here for Philadelphia last night sad and disappointed.

No remains were found, not even a bone or a piece of a coffin to show that anyone had been buried in the spot designated in the old Methodist cemetery.

In a temperature above 90 degrees the blind old general and his daughters journeyed out to the cemetery late yesterday afternoon. Leading members and officers of the department of Maryland, Grand Army of the Republic, including Adj. Gen. Sunstrom, gathered about the lot with the witnesses, Samuel Glenn, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark and Thomas Weatherline, all of whom were sure that the remains of Taylor were there interred.

The general sat in a chair with an anxious expression on his face as the grave diggers dug and dug. After two hours of digging they had opened a trench eight feet deep, but nothing was found.

The general was led away from the futile search at sunset sadly convinced that his fond hopes of finding the remains of his soldier and placing them in an honored grave in Massachusetts had been shattered.

BLAMES REPUBLICANS

Governor Harmon Says They Broke Promises on Tariff Question

DAYTON, O., June 22.—Governor Harmon, addressing the democratic state convention today, said, in part: "The voters of the country have often been imposed upon by tariff taxes levied ostensibly for public revenue, but really for private profit. But they were never before fooled by a promise of substantial reductions of these taxes broken in their faces as soon as their votes were secured. A power so insolent in its control of the lawmaking powers must be overthrown without delay and will be if the American people have not lost their spirit."

"There can be no relief as long as the interests which profit through tariff laws are allowed to frame them, as thus far they have always done. It has just been shown in the most striking way that these have complete command of the republican party as an organization. Inauguration is merely a pretext. They scoff at it. The only agency by which they can be dislodged is the democratic party."

"The election of state officers will turn as it should on the important home affairs which are now the chief concern of our citizens. I shall refuse to be drawn away from these. What the present administration has done in both capitals at once, I shall be doubly glad to have had a part in them."

Governor Harmon referred to the honor accorded him by the democracy of Ohio and the renewal of confidence and continued: "I shall keep on trying to make the phrase 'serving the people' a true description and not a false pretense or a figure of speech. It expresses the vital idea of democratic government."

"The waste of public funds which to the extent of three hundred million dollars is openly confessed, is well worth looking after, especially now when the people who have to make it up are everywhere struggling to meet the cost of living. And neither economy nor watchful regard for the common welfare is possible in Washington while the reign of the favored goes on and the practical genius of our people finds such small expression in the conduct of their public business."

OHIO DEMOCRATS MEET

DAYTON, O., June 22.—A brief ripple in the Ohio democratic state convention opened for its final session today was expected to be the last trace of the fight for an endorsement of a candidate for the United States senate. The resolutions committee last night by a vote of 13 to 2 refused to adopt an endorsement plank, the point which had been made an issue between William Jennings Bryan and Governor Harmon. N. D. Baker, representing Tom L. Johnson and supported by the Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) delegation, led the fight for the Bryan plank of convention endorsement, but he was hopelessly defeated in committee and four of his supporters were retired from the state central committee. Mr. Baker then threatened to renounce the fight on the floor of the convention but it was generally conceded that he was leading a forlorn hope.

Governor Harmon, whose recommendation was assumed, later credited with having absolute control of the convention and the platform was practically elected by him.

Following the keynote speech of Atlee Pomeroy of Canton last night in which he launched Governor Harmon's boom for the presidency, further speeches along the same line were expected today. The platform will declare that the present campaign must be fought on state issues, will endorse the administration of Governor Harmon and will call for the election of a far democratic ticket for the ground that a hostile legislature and republican state officers have seriously hampered the governor in his efforts for needed reform and effective government. The republican party will also be attacked for alleged protection of graft.

SALEM'S MAYOR Writes Poem Calling the World Dark

SALEM, June 22.—It seldom falls to the lot of a chief executive of a city and editor of a paper to have encountered more trials and tribulations than has been the case of Mayor Howard during the past year. His plume has been attacked several times, his salary as mayor seized by creditors and now he is charged in the superior criminal court with libeling the editor of another paper.

Usually the editorials in Mayor Howard's paper, the Salem Dispatch, have been considerations of subjects pertaining to the material or political interests of this city. Yesterday's issue was void of editorials and in place was published the following lines:

Why was I made; or why thus born
The sport of every wayward gale?
Launched on an ocean dark, forlorn:
A leaky, shattered, crazy sail.

Without a compass or a guide,
Without a rudder in a storm,
Without an anchor—where to ride,
And chased around in every turn.

No home, no haven, where to steer;
No chart, a sea without a shore;
No buoy, or light or beacon near;
No one to weep when I'm no more.

Dark is this world; my sun gone down,
No star of hope for me to rise!
The face of all things wears a frown,
Or on the earth or on the skies.

Go on, unliving world, go on—
Darken it if the vengeance of my head,
And when the cup's last dregs are gone,
I, then, shall have no more to dread.

Long have I toiled to live—in vain
For life is bought, devoid of rest;
Long struggled with the strife for gain,
Long kept my sorrows in my breast.

AN AERIAL FLEET AT HOLY CROSS

May be Established in This Country

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Officials of the signal corps of the United States army who believe that the recent great aerial flights accomplished have prepared the way for more general recognition of the airplane as the factor in war and will lead to the establishment of an aerial fleet by the United States government, are gathering information with which to convince congress of the utility of aeroplanes.

The next session of congress, it is proposed to make a plea for an aeroplanes fleet for experimental purposes and for actual service in scouting and carrying messages. The war department has observed that in Germany an airship has been constructed to carry passengers and has information that Japan has been at work constructing an aeroplanes fleet and has one aeroplanes which can carry several men at a speed of sixty miles an hour. Major General J. J. Franklin Bell who is to take command of the Philippine division next December is quoted as saying:

To just what extent heavier than air machines can be utilized in carrying weight is impossible to foresee. But I have personally no doubt that aeroplanes will be perfected in ten years at the most, if not in five, that may be relied upon to carry from three to five persons and probably a small amount of explosives in addition.

Lowell Boys Will be Graduated

The annual commencement exercises of Holy Cross college, Worcester, will take place tomorrow on Fitton field, the spacious grounds surrounding the institution, and promised to be brilliant in every respect, while the attendance is expected to eclipse that of any previous affair.

The exercises have a local significance, too, for two Lowell young men will be graduated with the degree of bachelor of arts. They are Conrad J. Quirbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Quirbach of Gorham street and Joseph D. Pyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pyne of Central street and brother of School Committeeman John H. Pyne of Ward Four. Quite a party of Lowell people will attend the exercises, the younger people remaining over for the "Prom" in the evening, which marks the close of the school year.

Tonight in Worcester, the annual banquet of the alumni of Holy Cross takes place and there will be a big attendance. Rev. John T. O'Brien, the eloquent curate of St. Peter's church, a graduate of Holy Cross, is a member of the committee on arrangements for the events of today and tomorrow.

IDAHO IS FIRST

Best Hitter in the
American Navy

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The battleship Idaho is to enjoy for a year the coveted official honor of being the best hitter in the American navy. A comparison of the shooting performance of the battleships this year was made public yesterday at the navy department. The Idaho made a score with her guns of 46.13. The South Carolina gets second place, with a score of 42.585, and the Wisconsin third, with a score of 40.478. The New Hampshire is in sixth place, with a score of 38.413, the Connecticut in 16th, with 20.797, and the Vermont is 18th, with 17.064, and the Rhode Island in 20th, with 17.046.

The battleships are competing for a trophy, their rank depending not only upon the hits of the guns, but upon their work with mines and torpedoes. While the target practice has been concluded by the battleships, only a few have done the required mining. Of these the Wisconsin stands at the head of those which have completed the competition, with a score of 45.394; the Maryland second, with 37.547; and the West Virginia third, with 22.264. Of the vessels competing for the cruiser trophy for gunnery the Charleston now leads, with a score of 21.075. In the competition for the gunboat trophy, the Mayflower stands at the head of the list of those that have fired with a score of 6.612. Among the vessels competing for the torpedo trophy, the Frolic is the victor with a score of 90.928.

"INSURGENTS"

Are Still Trying to
Depose Cannon

WASHINGTON, June 22.—A secret conference of a number of the leaders of the house "insurgents" was held late yesterday to discuss the subject of further activity at the present session. The question whether another attempt should be made to depose Speaker Cannon was broached and again a divided sentiment on the subject was disclosed.

Statements were submitted by different members, who had canvassed the situation and reports were made of careful count on the proposition. It was agreed that it was extremely doubtful whether enough votes could be obtained to carry through such a motion. One "insurgent" reported that he had carefully studied the democratic side and had found that the democrats preferred to enter the congressional campaign with Speaker Cannon still the presiding officer of the house. Members of the minority, he said, believed their chances for carrying the house were improved with the issue of "Cannonism" still a live one. It was the unanimous opinion of the "insurgents," however, that the democrats would vote solidly to depose Speaker Cannon if the motion were made.

PROF. VINCENT

Discovers Anti-Typhoid
Vaccine

PARIS, June 22.—Professor Vincent last night announced before the Academy of Medicine the discovery of an effective anti-typhoid vaccine which he has prepared by steeping typhoid bacilli in a weak solution of water and sodium chloride (common salt) with an admixture of ether.

Prof. Vincent made a number of experiments with animals, which after being vaccinated with subsequent inoculation with typhoid germs. He also vaccinated thirteen persons, an examination of whose blood after the operation showed that it possessed to a high degree properties destructive of the typhoid bacillus.

Further experiments demonstrated the fact that the typhoid bacilli when placed in contact with the serum of the blood taken from the person vaccinated, lost all vitality.

PERETZ ARRESTED
IS CHARGED WITH PROCURING
"WHITE SLAVES"

BOSTON, June 22.—Charged with procuring girls to take to Panama as "white slaves," Max Peretz, was arrested early today on Dwight street at the instance of the Watch and Ward society.

Evidence against the man is claimed to have been secured by Miss Jeannette Adams, a settlement worker, who dared the dangers of the underworld to assist in the campaign of the Watch and Ward society.

It is charged that Peretz early today secured tickets for himself and four others for passage on the steamer Alfinia, which sails next week Thursday, for Colon, Panama.

Peretz is claimed to have stated that young women could make at least $2000 a season in Panama and come home well off after paying expenses.

REPUBLICANS OPEN CAMPAIGN
SPRINGFIELD, June 22.—The "opening gun" in the republican state campaign was fired here last night at a dinner given by Rep. A. P. Langtry, and several other local republicans, at which the principal speakers were Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham and Charles E. Hatfield, of Newton, chairman of the republican state committee. The after-dinner talk was devoted mainly to discussing the desirability of re-electing Governor Draper, by means of a general get-together movement among republicans to carry victory along the line.

Lieut. Governor Frothingham also discussed the work of the recently prorogued legislature. He spoke in favor of the action in giving over the electric road the control of certain street railways and favored also the several other laws enacted affecting the railroads company. There about 75 republicans present.

NOTED LAWYER'S WILL
NEW YORK, June 22.—The will of Sydney Webster, noted lawyer, who died at his country home at Newport, R. I., was offered for probate here yesterday. The estate is left to Mrs. Webster and their son, Hamilton Fish Webster, but no estimate of its value is made except the statement that the real and personal property each exceeds $10,000.

RUG SPECIAL

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was 16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

TWO PARK QUESTIONS

Boys in Belvidere are playing ball in a vacant lot off High street and breaking windows, but they have no other vacant spot. If the city council is going to grant the money needed to complete that ball ground at Fort Hill park they should do so at once in order that the work may be done before the summer is out. That and the Livingston park matter should be settled at once and settled right by the appropriation of the money.

FOR A WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

The matter of a Workmen's Compensation Act is bound to come up for discussion in the near future to be urged for action upon the legislatures of the different states. It is rather strange that while twenty-two other countries have what is known as a "Workmen's Compensation Act," thus far there has been nothing of the kind adopted in the United States.

The subject, therefore, while an old one in other countries is comparatively new in this and the public will require to be educated upon it before any definite action be taken towards practical legislation.

In 1903 the governor appointed a committee to consider the relations between employer and employee with a view to reporting some acceptable substitute for the employers' liability act which seems to work a great injustice in many cases to the people who are injured and who try in vain to secure compensation through the courts. That committee actually reported such an act but it was promptly killed by unfriendly influences.

Now what would a Workmen's Compensation Act provide? What are its advantages over present methods in cases of accident? Would it specially benefit employer or employee? Would it be better for one or for both?

All these questions can be easily answered by any one who considers the scope of such an act as has been proposed and who at the same time considers how such questions are settled at the present time.

Under such an act there is a fixed rate of compensation provided for every injury to an employee whether the injury comes through his own negligence, the negligence of his employer or of some fellow employee. The only case in which a controversy could occur then, would be where a fraudulent attempt was made to secure damages without due cause or in other words in a trumped up claim for damages.

Were such an act in operation and a man had lost one hand, the act fixed the compensation and there would be no need of any litigation. There would be no delay, no waiting for tedious court trials. The injured man would get his money and that settled the matter. Suppose he lost a finger. The act provided a fixed compensation in a similar way and there was no room for controversy. If a man were disabled for life the act would provide for paying him half his wages for a number of years or else paying him off with a smaller amount in a lump sum if he so preferred.

The details of such an act might be taken from the laws adopted in other countries which could be adapted to every line of industry in this country with slight change. The compensation in accident cases might be less but if legal expenses and the cost of delay be reckoned it would be much more acceptable. It is of little benefit to a man to get a big verdict in court if he gets only half or one-fourth of the money. The effect would be to do away with the present system which operates almost entirely to the disadvantage of the person injured. When a man is injured in a factory under present conditions he is taken to a hospital and the insurance company which has his employer insured against accident liability sends men out to get every detail of the accident, to interview witnesses, to strengthen their own case and weaken as far as possible the claims of the injured man. When the man gets out of the hospital, possibly after months of suffering, he consults a lawyer in regard to a suit for damages. Then comes the question as to who is responsible for the accident. The employer may make it appear that the injured man himself was responsible and that, therefore, he is not entitled to any damages. If a fellow workman caused the accident it will mitigate the case for the company, but if the accident was due to the negligence of the superintendent or some official of the company then the company is directly liable. But even in that case the injured man does not get the compensation to which he is entitled. Without funds perhaps he is obliged to put the case in the hands of a lawyer and fight it in the courts. The court docket of every county in the state is congested with tort cases of this kind, so that it is difficult for citizens to get other cases tried within a reasonable time.

But what results finally from the suit for damages by men injured in a factory for instance? In the majority of cases he gets nothing, and when he does secure a verdict a large portion of it goes to pay legal expenses because these cases are fought to the last ditch. Is not this an injustice to the man who meets with accident in a factory or in the employ of a public corporation of the city? Would it not be very much better for all concerned to have the law so framed that when an accident occurred the person injured should receive a fixed amount according to the extent of his injury? The employer should charge up to running expenses the amount of insurance against such loss and it would probably not amount to as much as is now spent in litigation under the present law.

This question is one that should appeal very strongly to labor organizations. The Workmen's Compensation Act would be a vast benefit to the working classes. It would be a protection against partial disability without compensation and also a protection against the long and wearisome fights for damages waged through the courts already crowded with such cases. So far as we can judge of the merits of the proposition, we believe that every labor organization in the country should take the matter up and push it to the front with a demand for enactment at the earliest possible moment.

In a state and a country where so many progressive methods have originated, we are rather surprised that this method of settling questions of damage in accident cases has so long escaped attention. We believe, however, it will be one of the live issues of the near future and that the time is not far distant when an act of this kind will be adopted in Massachusetts. In this matter as in the legislation for shorter hours and against child labor Massachusetts should be a leader among the states.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton is completing, for the summer, a national organization of boy scouts, begun some years ago. One of the most important forms of this activity will consist in running a camp at Silver Bay, Lake George, where he will train 150 picked young men to act as camp leaders.

Josephine Daskam Bacon (Mrs. Solon Bacon) will spend the summer as usual at her country place in Brattleboro, Westchester county, and expects to devote as much time to a new novel as a stable, kennel, barnyard, pig pen, dairy, ice house, and garden—to say nothing of a nursery and the servant problem—permitted.

An interesting feature of commencement at Yale this year will be the presence of the oldest living graduate, Henry D. Hedges, of Bridgehampton, Long Island, who was graduated in 1838. Judge Hedges, though well along in his tenth decade, is in good health and retains his mental powers unimpaired. He is to deliver the main address on the Fourth of July at the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the flag of Bridgehampton.

Robert A. Millikan, associate professor of physics at the University of Chicago, who has contributed to electrical science as the result of experiments extending through four years, is a leading authority on electricity. He was graduated from Oberlin college in 1891, and received the degree of master of arts from the same institution in 1893. He received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Columbia University in 1895, and studied in the universities of Berlin and Göttingen the following year. He joined the University of Chicago faculty as an assistant in physics in 1896, and was made an associate professor in 1907. He is a member of the executive council of the American Physical Society.

David Ranken, Jr., one of the wealthiest citizens of St. Louis and founder of the school of mechanical trades bearing his name, has decided his life's fortune estimated at more than $3,000,000, to be used in the maintenance and enlargement of this institution, which promises to become one of the largest schools of its kind in the world. The announcement of Mr. Ranken's endowment, under which he reserves less than $200,000 for his support, was made public by the trustees when the last deed of transfer had been signed. The property conveyed consists of land known as the Ranken tract, Mr. Ranken's home, stock in the Illinois Central and Rock Island railroads and of the Mississippi Valley Trust company, Mercantile Trust company, Boatmen's bank and Merchants' Laclede National bank.

At the meeting of the New York Normal college executive committee it was decided to establish a chair of physiology and hygiene. Dr. Margaret B. Wilson, associate professor of natural science since 1906, has been appointed. Three of the associate professors have been retired at their own request. One of the three, Miss Emily Ida Conant (psychology) was the first American woman to go to Sweden, in 1888, to study the Sloyd system of manual training. On her return she introduced the method here, and conducted a class in the work at the Normal college. Previous to that, in 1872, she had studied the kindergarten methods under a pupil of Froebel's and was instrumental in starting the first free kindergarten in this country, in connection with Normal college. She was also a pioneer among women in obtaining the doctor's degree. The others who retired were Miss Frederick S. Constantini (German) and Miss Betty Buchanan Davis (Latin).

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

"The Dairy Farm," that the J. J. Flynn stock company is putting on at Lakeview theatre every afternoon and evening this week, is pleasing every one who has seen this beautiful New England play. It is a play along the line of "The Old Homestead," although going very much unlike it and is full of heart throbs and laughter and replete in human interest.

That Mr. Flynn has used excellent judgment in the selection of his players can be seen by a visit to this cosy little playhouse. Mr. James Thatcher, who is the leading man, has already won for himself a host of friends by his acting in the part of "Nathan," that he is playing this week, and Miss Morine Farr, the leading lady, is also very pleasing in the part of "Lucy," and bids fair to have as large a following as any of the players who have ever played at the park. Performances will be given every afternoon and evening this week, whether rain or shine, for the theatre has been entirely renovated and performances can be given as well when it is raining as when the sun is out, and seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Sherburne's.

Continued

"The measure of your success may depend on the measure of your intelligence; but it is truth and devotion that simplify life. If ever you meet a man who guides a school or church or nation through all sorts of dangers, for example, Lincoln—you will find in him something childlike. His high purpose kills all affectation.

"In this sense preparation for life is simple, because the principle is high and pure, but it does not follow that achievement is easy. The greatest things are simple, but they are not the less hard to attain. I am not so blind as to believe that any school or any teacher can teach greatness. Great art, says Ruskin, never was nor will be taught. It is the expression of the spirit of great men. As this is true of the so-called fine arts, it is also true of the high art of life. Yet, somehow, the spirit of a good school, like the spirit of a good mother, guards and inspires the boys and girls who have gone out from it.

"The good opportunities of life are so numerous that you cannot use half of them, and there is considerable danger that among the things you leave out will be intellectual work; and there is also danger that you will attempt many things and accomplish nothing. In college or out of college, do not mistake the enthusiasm of youth for ability to keep going day and night, indefinitely. At 20 you cannot do that; at 20 the attempt will make short work of you.

"I assume that you all want to lead a square, clean life; but there is no use in pretending that to lead such a life is simple and easy. It is better than that; it is complex and hard—worth fighting for. When tempted, you may need all of the help you can get from God, or man, or woman.

"Every one of us should be democratic, remembering that democracy is not suppression of the rich, but the working of rich and poor on equal terms so far as they have equal merit. President Eliot never said a wiser thing than when he reminded Harvard students that Washington, who had his clothes carefully made for him in London, and Lincoln, who got his clothes where he could, were both of high service to their country, and that no one could prophesy from what class the best would come. Some people are so determined to give the Lincolns a chance that they have no use for the young Washingtons. That is not democracy.

"Not the least part of our mission is to keep undimmed the spirit of poetry in our lives. The poetry I mean is what keeps us reverent, and humble, rolls the mist away from the mountain peaks. It is ill for the nation that loses its poetic fervor. To you the treasures of time are open. Do not adopt a scheme or drift into a habit of life which will not suffer you to catch the heavenly garment which will make you whole. This is another way of saying do not be afraid of being romantic. So long as you have principle to keep from seeing romance in bad things, and humor to keep you from sentimental folly, be romantic if you will, and be the better for it. Enthusiasm is your right and your glory. If it leads you to a foolish blunder, now and then, save yourself by common sense.

"There are few groups of human beings more interesting than boys and girls going out into the world. Is there no word that is yours and yours only, nothing but the old exhortation the old virtues? No, there is nothing but this: Speak the truth, do your work and see the glory of it all. Do your work—not just your work and no more, but a little more; that little more which is worth all the rest. Put your heart into it, and the sky will clear. Then, out of your very doubt and suffering, shall come the supreme joy of life."

Mayor Meehan

The diplomas were presented by Mayor John F. Meehan, who spoke in part as follows:

"It would task the imagination to conceive a position more honorable than that which falls to you on this felicitous occasion. Your feelings at this time are those of rapture and delight. I almost envy your joy. You have parted with the past and your eyes are toward the future. Your dreams and expectations are big with hope and buoyant with rosy promise. You are young, you are just entering the happy morning of life and with exultant hearts are looking forward to the career that lies before you. You are felicitating yourselves upon a period of past successful toil, and you do well. You have undergone your probation, have met the final ordeal of your academic course, and acquitted yourselves with credit to your teachers and honor to your city. The diplomas you will receive, the prizes you have won, the medals to be taken, all bespeak your assiduity and your requirements and give you the right henceforth to be numbered among the scholars of the land. You ought to be—I am sure you are. I see it in your glowing faces—supremely proud and happy.

All here present are your friends: those who love you as the apple of their eye, as the tendrils of their hearts, those who love you with all the fidelity of home and the ties of kindred, are here to enhance, if possible, the gladness of this occasion. Here are the members who direct and govern the schools of our beloved city; here too are the faithful teachers, who have given the undivided loyalty of their hearts and the undivided vigor of their intellects, to the work of education. All are here to give you honor, to felicitate you, to tender you their fervent congratulations, and to indulge the pleasing hope that the successes which crown your academic course are only an earnest, a foregleam, of the greater triumphs that await you in the broader fields of activity, in the great arena of life, upon which you are to enter.

I predict, I asseverate, you will not soon forget this night. Other triumphs I hope, will await you. Your future efforts, I trust, will be crowned with the shining signet of success. You will become happy, prosperous and honored; although God forbid, adverse fortune will greet you as you descend through the valley of the years; yet whether you tread the thorny paths of adversity or walk in the smiling fields of prosperity, whether in joy or exultation, in sadness and depression, the memories of this night will stick back upon you, the trials and triumphs of the old days will rise in the path of recollection and with them, perhaps may also come a feeling of sadness and longing.

But alas, there is no beautiful alchemy of thought, no power of necromancy, whereby we can live life over.

And now you go forth for the fulfillment of your mission. You are yet untired, but I pray you may prove true. Oh! be sure to begin right. Lay your plans in wisdom and prudence and you will carry them to success.

DENTISTS OUTING

At Canobie Lake a Delightful Affair

LAWRENCE DEFEATED HAVERHILL AT BASEBALL

Haverhill Did Not Care to Play Lowell—Wrestling Bout Not on Program—Events of the Afternoon—Lowell Defeated Lawrence and Haverhill in Tug of War

The Dental Association of the Merrimack Valley—Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill, held their annual outing at Canobie Lake yesterday, and a more delightful day could not have been selected. Although hot elsewhere, there was a delicious breeze from the lake all day and towards evening the scenes of the golden sunset through the trees caused the remaining members of the party to rejoice that they had delayed, for but rarely in the course of a year does the sun show such a deep red glow as it shed last evening on valley, field and hill, with such glorious effect when seen shimmering through the trees and reflected from the bosom of the lake.

In the forenoon a ball game between picked teams from Lawrence and Haverhill was the attraction and after a contest of seven innings it closed in favor of Haverhill, the score being 9 to 8.

Umpire Whalen is a Lawrence man and he was roundly abused for giving the game to the rival city. It was intended that Haverhill and Lowell should have it out on the diamond in the afternoon, but it was announced that Dr. Walker would be umpire and he was quoted as saying that it would never be said of him that he decided against his own city. The Haverhill men in spite of the heat got a case of cold feet and preferred other sports for the afternoon.

DR. WALKER AS SKETCHED BY DR. DOWNS

The dinner at the pavilion was one of the enjoyable features of the day, the members of the party singing all the popular songs to orchestral accompaniment.

While the party was leaving the ball field for dinner an incident not down on the program occurred and afforded much amusement. It was a wrestling bout between Dr. Russell and Dr. Fingleton one of the heavyweights from Lawrence. The latter tackled Dr. Russell, long and lank, and much his senior in years. After a sharp tussle Dr. Russell threw Fingleton squarely on his back. There was a struggle for which would get up Fingleton's head, but before either got up Fingleton worked a half Nelson on Russell doubling up his long figure in a manner that might easily have resulted in a broken neck but happily the champion escaped without serious injury and won great applause.

The results of the afternoon sports were as follows: Game of quills, won by Haverhill against Lowell and Lawrence; standing jump, Dr. Scharke; Dr. Donovan, second, both of Lawrence; 50 yards dash, Dr. Scharke, Dr. Lynch second; polo, Dr. Donovan, Lawrence; Davis, of Lowell high jump, Dr. Lynch first, Dr. Scharke second.

The quarter mile walk was won by Dr. Charles Snyder, making record time. The tug of war, however, was the most exciting feature of the afternoon. Lowell first pulled with Lawrence, scoring a signal victory. Then Haverhill put a team of her strongest men against Lowell, but went down in ignominious defeat. The Lowell team consisted of Drs. Hugh Walker, C. E. Snyder, W. E. Knapp, W. H. Pein and F. G. Guilford. Dr. Darrell, who was prominent in the quiet and jumping games was a great rooster in the tug of war.

The committees in charge of the outing were: Lowell, Dr. Walker, Pein, C. E. Snyder; Lawrence, Drs. Frank Leach, Mackay; Haverhill, Drs. Stansfield, Mitchell and Leonard. Dr. Downs, of Lowell, made a number of comic sketches of incidents of the day, one of which showed Dr. Walker ready to serve as umpire in a baseball game that didn't come off. Altogether the outing was most enjoyable, proving conclusively that the Dental association is made up of a lot of jolly good fellows who know how to enjoy themselves.

RAT WENT MAD

Made Furlous Attack on Manchester Man

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 22.—A mad rat ferociously assailing the flumbers of Peter Farnare, his wife and infant daughter yesterday, lacerated the baby severely, knocked a lamp out of the hand of her father as he arose to answer her cries and amid the flames attacked Farnare again and again. A lucky stroke of an ice pick ended its raid on the Farnare household, but not before a patrolman was at the door with a burglar in his mind. The three months' old baby was badly hurt about the wrist and ankles. The fire loss was slight.

To Stop "White Slave" Traffic

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Mann "White Slave" bill, designed to prevent transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of women and girls, was favorably reported to the senate yesterday by the committee on immigration. A minority report was filed by Senator Hayburn, who has led a long fight against the measure in income. The house passed the bill early during the present session.

The measure would make it a crime for anyone to transport any woman or girl for immoral purposes or to knowingly procured a ticket to be used by a woman in interstate or foreign commerce going to a place for immoral purposes.

YESTERDAY AT AUCTION

J. E. Conant & Co., carried out their program yesterday of several local sales precisely as advertised. The shed and the rear of West Third street belonging to the H. H. Bush estate was sold to O. P. Prentiss for $525 and the taxes for the current year. At the sale of the Ryan residence something not unusual at local sales took place. After the terms and conditions of sale had been read and bids were called for, $2500 was quickly made and then $2500, then $3700 and then $4000. The bidding was very suspicious of the bidding, because to him it was so artificial, but the property was struck off to the man who bid $2800. It was not his intention to take it. He was what is commonly known as a "by bidder," just to help the price of the property along for his friend. Then the statement was made by the auctioneer that the property was pledged without limit or reserve to the highest bona fide bidder under his name and over the signature of the administrator of the estate, that he was there to sell the property, not to fool the public, that that was what he proposed to do. It certainly appeared as pleasant to the auctioneers to be doing a little work at home again, although it was comparatively small.

posed to do; and that no bid was to be made unless by a party who was prepared to comply with the terms and legitimate bidding in the interest of the owners very much hurt the sale of the property. There is a law against this dishonest work and it should be enforced. Immediately after the Ryan sale, or at 5 o'clock, the three cottages were sold, including the one owned by W. Hoyt or Pelton estate were sold. No. 12 to John Ball for $1555; No. 11 to John Ball for $1625; No. 16 to John Ball for $1775.60, or $2557.50 for the three plus the taxes for the current year.

The sales were well attended. The bidding, particularly at the Cottage street sale, was remarkable to say the least.

At a meeting of the board of charities held last night the chairman, Dr. James J. McCarty, read the opinion of City Solicitor William W. Duncan to the effect that the superintendent of the department has the right to exchange city farm products for certain department needs, and has the right to sell the products, but must return the money received to the city treasurer. The opinion was placed on file.

The board voted to expend $100 for a band concert at the city farm on July 4.

Who Will Wear Heavyweight Crown—Jeff or Johnson?

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE all absorbing topic in the sporting world just now is the approaching forty-five round battle between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries. As was to be expected, Jeffries is the favorite in the betting at odds of 10 to 7, but this in reality is more a question of sentiment than cool, unbiased judgment. Men who make a close study of prizefights and their form are not so prone to risk their dollars on the white man who has been out of the game as long as Jeff. Then, too, they realize that in Johnson he will face a strong, husky, clever and hard hitting man.

While the forthcoming fight is in many respects the most important ring battle that has ever been held in this country, no fight of importance has drawn forth so much unfavorable criticism. From one angle it looks far more like a battle for dollars than a fight for a title. The spirit of commercialism so pervades the whole scheme that many of the more suspicious have cried "Take!" and go so far as to say that it will be a picture fight and perhaps a prizefight later.

This talk is nearly all rubbish. There is no such thing as a "fake" attached to the big mill, nor will it be a fight solely for the pictures. The battle will be fought on its merits, and the best man will win. About the commercial side of the big mill—who can blame the men for trying to get all they can out of the scrap? Perhaps never again will such a large purse be offered for a pugilistic battle. Five years ago were one to suggest that any two pugilists would be fighting for a purse of $101,000 they would be informed that an insanity expert was needed. Not alone is the purse the highest ever put up for a fight, but it is expected that the gate receipts will be a record breaker, and it is also figured that over a million dollars will be bet on the mill.

Best Men of Their Races.

The fight promises to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, in the history of the prize ring. Johnson and Jeffries represent the best fighters of their races, and the result will depend on the matter of condition. If Jeffries could enter the ring with the strength and skill that characterized his fighting before he retired he would lower Johnson's colors beyond any doubt. But the wheels of nature were not made to turn backward, and the man who breaks the laws of nature must pay the penalty.

Jeffries has been in training for many months, and his handlers say he is the Jeffries of old, ready to put up the greatest battle of his career. While the big fellow may appear to be in great physical condition, who can tell whether he can put up the greatest battle of his career? The contest alone will answer that. No doubt Jeff has trained faithfully and worked very hard to attain his present good form, but when he battles with Johnson that vitality which is absolutely necessary for any kind of an athletic contest may be missing. In other words, in my opinion it has been impossible for Jeffries to bring himself to the shape he was in when he gathered in his laurels.

Does any one realize what "coming back" means? It is like trying to regain past years. The prize ring has yet to see the first man "come back." When Corbett beat John L. at New Orleans Sullivan was trying to come back. Corbett led a merry life between this time and his meeting with Fitz in Carson City. He also tried to "come back," and ring history tells you that he lost his title. Is Jeff different from other men? Hardly. It makes no difference whether one leads the swift, merry pace or takes life easy.

HOW JEFFRIES AND JOHNSON PLAN TO FIGHT

By JACK JOHNSON.

"I expect to be able to go a long distance to wear Jeffries down without running any dangerous chances and then to go in and win. I am not foolish enough to think that Jeffries will be as easy as Burns or Ketchel, for I know he will prove much harder to beat. He may come back looking fit and strong, but I think you'll find that he will not be able to stand the strain and will not show the old speed."

"I intend to let him do all the fighting at the start for I want to size him up for a few rounds. I want to be sure about his real condition before I take a chance. If I find I can outbox him and can do the proper opening I think I can hit him harder than Fitzsimmons did, and that means he'll go down."

By JIM JEFFRIES.

"I will hit Jack Johnson, and I will hit him quick. I don't intend to stall when I meet the negro in the ring. I don't say this just for the sake of saying something, but because it's the gospel truth. Johnson never saw the day he could beat me. He may be a fairly good fighter. I admit that. He may have been able to beat some good men who were anywhere from twenty to forty pounds lighter than he, but just wait until he gets into the ring with a man who is twenty pounds heavier than he is and a man who has beaten better men than Johnson ever dreamed of being. That's why I say I am going to beat Jack Johnson and going to beat him quick."

latter has naturally lost power. No doubt Jeff has trained hard for the mill and is able to wrestle for an hour with his helper, still he has done very little boxing, one of the most important things for a man like Jeff who has been so long out of the game. He may still have the punch and strength, but his hitting eye, his judgment of distance, may perhaps be lacking. It is too bad that the big fellow did not have an actual ring fight under his belt. One or two contests of the real article would do more to bring these back—his hitting eye and judgment of distance—than months of boxing at the training camp.

Hard fighting round after round is the only way a man can and how much stamina he possesses, whether his hitting eye is good or his judgment of distance poor. Jeffries has not taken part in a real fight since he defeated Jack Munroe Aug. 26, 1904, and there has been no chance for such a struggle at his training quarters, no matter how hard his sparring partners try to hit him. The bitter animosity, the merciless slugging and the test of courage are always lacking in such trial affairs at the training camp. So Jeffries will have to depend largely on his physical condition when he faces the negro.

Jeff's best chance to win is to go after Johnson just as soon as the bell rings and get to the latter's midsection early and often. By this method he might land one of his terrific rib smashers and put the negro out, but if the battle is prolonged Jeff's chances of winning will go glimmering.

When he runs up against Johnson the white man will find that the negro, heavier and stronger than Corbett, Fitzsimmons or Sharkey, is one of the most scientific men he has ever tackled. If Johnson takes his time he will wear Jeff down, for he possesses a wonderful defense and is never in a hurry. As Johnson is not a rusher and wastes very few punches, how can Jeffries, with his old lack of aggressiveness, stop him quickly? If the fight goes more than twelve rounds Johnson will stand off and cut Jeff to pieces with his long left, and if Jeff comes boring in to close quarters the negro will wallop him with the same terrific blow that put Ketchel out.

Johnson is the biggest man physically Jeffries has ever met and the cleverest. He is not an aggressive slugger who rushes in to finish a man in the first round; but, on the contrary, he is a cool headed, crafty, patient boxer, with a phenomenal defense and a hard wallop in either hand when the proper opening is offered.

Johnson is not a believer in taking chances. He is strictly a waiter. He never hits from the shoulder unless he sees a vulnerable spot unprotected. He knocked out Ketchel with one punch, hand to deliver the sleep producing wallop.

Johnson is not a swinger. He believes that swings waste one's energy and are too apparent to a sharp eyed antagonist. Those who have made a study of Johnson in the ring say that while he possesses a knockout blow in his right hand uppercut he is averse to taking a chance with this punch until he finds the proper opening. He has been known to fight many rounds without using the right hand at all except to block the other man's assaults, and in that way he has completely disarmed his opponents by convincing them that his right hand is a useless weapon. Then gradually forcing a rival to regard his right without apprehension, Johnson has suddenly let fly the punch straight to the vital spot with crushing force.

Jeffries, on the other hand, has a style that is just the opposite. His best blow is a left hook or half swing delivered as an antagonist rushes in, while he has beaten numerous challengers with tremendous body blows driven home with his right hand. Johnson has a good defense, but he is not afraid to take a punch on the head or in the stomach. His one weak point is lack of aggressiveness, for he is not a rusher and is deliberate in his footwork. He prefers to set himself before cutting loose a punch, and in that way he can get all kinds of power into his blows. He likes to have a man come to him and mix it up at close quarters, where his great bulk and stamina count.

Having this line on the respective fighting tactics of Johnson and Jeffries, therefore the ring experts are busily figuring out how the coming battle will be waged. It is generally conceded in the first place that the scrap will not be short and decisive, for Johnson will plan to prolong it as much as he can with the idea of tiring Jeff out. Unless Jeffries revolutionizes his general style he will not adopt rushing tactics, for he is too big and heavy on his feet to hope to land effective blows while under headway. But adopting crafty ring science, always keeping in mind that the ring is twenty-four feet square and that the fight can last forty-five rounds if necessary it is predicted that Johnson will be a hard man to corner and beat down unless he loses his head.

a terrific right hander to the jaw, although he had not tried such a blow in any of the preceding rounds. In meeting Jeffries it is figured that Johnson, taking into consideration the white man's possible lack of wind, will plan a long fight by blocking and clinching incessantly round after round until Jeffries becomes tired. Then the negro may begin to cut the bullfighter to pieces, just as Wolcott trimmed Battling Nelson. In fact, the Jeffries will simply be a repetition of the Wolcott-Nelson affair, with the negro playing the part of the new lightweight champion. They declare, in short, that if Johnson wins it will be after twenty-five or thirty rounds and that Jeffries will be gradually worn down to a helpless condition.

Few experts believe the fight will go the limit. None of them can see the struggle in that light. As there is much ill feeling between the principals it is the prevailing opinion that Jeffries will try to bring about the negro's defeat as soon as possible, realizing that the longer the fight goes the worse it will be for the white race. It is admitted that three hours in the ring would be a terrible undertaking for Jeffries and that because of his present condition such a lapse of time would seriously handicap him.

The right hand uppercut is Jack Johnson's best punch. The negro has scored all of his knockouts with this kind of a wallop and has seldom failed to reach the point of the jaw when cutting loose. Johnson has a sturdy left which is of value in attack and defense, but he never depends on that can wallop every hit as hard. As a ring general Johnson classes with the best in the game. It has been claimed that he has a yellow streak, but no one has ever been able to prove it. Johnson has never defeated a first class man. In Burns and Ketchel he beat a pair of midgets who are just good middleweights, and Kaufman was never a first class heavyweight. These same fellows point with pride at the class of men that Jeffries met—Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons. Now, the trouble with these fellows is that they underestimate the ability of Burns, Langford, Ketchel and Kaufman in attributing superiority to Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons.

Langford is a better man today than Sharkey ever was. He can punch harder and is a better boxer. Burns at his best would defeat Sharkey. Kaufman is the equal of Ruhlin, and the chances are that he could beat Gus with the latter at his best. Johnson has a more effective defense than Corbett, has the strength that none of Jeff's victims possessed and can hit harder than any of them.

Johnson will enter the ring confident of winning. When they start you can go broke that the negro will use all his cleverness to prevent Jeff from landing the terrible right that has wrecked so many men. That means that Johnson will keep on the defensive until he thinks Jeff has lost a lot of his strength and is having trouble with his wind. When Jack is satisfied that he holds the upper hand he will change his tactics and try to beat Jeff down with those sharp uppercuts and stinging jabs that will take the big fellow's energy away and leave him an easy mark for his colored rival. For comparison the coming fight might be called a long distance horse against a big draft horse.

Johnson has been steadily fighting for the past few years, while Jeff has been taking it easy. There is little doubt that the negro has gained considerably by his experience in the many battles since Jeff retired, and the

Be kind. Oh, there is so little kindness in this world. Most of us are unhappy because the world is unkind. In the temple of your mind let alone but kind thoughts dwell. Be kind in speech. Kind words are the music of God's world. Do always kindly deeds. Kindness is the pouring out of self on others. Kindness is a little thing, but little things make life.

Be contented with your lot. Do not repine. Rise like true heroes and heroines, superior to your circumstances and surroundings and lift your heads towards the heavens of God. The home of happiness is in the heart, not in the great, big world without. Learn to love labor. Labor is the great law of life.

Do not be a slave to what anybody is going to say about you. Live lying slanders down. Hold up your head, be independent of them.

Be truthful. Shun equivocation. Be open as the day. Hate deceit; despise dissimulation.

And finally, cherish, my dear, young friends, cherish and hold fast these Christian principles which your kind teachers have all these years, labored to instill into your minds; rather let your right hand wither and your tongue grow dumb, than that you should ever prove false or recant to the lines of duty stamped upon your young hearts, and given upon your character by those who have displayed a mother's love and care in the solemn and laborious task of your training and education, to whom you owe a debt of gratitude that time can not efface, nor treasure ever repay.

In conclusion: "Be just and fear not; let all thy aims be thy country's, thy God's and truth's."

The class ode, written by Ruth Paris Wedge, was sung in closing to the air of "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."

Summer Shoes For Women

The three points in a Summer Shoe which appeal to the woman who is limited to a modest, economical outlay for wearing apparel are Style, Comfort, Service. The Dorothy Dodd Shoe inseparably combines the first two qualities. The woman buying any of its many models to please some particular idea of style gets comfort also—the one choosing for comfort alone gets the perfection of contour, finish and general effect. As for service, shoes costing one-half or twice as much do not outlast the Dorothy Dodd. Hundreds of discriminating women in Lowell buy this shoe, year in and year out. It is buyable only of us, and just now we have a fine assortment of the popular styles.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Refused Reconsideration On Livingston Park Land

Recommended Report of Appropriation Committee—Voted Money for the Fourth—To Complete Ball Ground at Fort Hill Park—Other Matters

The aldermen met last night and adopted, in concurrence, the $1500 order for a July 4 celebration.

On the question of $4000 as a special appropriation to pay an old bill against the charity department from the Massachusetts Home for the Feeble Minded, it was voted to recommit the report of the committee on appropriations in relation to the same, with the idea of confirming or correcting the committee's figures.

John F. Donnelly Would Cut Salaries

A communication from John F. Donnelly and bearing a number of signatures, requesting ballot expression as to the reduction of salaries at city hall, was read and placed on file. The communication asked that a number of questions be placed on the ballot at the next city election. Among the questions asked was whether or not the mayor's salary should be reduced from $3000 to $2000, and those of all heads of departments proportionately. Mr. Donnelly included grammar masters in his list for reduction of salary and also suggested the abolition of the supplies department.

"There is no question that the taxpayers would derive a great benefit from this change," says the writer. "It is rather amusing and most absurd how every city government tries to cut down expenses by killing the appropriations. This is merely a scheme to fool the public, as in nearly every instance of this sort the departments have to ask for more funds to piece out the year."

"It is not the common laborers' wages that make our burdens so unbearable and heavy; it is not our beautiful streets that make our taxes so heavy. Neither is it our artistic parks or pleasure grounds. We have none. Hence, the proof of our argument in regard to the expending of the city's money in so reckless a manner is in the salaries of the city officials. These salaries are always most visible with the republican members. Their idea is to raise the salaries of those who have extra large ones and more than the city checkbook can afford."

The communication was ordered on file.

Routine recommendations from the committee on wires were adopted. Leave to withdraw was granted in every petition save one in which restraints appeared. The exception was in Main street.

The Charity $4000 Bill

The board voted a recess of 15 minutes, and the republican members went into caucus.

Upon reconvening the matter of the adverse report of the committee on appropriations relative to appropriating the sum of $4000 for the payment of an old bill in the charity department was brought up.

Alderman Wainwright moved that the report be recommitted to the committee on appropriations with instruction that the committee obtain from the city auditor figures sustaining the mayor or sustaining the committee relative to expenditures in the charity department. This motion became a vote.

Livingston Park

The Livingston park proposition involving an expenditure of $12,000 for land adjacent to the Highlands came up on the question of reconsideration, and after Alderman Brennan had argued for reconsideration, the board voted 7 to 1 against reconsideration. Alderman Connors being absent. The proposition now goes to the common council.

The board voted, in concurrence the sum of $1000 for improving the signal system of the Lowell fire department. Councilman Tracy's order for the appointment of a joint committee to consider the question of baths was adopted in concurrence.

An order for $300 for a drinking fountain on the North common was adopted in concurrence.

The July 4 order adopted by the common council providing for $1500 for the observance of the day was read. The order was voted seven to one. Alderman Hyam voting against.

The order for $2000 for the completion of the ball ground at Fort Hill park was referred to the committee on appropriations as was the order for $1500 for a new band stand on the South common.

A joint order closing city hall on Saturday afternoon during July and August was adopted.

An order to appropriate $2500 for a sale at the Edison cemetery was read and adopted unanimously.

A resolution to approve plans for widening Boston & Northern tracks in Middlesex street was passed.

Plans for locations of tracks in Lilley avenue and other streets from Lakeview avenue to Dracut Centre were read and approved.

Sewers were voted in several streets as recommended at a recent meeting of the committee on sewers.

Alderman Que and Dexter were appointed on the July 4 committee, and Alderman Adams and Carmichael on the bath committee.

Speaking of the proposed comfort station in Merrimack square, Alderman Carmichael said he believed that to legislate should be applied to to compel the Boston & Northern to establish and maintain such a station for its passengers. Adjourned.

POPULAR COMEDIAN GOES ON THE FLYNN CIRCUIT

The many friends here of Mr. James Callahan, the popular comedian, will be pleased to learn that he has signed for the summer with the Joseph Flynn Circuit, a leading stock company, as leading comedian of the Daniel Coleman company which opened up the week at Palmer, Mass. The company undoubtedly will play the Lakeview theatre later in the season. It is doubtful if any actor who ever left Lowell has been engaged more steadily than Mr. Callahan. He is decidedly versatile and is a hustler. He has had several companies of his own on the road only once met with a reverse.

Hall delivered the prayer, after which the governor addressed the assembled alumni.

WOMAN SCALDED

SHE SAYS THAT MAN ALSO BEAT HER

BOSTON, June 22.—Mrs. Pasquella made a tale of torture to Judge Foster in the municipal court yesterday when Arsenio Renno was arraigned on the charge of assault with a loaded revolver and with carrying a dangerous weapon.

She said he forced his way into her home Monday morning, knowing her husband and 14-year-old son were ill with pneumonia, and when the refused to give him money, beat her with the pistol butt and as she lay unconscious on the floor, poured boiling water from a kettle upon her.

The house was aroused by the screams of the woman and Renno snatched open the door and ran to the street. In a moment men and boys were pursuing him through the North end. He was confronted by Patrolman Sullivan of the Hanover street station, raised his pistol and threatened to shoot, but Sullivan subdued him.

Judge Foster held Renno in $1700 for a hearing June 28.

MISS JANE ADDAMS

First Woman on Whom Yale Conferred a Degree

NEW HAVEN, June 22.—Miss Jane Addams, president of the National Conference of Charities and Correction and head of Hull House, Chicago, was one of the recipients of the honorary degree of master of arts, conferred at the annual commencement at Yale today. Miss Addams is the first woman upon whom the university has conferred an honorary degree, and in presenting her, President Hadley made the most extensive and important social settlement in the United States.

Another recipient of the honorary master of arts degree was former Secretary of the Navy Truman H. Newberry, Yale '83.

Commencement day, Yale's 229th, lacked nothing of the stately ceremony which has usually attended such occasions, the officers, fellows and faculties of the university, invited guests, candidates for degrees in their academic courses and gowns and the alumni forming the procession which left the campus through Phelps gate and wound through the central green and back through the university confines to Wooster hall, where the exercises were held. A sunshiny day left little to be desired weatherwise.

The opening services, consisting of singing and prayer, President Hadley made the various announcements and conferred the degrees. Prize awards were announced as follows:

The John Addison Porter prize of $450, the largest prize in the gift of the university, went to William Smith Cuthbertson of Emporia, Kan., a student in the graduate school, for his essay on "Alexander Hamilton."

The Andrew D. White prize in history, to Joseph Shelnitz, 1912, of New Haven, and the Golden Club medal to Percy Wells Hildwell, 1910, of South Manchester, Conn.

The honorary degrees conferred by President Hadley were as follows:

Master of arts—Truman Handy Newberry, Yale, 1885, secretary of the navy in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Kenyon Cox, well known artist and art critic.

William B. Colley, Yale, 1884, specialist in malignant diseases.

Jane Addams, president of the National Conference of Charities and Correction and head of Hull House, Chicago.

Doctor of divinity.

M. W. Jacobs, acting president of the Harvard Theological seminary.

Doctor of science.

Thomas Burr Osborne, chemist at the Connecticut agricultural institute.

Simon Flexner, director of Rockefeller institute for medical research.

Doctor of letters:

John Burroughs, naturalist and author.

Doctor of laws:

Charles D. Wolcott, secretary of Smithsonian Institution.

Walter Francis Frear, Yale 1895, chief justice and present governor of Hawaii.

James J. Hill, public spirited citizen and railroad authority.

pay a fine of $50. He appealed and the case will go to the supreme court for a ruling on the constitutionality of this provision in the law. A. J. Jennings, counsel for the mill superintendent, made the contention that this provision of the law is an arbitrary and unwarranted use of the police power of the state. The case was prosecuted by District Attorney Swift and was heard before Judge Dana of Newton. This is the first case brought under this provision of the statute and was brought as a test case.

MAN FATALY SHOT LOWELL SOLDIER

Youth Did Not Know Revolver Was Loaded

BOSTON, June 22.—Abraham Berger, aged 28, married, of 85 Blossom street, Chelsea, a master teamster, was fatally shot in the office of the public city scales in Haymarket square at 2:45 yesterday afternoon by James E. McGonigle, Jr., 16 years old, of 135 Stanford street. Berger died at the relief hospital inside of an hour without regaining consciousness. The bullet entered his right cheek below the eye, coming out through the left temple.

Although young McGonigle was locked up by patrolman Costello of division 1 the police are satisfied that Berger's death was an accident.

The superintendent at the city scales is Herbert C. Davis of 86½ Dudley street, Roxbury. He gave the boy odd jobs about the place, furnishing him with spending money and assisting him to receive an education.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Davis went to lunch, leaving McGonigle in charge of the office. Berger, who did the trucking for a Beverly street firm, drove onto the scales and seeing the McGonigle boy in the window, asked him to weigh some material on the wagon. That done Berger entered the office.

While they were together McGonigle produced a revolver—who opened it—and holding it before Berger allowed him to look at it. As he turned the weapon over in his hands, he said to Berger, "ain't it a peach?"

Then there was a report and Berger dropped. McGonigle shouted to patrolman Costello, while James Cooney, an elderly man living at 164 Commercial street, hastened to the relief hospital.

Berger was removed to the hospital, while McGonigle was sent to division 1. Later Cooney was sent there, as were Abraham Feinberg of 78 5th street, Chelsea, who was employed by Berger until yesterday morning; Chas. E. Hutchins of 139 Spruce street, Chelsea, who replaced Feinberg; and John Donovan of 30 Hawkins street.

Shortly before 4 word was received at station 1 that Berger had died. Patrolman French of division 1 interrogated McGonigle and the witness, permitting the latter to go after they had told their stories. McGonigle, being under 17 years old, was turned over to probation officers from the juvenile court. Until this morning, when his case came before court, he could not be held on any other charge but that of being a delinquent.

The wife of Berger came to the relief hospital yesterday afternoon with Philip Rosenblatt and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Goldie Fixman. They had a difficult time passing Mrs. Berger when she finally learned that her husband had died. The Berbers have a young son named Isaac. The police theory is that the revolver belonged in the office of the city scales and that McGonigle did not know it was loaded.

Charles A. Taylor's Resting Place Not Yet Known

BALTIMORE, June 22.—Gen. Edward C. Jones of Binghamton, N. Y., commander of the 6th Massachusetts regiment of the Civil war, who came here to have the remains of Private Charles A. Taylor of Lowell, Mass., the first soldier killed in the war, disinterred, left here for Philadelphia last night sad and disappointed.

No remains were found, not even a bone or a piece of a coffin to show that anyone had been buried in the spot designated in the old Methodist cemetery.

In a temperature above 90 degrees the blind old general and his daughters journeyed out to the cemetery late yesterday afternoon. Leading members and officers of the department of Maryland, Grand Army of the Republic, including Adj. Gen. Sunstrum, gathered about the lot with the witnesses, Samuel Glenn, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark and Thomas Weatherstone, all of whom were sure that the remains of Taylor were there interred.

The general sat in a chair with an anxious expression on his face as the grave diggers dug and dug. After two hours of digging, they had opened a trench eight feet deep, but nothing was found.

The general was led away from the futile search at sunset sadly convinced that his fond hopes of finding the remains of his soldier and placing them in an honored grave in Massachusetts had been shattered.

BLAMES REPUBLICANS

Governor Harmon Says They Broke Promises on Tariff Question

DAYTON, O., June 22.—Governor Harmon, addressing the democratic state convention today, said, in part: "The voters of the country have often been imposed upon by tariff taxes levied ostensibly for public revenue, but really for private profit. But they were never before fooled by a promise of substantial reductions of these taxes broken in their faces as soon as their votes were secured. A power so insistent in its control of the lawmaking powers must be overthrown without delay and will be if the American people have not lost their spirit."

"There can be no relief as long as the interests which profit through tariff laws are allowed to frame them, as there has been always done. It has just been shown in the most striking way that these have complete command of the republican party as an organization. Insurgency is merely a pretext. They scoff at it. The only agency by which they can be dislodged is the democratic party."

"The election of state officers will turn as it should on the important home affairs which are now the chief concern of our citizens. I shall refuse to be drawn away from these. What the present administration has done and tried to do is known to all and no question is. Shall it be approved or condemned?"

"But good government means the same in Washington as it does in Columbus and if the discussions which the state campaign involves shall help the voters to elevate the public service in both capitals at once, I shall be glad to have had a part in them."

Governor Harmon referred to the honor accorded him by the democracy of Ohio and the renewal of confidence and continued:

"I shall keep on trying to make the phrase 'serving the people' a true description and not a false pretense or a figure of speech. It expresses the vital idea of democratic government."

"The waste of public funds which to the extent of three hundred million dollars is openly confessed, is well worth looking after, especially now, when the people who have to make it up are everywhere struggling to meet the cost of living. And neither economy nor watchful regard for the common welfare is possible in Washington while the reign of the favored goes on and the practical genius of our people finds such small expression in the conduct of their public business."

OHIO DEMOCRATS MEET
DAYTON, O., June 22.—A brief ripple when the Ohio democratic state convention opened for its final session today was expected to be the last trace of the fight for an endorsement of a candidate for the United States senate. The resolutions committee last night by a vote of 19 to 2 refused to adopt an endorsement plank, the point which had been made an issue between William Jennings Bryan and Governor Harmon. N. D. Baker, representing Tom L. Johnson and supported by the Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) delegation, led the fight for the Bryan idea of convention endorsement, but he was hopelessly defeated in committee and four of his supporters were retired from the state central committee. Mr. Baker then threatened to renew the fight on the floor of the convention but it was generally conceded that he was leading a forlorn hope.

Governor Harmon, whose renomination was assured, was credited with having absolute control of the convention and the platform was practically dictated by him.

Following the keynote speech of Atlee Pomeroy of Canton last night in which he launched Governor Harmon's hostile legislation, further speeches along the same line were expected today. The platform will declare that the present campaign must be fought on state issues, will endorse the administration of Governor Harmon and will call for the election of a full democratic ticket on the ground that a hostile legislature and republican state officers have seriously hampered the governor in his efforts for needed reform and effective government. The republican party will also be attacked for alleged protection of graft.

SALEM'S MAYOR

Writes Poem Calling the World Dark

SALEM, June 22.—It seldom fails to the lot of a chief executive of a city and editor of a paper to have encountered more trials and tribulations than has been the case of Mayor Howard during the past year. His plant has been attacked several times, his salary has been seized by creditors and now he is in trial in the superior criminal court charged with libeling the editor of another paper.

Usually the editorials in Mayor Howard's paper, the Salem Dispatch, have been considerations of subjects pertaining to the material or political interests of this city. Yesterday's issue was void of editorials and in place was published the following lines:

Why was I made; or why thus born
The sport of every wayward gale?
Launched on an ocean dark, forlorn;
A leaky, shattered, crazy sail.

Without a compass or a guide,
Without a star to lead me on;
Without an anchor—where to ride,
And chased around in every storm.

No home, no haven, where to steer;
No chart, a sea without a shore;
No buoy, or light or beacon near;
No one to weep when I'm no more.

Dark is this world; my sun gone down,
No star of hope for me to rise!
The face of all things wears a frown,
Or on the earth or on the skies.

Go on, unpitied world, go on—
Pour all thy vengeance on my head,
And when the cup's last dregs are gone,
I, then, shall have no more to dread.

Long have I toiled to live—in vain
For life is naught, devoid of rest;
Long struggled with the strife for fame,
Long kept my sorrows in my breast.

AN AERIAL FLEET AT HOLY CROSS

May be Established in This Country

Lowell Boys Will be Graduated

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Officials of the signal corps of the United States army who believe that the recent great aerial flights accomplished have prepared the way for more generous recognition of the aeroplane as the factor in war and will lead to the establishment of an aerial fleet by the United States government, are gathering information with which to convince congress of the utility of aeroplanes.

The next session of congress, it is proposed to make a plea for an aeroplanes fleet for experimental purposes and for actual service in scouting and carrying messages. The war department has observed that in Germany an airship has been constructed to carry passengers and has information that Japan has been at work constructing an aeroplane fleet and has one which can carry several men at a speed of sixty miles an hour. Major General J. J. Franklin Bell who is to take command of the Philippine division next December is quoted as saying:

"To just what extent heavier than air machines can be utilized in carrying weight is impossible to foresee. But I have personally no doubt that aeroplanes will be perfected in ten years at the most, if not in five, that may be repelled upon to carry from three to five persons and probably a small amount of explosives in addition."

Have You Ever Asked Why BARSTOW BAY STATE RANGES Give the Longest Service?

THAT beauty is only skin-deep is a skin-deep saying. The true beauty of a BARSTOW BAY STATE RANGE lies far deeper than its more elegant appearance. It goes back to the very beginning of the stove.

Rough and imperfect iron castings cannot be seen at first. Stove blacking smoothly applied will cover a multitude of defects. Only usage proves the existence of flaws in the iron work of a stove due to poor materials and defective molding.

Barstow Bay State Ranges

are made of the richest and best pig-iron. They are cast in perfect molds of clearest, finest sand. It costs us a great deal of money simply to prepare a ton of sand for use in molding.

Each casting when it comes from the molds, is subjected to the closest scrutiny. And every detail of smoothing, assembling and fitting is done under the most expert supervisors to be had.

But we are not satisfied with giving you the finest quality range—we also give you the best range in quantity of service improvements. Note these extra facilities found only on ranges made by the BARSTOW STOVE COMPANY.

New Swing Fire Top; Gas Oven and Gas Cooking Shelves which can be used with or without coal fire; Simplicity Damper and Aluminum Plated Oven Rack.

There you have in brief the reasons for the world-wide reputation of BARSTOW BAY STATE RANGES. Come in and look them over, and convince yourself of their exceptional merits.

This preparation has been carefully compounded by the National Formula Committee of the great American Druggists Syndicate, and is particularly effective for those who are victims of the more common ailments of women.

All women thus affected should not hesitate to consult their family physician fully, but when this is impossible this remedy is the next best course, and if taken according to instruction will bring entire relief in a large percentage of cases. It is safe and harmless and can be obtained at any A. D. S. drug store.

Ever Graduated From the Lowell High School

The graduation exercises of the Lowell high school were held last night at the Lowell opera house and diplomas were presented to 219 young men and young women. It was the largest graduating class in the history of the school and the vast number of people who attended the exercises were well pleased with the program as arranged and carried out.

The speaker of the evening was Dean LeBaron Russell Briggs of Harvard University and his address was delivered in a manner which appealed to the audience and the pupils especially.

When the curtain was raised a very impressive sight was presented. Seated on the stage were the members of the graduating class, the young ladies being attired in white while the young men wore suits of black. There was a profusion of flowers, carried by the young ladies, which lent attraction to the scene.

One of the features of the evening was the announcement of the Carney medal scholars, who by their diligent work during the several years they spent in the school earned their reward, and as each name was announced the recipient of the medal was applauded.

The Carney medal scholars were Elizabeth Irish, Aurora Lee Gaudette, Mary Janet Goodell, Charles Thompson, Joseph Leo Crowley, Charles Edward Russell.

Class ode, air, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." Words by Ruth Paris Wedge.

We're thinking tonight of the days
Happy and joyous days,
When merry our laugh, our burdens
And our young hearts light always.
We're sad as we think those days are
And the hour is drawing nigh.
When to teachers true and schoolmates
We must breathe our sad good-bye.

Refrain
We're thinking tonight, thinking tonight
Thinking of the days gone by.
Thinking tonight, thinking tonight,
Thinking of the days gone by.

Dear school, though this life may lead us far
O'er land and distant sea,
No years can weaken the chords of love
That bind our hearts to thee.
And when bright June strews the earth with flowers
On each yet unborn year,
On the wings of love will we return
To thy old halls so dear.

Refrain
We're thinking tonight, thinking tonight
Thinking of the days gone by.
Thinking tonight, thinking tonight,
Thinking of the days gone by.

March America... American Orchestra.
The organization of the class of 1910 is as follows:
President, James Henry Rooney; vice presidents, Rudolph Augustus Sturtevant, Charles Bradford Bartlett; secretary, Ruth Paris Wedge; treasurer, Paul Livingston Perkins.

Another pleasing feature was the announcement of the following names of pupils who have not been absent or late during their school course: Samuel Anthony Clement and Adolph Joseph Grunfelder.
As is usual the graduating class made a gift to the school. The offering consisted of a beautiful panel, reproductions of Della Robbia's children with musical instruments. The presentation was made by James Henry Rooney, president of the class, and the acceptance was by Franklin E. Johnson, chairman of the high school committee.

Dean Briggs' Address
The address of the evening was delivered by Dean LeBaron Russell Briggs and was as follows:
"No good schoolmaster was ever confident that he could fit boys and girls for life. Boys and girls, open and transparent as they seem, are a mystery to those who watch their growth, and even more a mystery to themselves. Life is full of problems which must be met by the individual alone."

IDAHO IS FIRST

Best Hitter in the
American Navy

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The battleship Idaho is to enjoy for a year the coveted official honor of being the best hitter in the American navy. A comparison of the shooting performance of the battleships this year was made public yesterday at the navy department. The Idaho made a score with her guns of 46.12. The South Carolina gets second place, with a score of 42.55, and the Wisconsin third, with a score of 40.47. The New Hampshire is in sixth place, with a score of 38.41, the Connecticut in 16th, with 20.797, the Vermont is 19th, with 17.064, and the Rhode Island in 20th, with 17.046.

The battleships are competing for a trophy, their rank depending not only upon the hits of the guns, but upon their work with mines and torpedoes. While the target practice has been concluded by the battleships, only a few have done the required mining. Of these the Wisconsin stands at the head of those which have completed the competition, with a score of 45.394; the Maryland second, with 27.587; and the West Virginia third, with 22.264. Of the vessels competing for the cruiser trophy for gunnery the Charleston now leads, with a score of 21.075. In the competition for the gunboat trophy, the Mayflower stands at the head of the list of those that have fired with a score of 5.512. Among the vessels competing for the torpedo trophy, the Preble is the victor with a score of 80.928.

"INSURGENTS"

Are Still Trying to
Depose Cannon

WASHINGTON, June 22.—A secret conference of a number of the leaders of the house "insurgents" was held late yesterday to discuss the subject of further activity at the present session. The question whether another attempt should be made to depose Speaker Cannon was broached and again a divided sentiment on the subject was disclosed.

Statements were submitted by different members, who had canvassed the situation and reports were made of careful count on the proposition. It was agreed that it was extremely doubtful whether enough votes could be obtained to carry through such a motion. One "insurgent" reported that he had carefully sounded the democratic side and had found that the democrats preferred to enter the congressional campaign with Speaker Cannon still the presiding officer of the house. Members of the minority, he said, believed their chances for carrying the house were improved with the issue of "Cannonism" still a live one. It was the unanimous opinion of the "insurgents," however, that the democrats would vote solidly to depose Speaker Cannon if the motion were made.

PROF. VINCENT

Discovers Anti-Typhoid
Vaccine

PARIS, June 22.—Professor Vincent last night announced before the Academy of Medicine the discovery of an effective anti-typhoid vaccine which he has prepared by steeping typhoid bacilli in a weak solution of water and sodium chloride (common salt) with an admixture of ether.

Prof. Vincent made a number of experiments with animals, which after being vaccinated withstood subsequent inoculation with typhoid germs. He also vaccinated thirteen persons, an examination of whose blood after the operation showed that it possessed to a high degree properties destructive of the typhoid bacillus.

Further experiments demonstrated the fact that the typhoid bacilli when placed in contact with the serum of the blood taken from a person vaccinated, lost all vitality.

PERETZ ARRESTED

IS CHARGED WITH PROCURING
"WHITE SLAVES"

BOSTON, June 22.—Charged with procuring girls to take to Panama as "white slaves," Max Peretz was arrested early today on Dwight street at the instance of the Watch and Ward society.

Evidence against the man is claimed to have been secured by Miss Jeanette Adams, a settlement worker, who dared the dangers of the underworld to assist in the campaign of the Watch and Ward society.

It is charged that Peretz early today secured tickets for himself and four others for passage on the steamer Alhila, which sails next week Thursday, for Colon, Panama.

Peretz is claimed to have stated that young women could make at least $2000 a season in Panama and come home well off after paying expenses.

REPUBLICANS OPEN CAMPAIGN

SPRINGFIELD, June 22.—The "opening gun" in the republican state campaign was fired here last night at a dinner given by Rep. A. P. Lanstray, and several other local republicans, at which the principal speakers were Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham, and Charles E. Hatfield, of Newton, chairman of the republican state committee. The after-dinner talk was devoted mainly to discussing the desirability of re-electing Governor Draper, by means of a general get-together movement among republicans to carry victory along the line.

Lieut. Governor Frothingham also discussed the work of the recently prorogued legislature. He spoke in favor of the action in giving over the electric road the control of the street railways and favored also the several other laws enacted affecting the railroads company. There about 15 republicans present.

NOTED LAWYER'S WILL

NEW YORK, June 22.—The will of Sidney Webster, noted lawyer, who died at his country home at Newport, R. I., was offered for probate here yesterday. The estate is left to Mrs. Webster and their son, Hamilton Fish Webster, but no estimate of its value is made except the statement that the real and personal property each exceeds $10,000.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

TWO PARK QUESTIONS

Boys in Belvidere are playing ball in a vacant lot off High street and breaking windows, but they have no other vacant spot. If the city council is going to grant the money needed to complete that ball ground at Fort Hill park they should do so at once in order that the work may be done before the summer is out. That and the Livingston park matter should be settled at once and settled right by the appropriation of the money.

FOR A WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

The matter of a Workmen's Compensation Act is bound to come up for discussion in the near future to be urged for action upon the legislatures of the different states. It is rather strange that while twenty-two other countries have what is known as a "Workmen's Compensation Act," thus far there has been nothing of the kind adopted in the United States.

The subject, therefore, while an old one in other countries is comparatively new in this and the public will require to be educated upon it before any definite action be taken towards practical legislation.

In 1903 the governor appointed a committee to consider the relations between employer and employe with a view to reporting some acceptable substitute for the employers' liability act which seems to work a great injustice in many cases to the people who are injured and who try in vain to secure compensation through the courts. That committee actually reported such an act but it was promptly killed by unfriendly influences.

Now what would a Workmen's Compensation Act provide? What are its advantages over present methods in cases of accident? Would it specially benefit employer or employe? Would it be better for one or for both?

All these questions can be easily answered by any one who considers the scope of such an act as has been proposed and who at the same time considers how such questions are settled at the present time.

Under such an act there is a fixed rate of compensation provided for every injury to an employe whether the injury comes through his own negligence, the negligence of his employer or of some fellow employe. The only case in which a controversy could occur then, would be where a fraudulent attempt was made to secure damages without due cause or in other words in a trumped up claim for damages.

Were such an act in operation and a man had lost one hand, the act fixed the compensation and there would be no need of any litigation. There would be no delay, no waiting for tedious court trials. The injured man would get his money and that settled the matter. Suppose he lost a finger. The act provided a fixed compensation in a similar way and there was no room for controversy. If a man were disabled for life the act would provide for paying him half his wages for a number of years or else paying him off with a smaller amount in a lump sum if he so preferred.

The details of such an act might be taken from the laws adopted in other countries which could be adapted to every line of industry in this country with slight change. The compensation in accident cases might be less but if legal expenses and the cost of delay be reckoned it would be much more acceptable. It is of little benefit to a man to get a big verdict in court if he gets only half or one-fourth of the money. The effect would be to do away with the present system which operates almost entirely to the disadvantage of the person injured. When a man is injured in a factory under present conditions he is taken to a hospital and the insurance company which has his employer insured against accident liability sends men out to get every detail of the accident, to interview witnesses, to strengthen their own case and weaken as far as possible the claims of the injured man. When the man gets out of the hospital, possibly after months of suffering, he consults a lawyer in regard to a suit for damages. Then comes the question as to who is responsible for the accident. The employer may make it appear that the injured man himself was responsible and that, therefore, he is not entitled to any damages. If a fellow workman caused the accident it will mitigate the case for the company, but if the accident was due to the negligence of the superintendent or some official of the company then the company is directly liable. But even in that case the injured man does not get the compensation to which he is entitled. Without funds perhaps he is obliged to put the case in the hands of a lawyer and fight it in the courts. The court docket of every county in the state is congested with tort cases of this kind, so that it is difficult for citizens to get other cases tried within a reasonable time.

But what results finally from the suit for damages by men injured in a factory for instance? In the majority of cases he gets nothing, and when he does secure a verdict a large portion of it goes to pay legal expenses because these cases are fought to the last ditch. Is not this an injustice to the man who meets with accident in a factory or in the employ of a public corporation of the city? Would it not be very much better for all concerned to have the law so framed that when an accident occurred the person injured should receive a fixed amount according to the extent of his injury? The employer should charge up to running expenses the amount of insurance against such loss and it would probably not amount to as much as is now spent in litigation under the present law.

This question is one that should appeal very strongly to labor organizations. The Workmen's Compensation Act would be a vast benefit to the working classes. It would be a protection against partial disability without compensation and also a protection against the long and wearisome fights for damages waged through the courts already crowded with such cases. So far as we can judge of the merits of the proposition, we believe that every labor organization in the country should take the matter up and push it to the front with a demand for enactment at the earliest possible moment.

In a state and a country where so many progressive methods have originated, we are rather surprised that this method of settling questions of damage in accident cases has so long escaped attention. We believe, however, it will be one of the live issues of the near future and that the time is not far distant when an act of this kind will be adopted in Massachusetts. In this matter as in the legislation for shorter hours and against child labor Massachusetts should be a leader among the states.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mr. Ernest Thompson, Seton is completing, for the summer, a national organization of boy scouts, begun some years ago. One of the most important forms of this activity will consist in running a camp at Silver Bay, Lake George, where he will train 150 picked young men to act as camp leaders.

Josephine Daskam Bacon (Mrs. Selodon Bacon) will spend the summer as usual at her country place in Briarcliffe, Westchester county, and expects to devote as much time to a new novel as a stable, kennel, barn yard, pig pen, dairy, ice house, and garden—to say nothing of a nursery and the servant problem—permit.

An interesting feature of commencement at Yale this year will be the presence of the oldest living graduate, Henry P. Hedges, of Bridgehampton, Long Island, who was graduated in 1838. Judge Hedges, though well along in his tenth decade, is in good health and retains his mental powers unimpaired. He is to deliver the main address on the Fourth of July at the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the village of Bridgehampton.

Robert A. Millikan, associate professor of physics at the University of Chicago, who has contributed to electrical science as the result of experimental extending through four years, is a leading authority on electricity. He was graduated from Oberlin college in 1891, and received the degree of master of arts from the same institution in 1893. He received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Columbia University in 1895, and studied in the universities of Berlin and Göttingen the following year. He joined the University of Chicago faculty as an assistant in physics in 1896, and was made an associate professor in 1907. He is a member of the executive council of the American Physical society.

David Ranken, Jr., one of the wealthiest citizens of St. Louis and founder of the school of mechanical trades bearing his name, has decided his estate, estimated at more than $3,000,000, to be used in the maintenance and enlargement of this institution, which promises to become one of the largest schools of its kind in the world. The announcement of Mr. Ranken's endowment, under which he has bequeathed more than $3000 for his support, was made public by the trustees when the last deed of transfer had been signed. The property conveyed consists of land known as the Ranken tract, Mr. Ranken's home, stock in the Illinois Central and Rock Island railroads and of the Mississippi Valley Trust company, Mercantile Trust company, Boellinger's bank and Merchants' Laclede National bank.

At the meeting of the New York Normal college executive committee it was decided to establish a chair of physiology and hygiene. Dr. Margaret B. Wilson, associate professor of natural science since 1906, has been appointed. Three of the associate professors have been retired at their own request. One of the three, Miss Emily Ida Conant (psychology) was the first American woman to go to Sweden, in 1888, to study the Sloyd system of manual training. On her return she introduced the method here, and conducted a class in the work at the Normal college. Previous to that, in 1872, she had studied the kindergarten methods under a pupil of Froebels, and was instrumental in starting the first free kindergarten in this country, in connection with Normal college. She was also a pioneer among women in obtaining the doctor's degree. The others who retired were Miss Frederica C. Conant (German) and Miss Betty Buchanan Davis (Latin).

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

"The Dairy Farm," that the Jos. J. Flynn stock company is putting on at Lakeview Theatre every evening this week, is pleasing every one who has seen this beautiful New England play. It is a play along the line of "The Old Homestead," although being very much unlike it and is full of heart throbs and laughter and replete in human interest. That Mr. Flynn has used excellent judgment in the selection of his players can be seen by a visit to this cosy little playhouse. Mr. James Thatcher, who is the leading man, has already won for himself a host of friends by his acting in the part of "Nathan," that he is playing this week, and Miss Florine Farr, the leading lady, is also very pleasing in the part of "Lucy," and Miss Fair to have as large a following as any of the players who have ever played at the park. Performances will be given every afternoon and evening this week, whether rain or shine, for the theatre has been completely renovated and performances can be given as well when it is raining as when the sun is out, and seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Sherburne's.

"The Dairy Farm," that the Jos. J. Flynn stock company is putting on at Lakeview Theatre every evening this week, is pleasing every one who has seen this beautiful New England play. It is a play along the line of "The Old Homestead," although being very much unlike it and is full of heart throbs and laughter and replete in human interest. That Mr. Flynn has used excellent judgment in the selection of his players can be seen by a visit to this cosy little playhouse. Mr. James Thatcher, who is the leading man, has already won for himself a host of friends by his acting in the part of "Nathan," that he is playing this week, and Miss Florine Farr, the leading lady, is also very pleasing in the part of "Lucy," and Miss Fair to have as large a following as any of the players who have ever played at the park. Performances will be given every afternoon and evening this week, whether rain or shine, for the theatre has been completely renovated and performances can be given as well when it is raining as when the sun is out, and seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Sherburne's.

THEATRE VOYONS

In vaudeville James J. Corbett has been offering for several years acts that have pleased the public greatly but none of them has been as clever or as interesting as the picture posed by him entitled "How Charming is My Wife and Last." It is being shown today at the Theatre Voyons and is making a big hit there. There is just enough boxing in it to make it interesting at the present time without giving more than the average woman cares to see. There is fun, instruction and amusement in every minute of the picture and it is well worth seeing "The Russian Lion," tells a dramatic story of two wrestlers who meet in this country after years of separation. The story is a good one and incidentally much interesting training for wrestling is shown. There are two comedies and the musical selections are excellent.

EMPIRE THEATRE

One of the long looked for events, the greeting of Roosevelt, the world's best known man, is something everyone is interested in. And for those who could not give up the time to go to New York to welcome Roosevelt, he comes tomorrow to the Empire Theatre where they may welcome him. This is one of the most attractive moving pictures ever presented, being of so much interest and appealing to so many.

ROOTS, HERBS AND BARKS

You can no doubt recall the collection of roots, herbs and barks your grandmother made every fall for the family medicine chest.

It is interesting to note that the most successful remedy for female ills had its origin more than 30 years ago in one of these home medicine chests, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made a name in immense quantities from these same roots and herbs with extreme accuracy, care and cleanliness.

and Anderson & Reynolds the comedians and the three vaudeville artists for the next three days.

PERIN'S HIPPODROME

Isn't it grand! My, how delightful! and many other like expressions can be heard any afternoon or evening at the Hippodrome at Washington park by the many auditors seated in various parts of the stands, and it is truthfully so, when you can sit in the open air under the blue canopy of the heavens and see a big circus and vaudeville bill without the objectionable features of being housed up in this heat. It is certainly a pleasure and doubly so when you know that the program offered is one of many novelties and unique in all its details.

Don't fail to see Huber's Bears, and also Kluting and his animals, do their various tricks, and also the novelty Japanese acts offered by Little Alright and company, and last but not least the Jennett Trio in their tumbling and comedy work.

Prof. De Voto will render new musical selections and his band still remains of the features of the performance.

New motion pictures will be seen every evening in addition to the above large bill and don't forget our funny clowns are also seen this week in new and laughable stunts.

Matinees at 2.15 and evenings at 8.15.

BOARD OF POLICE

All Up for the South Common Midway

At the regular meeting of the board of police held last night it was voted to reduce the charge for permits for shows on the midway at the South common on the Fourth of July. Heretofore the prices have been rather high. For instance the board (in reality the city) has charged from $1 to $10 for permits while the park department has imposed charges of from $7 to $10 for land grants.

As a result of many complaints having been received both by the park commissioners and members of the police board it was deemed advisable to make the reduction in the price of license.

Supt. Whitteit was present at the police board meeting and held a conference with the board. The highest charge will now be $5, and the reductions on the other sorts of permits are

"The measure of your success may depend on the measure of your intelligence; but it is truth and devotion that simplify life. If ever you meet a man who guides a school or church or nation through all sorts of danger—as, for example, Lincoln—you will find in him something childlike. His high purpose kills all affectation.

"In this sense preparation for life is simple, because the principle is high and pure; but it does not follow that achievement is easy. The greatest things are simple, but they are none the less hard to attain. I am not so blind as to believe that any school or any teacher can teach greatness. Great art, says Ruskin, never was not will be taught. It is the expression of the spirits of great men. As this is true of the so-called fine arts, it is also true of the high art of life. Yet, somehow, the spirit of a good school, like the spirit of a good mother, guards and inspires the boys and girls who have gone out from it.

"The good opportunities of life are so numerous that you cannot use half of them, and there is considerable danger that among the things you leave out will be intellectual work; and there is also danger that you will attempt many things and accomplish nothing. In college or out of college do not mistake the enthusiasm of youth for ability to keep going day and night, indefinitely. At 30 you can not do that; at 20 the attempt will make short work of you.

"I assume that you all want to lead a square, clean life; but there is no use in pretending that to lead such a life is simple and easy. It is better than that; it is complex and hard—worth fighting for. When tempted, you may need all of the help you can get from God, or man, or woman.

"Every one of us should be democratic, remembering that democracy is not suppression of the rich, but the working of rich and poor on equal terms so far as they have equal merit. President Eliot never said a wiser thing than when he reminded Harvard students that Washington, who had his clothes carefully made for him in London, and Lincoln, who got his clothes where he could, were both of high service to their country, and that no one could prophesy from what class the best would come. Some people are so determined to give the Lincolns a chance that they have no use for the young Washingtons. That is not democracy.

"Not the least part of our mission is to keep undefiled the spirit of poetry in our lives. The poetry I mean is what keeps us reverent and humble, rolls the mist away from the mountain peaks. It is ill for the nation that loses its poetic fervor. To you the treasures of time are open. Do not adopt a scheme or drift into a habit of life which will not suffer you to patch the heavenly garment which will make you whole. This is another way of saying, do not be afraid of being romantic. So long as you have principle to keep from seeing romance in bad things, and humor to keep you from sentimentality, be romantic if you will, and be the better for it. Enthusiasm is your right and your glory. If it leads you to a foolish blunder now and then, save yourself by common sense.

"There are few groups of human beings more interesting than boys and girls going out into the world. Is there no word that is yours and yours only, nothing but the old exhortation to the old virtues? No, there is nothing but this: Speak the truth, do your work and see the glory of it all. Do your work—not just your work and no more, but a little more; that little more which is worth all the rest. Put your heart into it, and it will be clear. Then, out of your very doubt and suffering, shall come the supreme joy of life."

Mayor Meehan

The diplomas were presented by Mayor John F. Meehan, who spoke in part as follows:

"It would task the imagination to conceive a position more honorable than that which falls to you on this felicitous occasion. Your feelings at this time are those of rapture and delight. I almost envy your joy. You have parted with the past and your eyes are toward the future. Your dreams and expectations are big with hope and buoyant with rosy promise. You are young, you are just entering the happy morning of life and with exultant hearts are looking forward to the career that lies before you. You are felicitating yourselves upon a period of past successful toil. And you do well. You have undergone your probation, have met the final ordeal of your academic course, and acquitted yourselves with credit to your teachers and honor to your city. The diplomas you will receive, the prizes you have won, the medals to be taken, all bespeak your assiduity and your acquirements and give you the right henceforth to be numbered among the scholars of the land. You ought to be proud. I am sure you are. I see it in your glowing faces—supremely proud and happy.

All here present are your friends: those who love you as the apple of their eye, as the tendrils of their hearts, those who love you with all the fidelity of home and the ties of kindred, are here to enhance, if possible, the gladness of this occasion. Here are the members who direct and govern the schools of our beloved city, here too are the faithful teachers, who have given the undivided loyalty of their hearts and the undivided vigor of their intellects to the work of education. All are here to give you honor, to felicitate you, to tender you their fervent congratulations and to indulge the pleasing hope that the successes which crown your academic course are only an earnest, a foretaste, of the greater triumphs that await you in the broader fields of activity in the great arena of life, upon which you are to enter.

I predict, I asseverate, you will not soon forget this night. Other triumphs I hope, will await you. Your future, I trust, will be crowned with the shining of success. You will become happy, prosperous and honored; although God forbid, adverse fortune will greet you as you descend through the valley of the years; yet whether you tread the thorny path of adversity or walk in the smiling fields of prosperity, whether in joy or exultation, in sadness and depression, the memories of this night will steal back upon you, the trials and triumphs of the old days will rise in the path of recollection and with them, perhaps may also come a feeling of sadness and longing.

But alas, there is no beautiful alchemy of thought, no power of necromancy, whereby we can live life over.

And now you go forth for the fulfillment of your mission. You are yet unfriended, but I pray you may prove true. Oh! be sure to begin right. Lay your plans in wisdom and prudence and you will carry them to success.

DENTISTS OUTING

At Canobie Lake a Delightful Affair

LAWRENCE DEFEATED HAVERHILL AT BASEBALL

Haverhill Did Not Care to Play Lowell—Wrestling Bout Not on Program—Events of the Afternoon—Lowell Defeated Lawrence and Haverhill in Tug of War

The Dental Association of the Merrimack Valley—Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill, held their annual outing at Canobie Lake yesterday, and a more delightful day could not have been selected. Although hot elsewhere there was a delicious breeze from the lake all day and towards evening the scenes of the golden sunset through the trees caused the remaining members of the party to rejoice that they had delayed for but rarely in the course of a year does the sun show such a deep red glow as it shed last evening on valley, field and hill, with such glorious effect when seen shimmering through the trees and reflected from the bosom of the lake.

In the forenoon a ball game between picked teams from Lawrence and Haverhill was the attraction and after a contest of seven innings it closed in favor of Haverhill, the score being 9 to 8.

Umpire Whalen is a Lawrence man and he was roundly abused for giving the game to the rival city. It was indicated that Haverhill and Lowell should have it out on the diamond in the afternoon but it was announced that Dr. Walker would be umpire and he was quoted as saying that it would never be said of him that he decided against his own city. The Haverhill men in spite of the heat got a case of cold feet and preferred other sports for the afternoon.

The dinner at the pavilion was one of the enjoyable features of the day, the members of the party sinking all the popular songs to orchestral accompaniment.

While the party was leaving the ball field for dinner an incident not down on the program occurred and afforded much amusement. It was a wrestling bout between Dr. Russell and Dr. Fingleton one of the heavyweights from Lawrence. The latter tackled Dr. Russell, long and lank, and much his senior in years. After a sharp tussle Dr. Russell threw Fingleton squarely on his back. There was a struggle for which would get the second fall, but before either got up Fingleton worked a half Nelson on Russell doubling up his long figure in a manner that might easily have resulted in a broken neck but happily the champion escaped without serious injury and won great applause.

The results of the afternoon sports were as follows: Game of quills, won by Haverhill against Lowell and Lawrence; standing jump, Dr. Scherke; Dr. Donovan, second, both of Lawrence; 60 yards dash, Dr. Scherke; Dr. Lynch second; potato race, Drs. Donovan, Lawrence; Davis, of Lowell; high jump, Dr. Lynch first, Dr. Scherke second.

The quarter mile walk was won by Dr. Charles Snyder, making record time. The tug of war, however, was the most exciting feature of the afternoon. Lowell first pulled with Lawrence, scoring a signal victory. Then Haverhill put a team of her strongest men against Lowell, but went down in ignominious defeat. The Lowell team consisted of Drs. Hugo Walker, C. E. Snyder, W. E. Knapp, W. H. Peplin and P. G. Gulliland. Dr. Darling who was prominent in the quill and jumping games was a great rooter in the tug of war.

The committees in charge of the outing were: Lowell, Drs. Walker, Peplin, C. E. Snyder; Lawrence, Drs. Frank, Lena, McKay; Haverhill, Drs. Stansfield, Mitchell and Leonard.

RAT WENT MAD

Made Furious Attack on Manchester Man

—MANCHESTER, N. H., June 22.—A mad rat ferociously assailing the slumbers of Peter Furnace, his wife and infant daughter yesterday, lacerated the baby severely, knocked a lamp out of the hand of her father as he arose to answer her cries and amid the flames attacked Furnace again and again. A lucky stroke of an ice pick ended its raid on the Furnace household, but not before a patrolman was at the door with a burglar in his mind. The three months' old baby was badly hurt about the wrist and ankles. The fire loss was slight.

ON A HOT DAY

Don't eat too much. Get a velvet chicken at our fountain and you'll feel better than when you eat solid food. And remember, we serve tea cream soda and college legs at 1c of quality that costs the most money. Try a Sultana Sundae, Mr. Howard, the druggist, 187 Central street.

SWISS BANKER DETAINED

NEW YORK, June 22.—Hans Bander, a Swiss banker on route to the west, where he says he intends to invest $50,000 in Chicago and Goldfield properties, is detained at Ellis Island pending decision from Washington whether he shall be admitted to this country. He was a first class cabin passenger on the Kaiser August Victoria with Col. Roosevelt.

According to the immigration authorities, Bander exchanged frequent messages during the voyage with a woman in the second cabin, listed as Pauline Elizabeth Baughin. The banker explained that she was his private secretary and was travelling second class to save expense. He was indignant at being detained, but the authorities were obdurate.

HORSE AND WATER SHOW

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 22.—On the eighth lap of a five mile automobile race held yesterday afternoon at the Manchester driving park, as the feature event of the annual horse and motor show, George W. Upton, driving a Cadillac, narrowly escaped death when the steering knuckle on his left front wheel broke and the wheel came off. Although going at the rate of fifty miles an hour, Upton applied the brakes so slowly that the car was not overturned, but ploughed up the ground with its axle for a hundred and fifty feet. Upton was uninjured. The race was won by the E. M. F. car, driven by Daniel Sullivan, who made the five miles in eight minutes.

Done by Storm at Waterville, Me.

WATERVILLE, Me., June 22.—Thousands of dollars damage was done in this section in about 15 minutes yesterday afternoon by a hailstorm. The hailstones were mostly an inch or more in diameter and fell with great force, cutting all growing crops to pieces. Fruit trees were also badly damaged. Hundreds of panes of glass were broken in the city.

OPPOSE WORLD'S FAIR

NEW YORK, June 22.—There is mighty little enthusiasm for the world's fair proposed for New York in 1913. John A. Cladlin, temporary chairman of the committee, announced yesterday that he had received replies from forty members of the committee, twenty-eight of whom opposed the project.

Who Will Wear Heavyweight Crown—Jeff or Johnson?

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE all absorbing topic in the sporting world just now is the approaching forty-five round battle between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries. As was to be expected, Jeffries is the favorite in the betting at odds of 10 to 7, but this in reality is more a question of sentiment than cool, unbiased judgment. Men who make a close study of prizefights and their form are not so prone to risk their dollars on the white man who has been out of the game as long as Jeff. Then, too, they realize that in Johnson he will face a strong, husky, clever and hard hitting man.

While the forthcoming fight is in many respects the most important ring battle that has ever been held in this country, no fight of importance has drawn forth so much unfavorable criticism. From one angle it looks far more like a battle for dollars than a fight for a title. The spirit of commercialism so pervades the whole scheme that many of the more suspicious have cried "Fake!" and go so far as to say that it will be a picture fight and perhaps a prizefight later. This talk is nearly all rubbish. There is no such thing as a "fake" attached to the big mill, nor will it be a fight solely for the pictures. The battle will be fought on its merits, and the best man will win. About the commercial side of the big mill—who can blame the man for trying to get all they can out of the scrap? Perhaps never again will such a large purse be offered for a pugilistic battle. Five years ago were one to suggest that any two pugilists would be fighting for a purse of $101,000 they would be informed that an insanity expert was needed. Not alone is the purse the highest ever put up for a fight, but it is expected that the gate receipts will be a record breaker, and it is also figured that over a million dollars will be bet on the mill.

Best Men of Their Races.

The fight promises to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, in the history of the prize ring. Johnson and Jeffries represent the best fighters of their races, and the result will depend on the matter of condition. If Jeffries could enter the ring with the strength and skill that characterized his fighting before he retired he would lower Johnson's colors beyond any doubt. But the wheels of nature were not made to turn backward, and the man who breaks the laws of nature must pay the penalty.

Jeffries has been in training for many months, and his handlers say he is the Jeffries of old, ready to put up the greatest battle of his career. While the big fellow may appear to be in great physical condition, who can tell whether he can put up the greatest battle of his career? The contest alone will answer that. No doubt Jeff has trained faithfully and worked very hard to attain his present good form, but when he battles with Johnson that vitality which is absolutely necessary for any kind of an athletic contest may be missing. In other words, in my opinion it has been impossible for Jeffries to bring himself to the shape he was in when he gathered in his laurels.

Does any one realize what "coming back" means? It is like trying to regain past years. The prize ring has yet to see the first man "come back." When Corbett beat John L. at New Orleans Sullivan was trying to come back. Corbett led a merry life between this time and his meeting with Fitz in Carson City. He also tried to "come back," and ring history tells you that he lost his title. Is Jeff different from other men? Hardly. It makes no difference whether one leads the swift, merry pace or takes life easy

By JACK JOHNSON.

"I expect to be able to go a long distance to wear Jeffries down without running any dangerous chances and then to go in and win. I am not foolish enough to think that Jeffries will be as easy as Burns or Ketchel, for I know he will prove much harder to beat. He may come back looking fit and strong, but I think you'll find that he will not be able to stand the strain and will not show the old speed."

"I intend to let him do all the fighting at the start, for I want to size him up for a few rounds. I want to be sure about his real condition before I take a chance. If I find I can outbox him and can find the proper opening I think I can hit him harder than Fitzsimmons did, and that means he'll go down."

By JIM JEFFRIES.

"I will lick Jack Johnson, and I will lick him quick. I don't intend to stall when I meet the negro in the ring. I don't say this just for the sake of saying something, but because it's the gospel truth. Johnson never saw the day he could beat me. He may be a fairly good fighter. I admit that. He may have been able to beat some good men who were anywhere from twenty to forty pounds lighter than he, but just wait until he gets into the ring with a man who is twenty pounds heavier than he is and a man who has beaten better men than Johnson ever dreamed of being. That's why I say I am going to beat Jack Johnson and going to beat him quick."

latter has naturally lost power. No doubt Jeff has trained hard for the mill and is able to wrestle for an hour with his helper, still he has done very little boxing, one of the most important things for a man like Jeff who has been so long out of the game. He may still have the punch and strength, but his hitting eye and judgment of distance, may perhaps be lacking. It is too bad that the big fellow did not have an actual ring fight under his belt. One or two contests of the real article would do more to bring these back—his hitting eye and judgment of distance—than months of boxing at the training camp.

Hard fighting round after round is the only way a man can find how much stamina he possesses, whether his hitting eye is good or his judgment of distance poor. Jeffries has not taken part in a real fight since he defeated Jack Munroe Aug. 26, 1904, and there has been no chance for such a struggle at his training quarters, no matter how hard his sparring partners try to hit him. The bitter animosity, the merciless slugging and the test of courage are always lacking in such trial affairs at the training camp. So Jeffries will have to depend largely on his physical condition when he faces the negro.

Jeff's best chance to win is to go after Johnson just as soon as the bell rings and get to the latter's midsection early and often. By this method he might land one of his terrific rib smashers and put the negro out, but if the battle is prolonged Jeff's chances of winning will go glimmering.

When he runs up against Johnson the white man will find that the negro, heavier and stronger than Corbett, Fitzsimmons or Sharkey, is one of the most scientific men he has ever tackled. If Johnson takes his time he will wear Jeff down, for he possesses a wonderful defense and is never in a hurry. As Johnson is not a rusher and wastes very few punches, how can Jeffries, with the old lack of aggressiveness, stop him quickly? If the fight goes more than twelve rounds Johnson will stand off and cut Jeff to pieces with his long left, and if Jeff comes boring in to close quarters the negro will wallop him with the same terrific blow that put Ketchel out.

Johnson is the biggest man physically Jeffries has ever met and the cleverest. He is not an aggressive slugger who rushes in to finish a man in the first round; but, on the contrary, he is a cool headed, crafty, patient boxer, with a phenomenal defense and a hard wallop in either hand when the proper opening is offered.

Johnson is not a believer in taking chances. He is strictly a waiter. He never hits from the shoulder unless he has a vulnerable spot unprotected. He knocked out Ketchel with one punch, hand to deliver the sleep producing wallop.

Johnson is not a swifter. He believes that swings waste one's energy and are too apparent to a sharp eyed antagonist. Those who have made a study of Johnson in the ring say that while he possesses a knockout blow in his right hand uppercut he is averse to taking a chance with this punch until he finds the proper opening. He has been known to fight many rounds without using his right hand at all except to block the other man's assaults, and in that way he has completely disarmed his opponent by convincing them that his right hand is a useless weapon. Then gradually forcing a rival to regard his right without apprehension, Johnson has suddenly let fly the punch straight to the vital spot with crushing force.

Jeffries, on the other hand, has a style that is just the opposite. His best blow is a left hook or half swing delivered as an antagonist rushes in, while he has beaten numerous challengers with tremendous body blows driven home with his right hand. Johnson has a good defense, but he is not afraid to take a punch on the head or in the stomach. His one weak point is lack of aggressiveness, for he is not a rusher and he is deliberate in his footwork. He prefers to set himself before cutting loose with his power into his blows. He likes to have a man come to him and mix it up at close quarters, where his great bulk and stamina count.

Having this line on the respective fighting tactics of Johnson and Jeffries, therefore the ring experts are busily figuring out how the coming battle will be waged. It is generally conceded in the first place that the scrap will not be short and decisive, for Johnson will plan to prolong it as much as he can with the idea of tiring Jeff out. Unless Jeffries revolutionizes his general style he will not adopt rushing tactics, for he is too big and heavy on his feet to hope to land effective blows while under headway. But adopting crafty tactics, always keeping in mind that the ring is twenty-four feet square and that the fight can last forty-five rounds if necessary it is predicted that Johnson will be a hard man to corner and beat down unless he loses his head.

a terrific right hander to the jaw, although he had not tried such a blow in any of the preceding rounds. In meeting Jeffries it is figured that Johnson, taking into consideration the white man's possible lack of wind, will plan a long fight by blocking and clinching incessantly round after round until Jeffries becomes tired. Then the negro may begin to cut the bolliemaker to pieces, just as Wolgast triumphed battling Nelson. In fact, the Johnson believers say the fight with Jeffries will simply be a repetition of the Wolgast-Nelson affair, with the negro playing the part of the new lightweight champion. They declare, in short, that if Johnson wins it will be after twenty-five or thirty rounds, and that Jeffries will be gradually worn down to a helpless condition.

Few experts believe the fight will go the limit. None of them can see the struggle in that light. As there is much ill feeling between the principals it is the prevailing opinion that Jeffries will try to bring about the negro's defeat as soon as possible, realizing that the longer the fight goes the worse it will be for the white race. It is admitted that three hours in the ring would be a terrible undertaking for Jeffries and that because of his present condition such a lapse of time would seriously handicap him.

The right hand uppercut is Jack Johnson's best punch. The negro has scored all of his knockouts with this kind of a wallop and has seldom failed to reach the point of the jaw when cutting loose. Johnson has a sturdy left which is of value in attack and defense, but he never depends on that can wallop every bit as hard. As a ring general Johnson classes with the best in the game. It has been claimed that he has a yellow streak, but no one has ever been able to prove it. "Johnson has never defeated a first class man. In Burns and Ketchel he beat a pair of midweights who are just good middleweights, and Kaufman was never a first class heavyweight," say a number of fight experts. These same fellows point with pride at the class of men that Jeffries met—Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons. Now, the trouble with these fellows is that they underestimate the ability of Burns, Langford, Ketchel and Kaufman in attributing superiority to Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons.

Langford is a better man today than Sharkey ever was. He can punch harder and is a better boxer. Burns at his best would defeat Sharkey. Kaufman is the equal of Ruhlin, and the chances are that he could beat Gus with the latter at his best. Johnson has a more effective defense than Corbett, has the strength that none of Jeff's victims possessed and can hit harder than any of them.

Johnson will enter the ring confident of winning. When they start you can go broke that the negro will use all his cleverness to prevent Jeff from landing the terrible right that has wrecked so many men. That means that Johnson will keep on the defensive until he thinks Jeff has lost a lot of his strength and is having trouble with his wind. When Jack is satisfied that he holds the upper hand he will change his tactics and try to beat Jeff down with those sharp uppercuts and stinging jabs that will take the big fellow's energy away and leave him an easy mark for his colored rival. For comparison the coming fight might be called a long distance horse against a big draft horse.

Let the lamp of experience, the experience of those who have gone before you, shine before your feet.

Be kind. Oh, there is so little kindness in this world. Most of us are unhappy because the world is unkind. In the temple of your mind let none but kind thoughts dwell. Be kind in speech. Kind words are the music of God's world. Do always kindly deeds. Kindness is the pouring out of self on others. Kindness is a little thing, but little things make life.

Be contented with your lot. Do not repine. Rise like true heroes and heroines, superior to your circumstances and surroundings and lift your heads towards the heavens of God. The home of happiness is in the heart, not in the great, big world without.

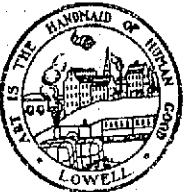

Learn to love labor. Labor is the great law of life.

CHARLES T. PILOTE, Valedictorian.

Idleness is the door of temptation. An idle brain is the devil's workshop. Shun prejudice: it is the enemy of truth and purveyor of peace. Men are governed more by prejudice than by reason. Bias in anything is a hateful vice. Be generous in your judgment.

"In all you speak let truth and candor shine."
Be honest. Honesty is the best policy; not because it pays, but because it is honest. An honest man is the noblest work of God; but an honest woman, who shall speak her praise? Do not be a slave to what anybody is going to say about you. Live lying slanders down. Hold up your head, be independent of them.

Be truthful. Shun equivocation. Be open as the day. Hate deceit: despise dissimulation.

And finally, cherish, my dear, young friends, cherish, and hold fast those Christian principles which your kind teachers have all these years, labored to instill into your minds; rather let your right hand withdraw from your tongue, grow dumb, than that you should ever prove false or recreant to the lines of duty stamped upon your young hearts, and graven upon your character by those who have displayed a mother's love and care in the solemn and laborious task of your training and education, to whom you owe a debt of gratitude that time can not efface, nor treasure ever repay.

In conclusion: "Be just and fear not: let all thy aims be thy country's, thy God's and truth's."

The class ode, written by Ruth Paris Wedge, was sung in closing to the air of "Fighting on the Old Camp Ground."

Dorothy Dodd

Summer Shoes For Women

The three points in a Summer Shoe which appeal to the woman who is limited to a modest, economical outlay for wearing apparel are Style, Comfort, Service. The Dorothy Dodd Shoe inseparably combines the first two qualities. The woman buying any of its many models to please some particular idea of style gets comfort also—the one choosing for comfort alone gets the perfection of contour, finish and general effect. As for service, shoes costing one-half or twice as much do not outlast the Dorothy Dodd. Hundreds of discriminating women in Lowell buy this shoe, year in and year out. It is buyable only of us, and just now we have a fine assortment of the popular styles.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Refused Reconsideration On Livingston Park Land

Recommended Report of Appropriation Committee — Voted Money for the Fourth—To Complete Ball Ground at Fort Hill Park—Other Matters

The aldermen met last night and adopted, in concurrence, the $1600 order for a July 4 celebration.

On the question of $4000 as a special appropriation to pay an old bill against the charity department from the Massachusetts Home for the People, it was voted to recommit the report of the committee on appropriations in relation to the same, with the idea of confirming or correcting the committee's figures.

John F. Donnelly Would Cut Salaries

A communication from John F. Donnelly and bearing a number of signatures, requesting ballot expression as to the reduction of salaries at city hall, was read and placed on file. The communication asked that a number of questions be placed on the ballot at the next city election. Among the questions asked was whether or not the mayor's salary should be reduced from $3000 to $2000, and those of all heads of departments proportionately.

Mr. Donnelly included grammar errors in his list for reduction of salary and also suggested the abolition of the supplies department.

"There is no question that the taxpayers would derive a great benefit from this change," says the writer. "It is rather amusing and most absurd how every city government tries to cut down expenses by killing the appropriations. This is merely a scheme to fool the public, as in nearly every instance of this sort the departments have to ask for more funds to piece out the year."

"It is not the common laborer's wages that make our burdens so unbearable and heavy; it is not our beautiful streets that make our taxes so heavy. Neither is it our artistic parks or pleasure grounds. We have none. Hence, the proof of our argument in regard to the expending of the city's money in so reckless a manner is our salary system. These loose methods are always most visible with the republican members. Their idea is to raise the salaries of those who have extra large ones and more than the city checkbook can afford."

The communication was ordered on file.

Routine recommendations from the committee on wires were adopted. Leave to withdraw was granted in every petition save one in which no monogram appeared. The exception was in Main street.

The Charity $4000 Bill

The board voted a recess of 15 minutes, and the republican members went into caucus.

Upon reconsidering the matter of the adverse report of the committee on appropriations relative to appropriation of the sum of $4000 for the payment of an old bill in the charity department was brought up.

Alderman Walcott moved that the report be recommitted to the committee on appropriations with instructions that the committee obtain from the city auditor figures sustaining the mayor or sustaining the committee relative to expenditures in the charity department. This motion became a vote.

WOMAN SCALDED

SHE SAYS THAT MAN ALSO BEAT HER

BOSTON, June 22.—Mrs. Pasquella, 14-year-old daughter of Judge Bolster in the municipal court yesterday when Arest Renna was arraigned on the charge of assault with a loaded revolver and with carrying a dangerous weapon.

She said she forced his way into her home Monday morning, knowing her husband and 14-year-old son were in the house, and when she refused to give him money, beat her with the pistol butt and as she lay unconscious on the floor, poured boiling water from a kettle upon her.

The house was aroused by the screams of the woman and Renna snatched open the door and ran to the street.

In a moment men and boys were pursuing him through the North end. He was confronted by Patrolman Sullivan of the Hanover street station, raised his pistol and threatened to shoot, but Sullivan subdued him.

Judge Bolster held Renna in $1700 for a hearing June 28.
